$50,000 FUND TO MAKE STUDY OF NURSING HOMES*Emergency Appropriation Would Be Used to Hire Safety Inspectors to Go Over 700
Places.By EDWARD H. THORNTON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 25—A $50,000 emergency appropriation to hire safety inspectors to make a thorough study of the 700 nursing homes in Missouri will be requested immediately from the State Legislature, Gov.
James T. Blair announced today.The Governor's request, which is expected to be sent to both houses of the Legislature later today, is an outgrowth of the Katie Jane nursing home fire at Warrenton, Mo., where 72 patients died Feb. 17.As proposed by Blair, the $50,000 would be spent at the rate of about $10,000 a month in the next five months in an effort to reduce fire hazards in Missouri's nursing homes as quickly as possible and, at the same time, to obtain information to guide state legislators in enacting new laws pertaining to nursing homes.Before announcing his intention to ask for a $50,000 appropriation, the Governor conferred with State Senator John W.
Noble (Dem.), of Kennett, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Senator
Albert M. Spradling Jr. (Dem.), Cape Girardeau, author of a bill which would give the state division of health stronger authority in regulating fire safety in nursing homes.Approximate Need.
Noble and Spradling agreed that $50,000 was about the amount needed at present. Gov.
Blair also planned to talk with Representative Joseph W. Martino (Dem.), of St. Louis, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, before sending his request to the Legislature.The Governor pointed out that the Division of Health has no safety inspectors. Those who do work for the division as part of their duties are actually health inspectors, he explained.Those who would be employed if the $50,000 in additional funds is made available would be safety inspectors.They would look for hazards of any kind, whether they involved construction of nursing homes or fire safety.W. Thad Fife, director of safety and fire prevention for the State Department of Public Health and Welfare, has been lent to the Health Division to participate in the investigation of the Warrenton fire.The resolution calling for a special legislative committee—five members from each house —to look into the Warrenton disaster was introduced last week by Senator George A.
Spencer of Columbia, Democratic floor leader, an Senator Michael Kinney of St. Louis.Objections to the resolution were raised by Senators C. R.
Hawkins of Brimley and Leo
J. Rozier of Perryville, both Republicans. They charged that a legislative investigation of this kind would be useless.Hawkins said it would be ridiculous to have legislators undertake such an inquiry when "experts" like the Highway Patrol and St. Louis Police Department arson squad had already started an inquiry.Legislators are not experienced in this field, Hawkins contended.Rozier, noting that the Senate has already perfected the Spradling bill, said adoption of the resolution would indicate that the Public Health Committee, which considered the bill, and the Senate itself did not

TO INTRODUCE NEW PAY BILLMost of $1,362,501 Annual Increase Would Go to Patrolmen — Rank of Corporal to Be Eliminated.The Board of Police Commissioners announced today it would take immediate steps to introduce a new police pay bill in the Missouri Legislature, with most of the $1,362,501 annual increase going to patrolmen.It also was announced that the rank of corporal would be eliminated gradually, in the interest of better promotion opportunities through a system of "merit ratings."Emphasizing the morale effect of the present low pay rates, described as "practically the bottom of the list of cities over 500,000 population," the board announced it was forced to cancel the next class of probationaries in the Police Academy because of lack of qualified applicants."The condition," the board statement declared, "is due, we believe, to the present pay schedule and points up the need for the pay bill."Proposed pay increases, and present pay rates, would be as follows: Chief of Police, $13,000, from $9999; Assistant Chief, $9800, from $8180; Chief of Detectives and Inspector, $8905, from $7708; majors, $8050,from $6908; captains, $7000, from $6080.
Lieutenants, $6300, from $5480; sergeants, $5800, from $5440 and $4920, depending on length of service in rank; corporals, $5500, from $4680 and $4620; patrolmen, $5320, from $4620 (15 years and over), $5200, from $4500 (fourth year),
$5000, from $4440 (third year), $4900, from $4380 (second year), $4600, from $4320 (first year); probationary, $4400 from $4080; turnkeys, $4200 from $3600.The percentage of increase would vary from 6½ per cent for first-year patrolmen to 30 per cent for the chief. Chief Jeremiah O'Connell, the board said, has not had a salary increase in six years "and is the lowest paid chief in any city of 500,000 population or over."In support of the proposed changes in pay, the board said:
"We believe an adequate pay scale is basic to efficient law enforcement. This view is borne out by practically every authority on police work. We fully recognize the problems involved in finding necessary funds. We believe, however,

25 (AP)—The Rev. Roger A.
Barnett, pastor of Providence Methodist Church, won his own battle of Jericho yesterday after he blocked the church main entrance with a wall of 500 bricks.The congregation filed

The sermon: "Joshua and the Battle of Jericho."The explanation: The Rev.
Mr. Barnett said church operating costs have been heavy and the congregation could help solve the problem by buying its way through the main entrance at a dollar a brick.Half the bricks were bought on the spot—the rest will be sold this week."I didn't know how the con-

NAMED AS PART OF RED SPY RINGBoris Morros, Formerly of Hollywood, Will Be Star Witness Against Sobles.NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (UP)—
One-time Hollywood music director Boris Morros was named by the Federal Government today as a participant in an international Russian spy ring. The Government said he will be its star witness against three persons indicted on espionage charges.Assistant United States Attorney Thomas B. Gilchrist Jr., refused to say whether Morros acted as a Federal Bureau of Investigation plant, as a double agent or as a genuine agent of the Soviet spy ring.He told United States District Judge Gregory F. Noonan, however, that Morros is the "individual" named 14 times in the overt acts of the spy indictment as receiving materials from the three indicted persons or passing such materials to Russian nationals.Gilchrist said that as of today Morros is the only government witness against Jack and Myra Soble and Jacob Albaum, charged with espionage which carries the death penalty.Morros' name first came into the case last week when the Soble's attorney, George Wolf, filed a motion asking that he be given access to statements made to the FBI by his clients and Morros. Morros was not identified at that time.Gilchrist made the identification at a hearing on the motions in Noonan's chambers today.Morros, a native of Russia, came to the United States in 1922 with the revue "Chauve Souris" and became a United States citizen shortly thereafter.
For 17 years until the mid-1940s he was musical director and later producer for Paramount Pictures.The overt acts listed in the spy indictment allege that he met in New York, Paris, Zurich and Vienna with Sobles and other members of the alleged spy ring and was the chief recipient of materials gathered by Sobles for the ring.The bill has been reported favorably by a committee and is awaiting floor action but is far down on the perfection calendar.If it is passed, the only way to make permissible any time other than standard would be by initiative or referendum, state-wide. St. Louis is the only Missouri city that has used daylight saving time.Today's action was announced by Representative Joseph W.
Martino (Dem.), who is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. The only absente was Representative
Leroy Tyus (Dem.).

TEAMSTER UNION COUNSEL QUILTS ON EVE OF NEW SENATE HEARINGJ. Albert Woll Also Serves as AFL-CIO Lawyer—He Says He Hasn't Time for Both Jobs.WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)— J. Albert Woll resigned today as general counsel for the Teamsters Union on the eve of a congressional investigation into the 1,500,000-member union's activities.Woll told a reporter he has submitted his resignation in a letter to Teamsters Union President Dave Beck. He said demands of the Teamsters Union for his time for legal activities had grown too great to continue with that and other legal work.Woll also is general counsel for AFL-CIO and does legal work for other labor groups.He has been reported under pressure to quit either the Teamsters or AFL-CIO posts.Inquiry Opens Tomorrow.
A special Senate committee headed by Senator McClellan (Dem., Arkansas) is opening hearings tomorrow into alleged racketeering practices in labor and industry. It will hold public hearings to explore affairs of Teamsters officers in Portland, Ore.McClellan said bank records will provide some of the information his committee had hoped to get from missing files of the Teamsters Union.McClellan said the committee has obtained from banks financial records of unions and individuals under investigation and
"thus we are able, more or less, to reconstruct what happened.""Bank records are something they can't destroy," the Senator said, "but of course the disappearance of these other records is a handicap."He had announced previously that he has been informed some financial records of the 11-state Western Conference of Teamsters, with headquarters in Seattle, had been destroyed.The union said they were "inadvertently" destroyed in 1953 or 1954, when the Seattle fire department ordered a basement storage room cleaned out.Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said Saturday staff investigators have been unable to locate the records. He said the committee had hoped to subpoena from Teamster Union files in Portland.The committee has disclosed plans to call about 20 witnesses in the Portland hearings, including union officers, alleged racketeers, bootleggers and persons connected with prostitution. None was named in advance.McClellan said the committee also will play at the hearing a tape recording, made secretly by "some of the principals," preventing General Assembly consideration of Hammarskjold's report reproving Israel for failing to withdraw forces from the Gaza strip and Gulf of Aqaba areas.Hammarskjold declared in a supplementary report that he was confident Egypt would permit the U.N. Emergency Force to protect the Gaza strip and remain on armistice demarcation lines after Israeli withdrawal but did not meet Jerusalem's demand for positive assurances against future Egyptian attacks.Talks With Dulles.
Eban, just back from consultations with Israeli Premier Ben-Gurion, talked with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Washington yesterday and announced afterward that he would talk with Hammarskjold on matters "primarily of concern" to the U.N. He said,
"It is hoped that out of the discussions a solution will be found consistent with the prin-

NOBUSHI KISHI TAKES OVER AS NEW JAPANESE PRIME MINISTER

Conservative Unlikely to Alter Pro-Western Policy — Makes One Change in Predecessor's Cabinet.

TOKYO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Nobushige Kishi, a skillful politician who once scrubbed floors in United States-run Sugamo prison, became Prime Minister of Japan today.

Kishi is a political conservative who is expected to make few changes in Japan's pro-Western policy. He has said Japan and the United States must always "go hand in hand," but that Japan also must do business with Red China.

The Diet (Parliament) elected Kishi overwhelmingly to the post he has long coveted, replacing Prime Minister Tanaka Ishibashi who resigned because of ill health Saturday after only two months in office. Kishi was Ishibashi's Foreign Minister and had been "acting temporary Prime Minister" the last month while Ishibashi was confined to a sick home with pneumonia and a weak heart.

The new cabinet took office in ceremonies before Emperor Hirohito.

One Cabinet Change.

Kishi retained the Foreign Minister's portfolio and made only one change in Ishibashi's cabinet—the addition of Mitsuhiro Itoh, a senior member of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party, as minister without portfolio.

Ishii's support brought about the unanimous recommendation of the party's executives that Kishi get the job. After Kishi's selection was automatic. The party holds 296 of the 467 seats in the dominant Lower House. Kishi got 276 votes to 129 for Socialist Mosaburo Suzuki in that body, and 147 votes to 30 in the Upper House.

The new Prime Minister is 60 years old, relatively young in high Japanese political circles. Ishibashi was 72 and his predecessor, Ichiro Hatoyama, 73, when he quit.

Kishi has been aiming toward the premiership primarily through behind-the-scenes work within the ruling party, rather than in the Government. He helped unseat three former Prime Ministers—Shigeru Tojo in 1944 and Hatoyama in 1948. He lost to Ishibashi by only seven votes in the party's balloting for a successor to Hatoyama.

He served as Commerce Minister in Tojo's cabinet, but was fired after Jiffing over war strategy.

After the Japanese surrender, Kishi was jailed as a suspected war criminal, but was freed after three years without being charged. At Sugamo prison outside Tokyo, Kishi relates, the American guards ordered him and other top-ranking Japanese prisoners to scrub the dirty floor with soap water, over and over, until it shone.

"When I found out I was not to be indicted or hanged," Kishi says, "I began to think about the rest of my life as a bonus to be spent wisely. I had long reflections on the past and decided that Japan must have real democracy, never again adopt dictatorship by anyone—military or non-military—and never yield to extremists—Communists or Fascists."

Kishi wants to strengthen Japan's economic and military position. He feels trade with Red China must be increased as part of the program of strengthening the nation's economic base. He also advocates rewriting of the occupation-imposed constitution to take out the prohibition against rearmament, a change United States officials also advocate.

He told a Liberal-Democratic caucus in the Diet he will continue Ishibashi's policies and also hopes to iron out the current strife between various factions in the party.

PAKISTAN PREMIER WINS APPROVAL ON FOREIGN POLICY

KARACHI, Feb. 25 (AP)—Premier Huseyn Suhrawardy won a vote of confidence from the Pakistan National Assembly today after three days of debate on foreign policy.

The vote was 40 to 2, with 17 abstentions and 20 absences. The mission of United Nations Security Council President Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden to seek a solution of the Kashmir dispute and the Baghdad Pact figured in the debate.

The Jarring mission was criticized by opposition members on the ground it had no hope of success. The opposition urged the Premier to bring the United States into the Baghdad Pact if he wanted it to be effective. Britain, along with Pakistan, Iran, Iraq and Turkey are members of the pact.

In reply, Suhrawardy said the Jarring mission would "further expose India's (Prime Minister) Nehru's policy, which is well known to the world. It is impossible to deal with a man who is determined to keep Kashmir under his army with force."

Explosive Discovery.

WARSAW, Feb. 25 (AP)—Workers renovating the Czartoryski museum found one historic item they hadn't expected—a parcel containing enough nitroglycerine to demolish the whole neighborhood. It apparently had been left behind by retreating German troops in 1945.

King Saud Undertakes to Explain Mideast Plan to Arab Leaders

KING SAUD of Saudi Arabia being escorted from Cairo's Almazra airport by PRESIDENT NASSER after his arrival yesterday to take part in Arab four-power conference.

He Meets With Rulers of Syria, Egypt and Jordan in 'Summit Talks' on Eisenhower Doctrine.

CAIRO, Feb. 25 (UP)—King Saud of Saudi Arabia laid out his plan before the doubting or hostile leaders of Egypt, Jordan and Syria in a conference here today.

Saud, on his way home from Washington after talks with President Eisenhower, is publicly on record with praise for the Eisenhower plan of economic and military help for the Middle East to head off Communist advances.

Informed sources said he was explaining the plan point by point to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, Syrian President Shukri Kuwari and Jordanian King Hussein.

Thus far, Syria has been frankly hostile and Egypt and Jordan cool and skeptical. No joint decision is expected from the present meeting, and informed sources said Saud was unlikely to change the minds of the others overnight.

However, this second round of the Arab big four talks that were interrupted by Saud's trip to Washington, is being held against a background of Washington-New York negotiations involving Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban and United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld. Outcome of those discussions may determine the results here.

Thus far, the major Arab problem has been one of "positive neutrality" between the two big power blocks of the United States and the Soviet Union. Before the present conference is the Eisenhower plan to help Mideast countries defend themselves and the rival plan of former Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov for a "hands off" policy for the area.

A communique issued after this morning's session said it lasted two hours and 25 minutes at the Koubbeh Republic palace. It gave little other information.

"The conferees reviewed the international situation in general and Arab problems in particular," the announcement said. "This, however, was a continuation of discussions started in the last conference, Jan. 18. The discussions were conducted in the light of developments since the last conference. The consultations will be resumed Tuesday."

Saud flew here yesterday from conferences in Spain and North Africa. He met soon afterward with King Idris El Senussi of Libya. They issued a communique in which Saud "expressed his satisfaction with Eisenhower's understanding of Arab issue."

"The two kings found themselves in agreement in appreciation of Eisenhower's understanding of Arab issue," the communique said.

ISRAELI WORKER PARTIES OBJECT TO COMPROMISE

Reported Threatening to Quit Cabinet — Government Trying to Placate Them.

JERUSALEM, Feb. 25 (AP)—A committee of the Israeli parliament tried today to find a way to soothe mounting opposition within the governing political coalition to any compromise on occupation of the Gaza strip.

The Knesset's Foreign Affairs Committee met today to draft a Gaza policy amid reports that two of the five coalition parties in Prime Minister Ben-Gurion's government might quit the cabinet because of suspicion that Ben-Gurion would bow to United States and United Nations demands that Israel quit the disputed coastal strip.

Such action by the left-wing Achdut Avoda (Unity of Labor) and Mapam (United Workers) parties would seriously peril Ben-Gurion's government. If they left the cabinet and all parties outside the coalition combined, the government would have only a two-vote majority in the 120-seat Knesset.

The Achdut Avoda has 10 seats in the Knesset and the Mapam nine. They demand close economic ties with Gaza in the future and reportedly feel that this would be prejudicial to the coalition combined, the government would have only a two-vote majority in the 120-seat Knesset.

The government's latest proposals to the United States and the U.N. on Gaza and the Gulf of Aqaba have not been disclosed. But reliable sources said much "misinformation" has been circulated regarding Israel's terms for withdrawing from the two areas, seized in last October's invasion of the Sinai peninsula.

A basic Israeli condition for settlement of the Gaza problem is believed still to be that Egyptians should not be allowed to return to the strip. It is believed Ambassador Abba Eban, who returned to the United States over the weekend after consultations here, was authorized to suggest that a U.N. investigating committee go to Gaza to consider security problems of the area.

The government appears agreeable to joint control of the strip by Israeli police and the U.N. Emergency Force. Six Asian and African nations have put before the U.N. General Assembly a demand for sanctions against Israel if the Israelis do not withdraw from Gaza and Aqaba unconditionally. Until now Israel has held out for guarantees Egypt would not use either area as bases for guerrilla raids or a blockade of Israeli ships.

Walter Eytan, director general of the Foreign Ministry, told a news conference Israel could no longer regard the U.N. as a guarantor of the area if sanctions were invoked. He refused under questioning to say whether Israel would boycott or bar U.N. bodies in the event of sanctions.

The U.N. truce supervisory organization has been the chief arbiter of violations of the 8-year-old Arab-Israeli armistice agreements.

U.S. INDICTMENT OF SOVIET POLICY PUT BEFORE U.N.

Knowland Makes Reply to Russian Charges of 'Subversive Activities.'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Feb. 25 (AP)—Senator William F. Knowland (Rep., California), before the United Nations today an indictment of Soviet policy in eastern Europe over the past 20 years.

Knowland spoke in reply to a Soviet demand in the United Nations special Political Committee that the United Nations condemn the United States for "subversive activities" aimed at the overthrow of Communist governments.

V. V. Kuznetsov, the Soviet deputy minister, made the demand in a resolution submitted to the 80-nation committee.

Knowland declared that recent events in Hungary "illustrate conclusively the root of the problem—the complete and total suppression of every expression of independence which the Soviets, in their psychopathic concern for security, regard as a threat to their control of the area."

He said this state of affairs came to pass "as a result of the aggressive policies and repressive actions of the Soviet Union for nearly two decades."

Detailed indictment. Then Knowland listed this point-by-point indictment: The Soviet Union has "denied the rights of the legitimate aspirations of the peoples of eastern Europe for national independence" and refused their peoples "basic human freedoms recognized in the Charter of the United Nations."

The Soviet Union has installed "puppet governments" in the Communist states, "used its armed forces to keep those governments in power," and plundered their economies for Soviet gain.

The Baltic Republics of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were converted into Soviet provinces in violation of treaties.

On the military side, the Soviet Union has built up large satellite armies staffed by Soviet officers.

In other fields the Soviet Union has cut off "captive peoples" from contact with the free world and filled their newspapers and schoolbooks with "hate America slogans."

The Soviet Union has "persecuted the churches and intimidated and harassed those who worship God," and has "erected physical barriers against escape, including barbed wire, mine fields and lookout towers."

Knowland called on Russia to permit free access to Eastern Europe to the world can learn the facts of the Soviet "myth of United States intervention" there.

Mollet Arrives in Washington For Talks With Eisenhower

French Premier Is Greeted at Airport by Nixon and Dulles — Will Meet President Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Prime Minister Mollet of France arrived this afternoon by plane for two days of conferences with President Eisenhower which are aimed at strengthening French-American unity.

Vice President Nixon and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles headed a delegation of American officials who greeted the French leader when he stepped from President Eisenhower's personal plane which brought him from New York.

A military honor guard was drawn up at the airport. Guns boomed a 15 salvo salute.

Mr. Eisenhower stayed at the White House. He had no plans to greet his distinguished visitor until formal talks get underway tomorrow morning at the White House.

Mollet was to say as an official, "I am happy to be here as a guest at the Blair House, across Pennsylvania avenue from the White House, during his three-day stay."

"Friendship Still Alive." The French leader told newsmen shortly after a special Air France plane carrying him and his party landed at Idlewild Airport in New York early today that he wished to make it "quite clear to the world that friendship between the United States and France is still alive."

He declined to comment immediately on France's opposition to proposed sanctions by the United Nations against Israel in connection with the Gaza and Aqaba disputes.

Mollet did say, however, that he was "hopeful" that a satisfactory solution would be reached in the Middle East problem.

Mollet's trip originally was planned to patch up French-American differences growing out of the French-British invasion of Egypt. It is to be followed shortly by a conference between Mr. Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan, all billed as the start of a final reconciliation of the Western Big Three.

New Row Started. Mr. Eisenhower's insistence, however, on the unconditional withdrawal of Israeli forces from the Gaza strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area touched off a new row and Mollet hastened to the United States as the split between America and its European allies widened.

Both Britain and France are opposed to sanctions against Israel.

Asked if he thought that negotiations now going on concerning the Middle East situation would bring about a settlement, the French Premier said he hoped so.

At this point, Herve Alphand, French Ambassador to the United States, who was at the airport to greet Mollet, leaned over the Premier's shoulder and whispered a few words in his ear.

Mollet then turned to newsmen and said: "I have just been told that things are going a little better. I am hopeful."

Israel has asked Mollet and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau to plead its case with Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles. It was reported earlier in Paris, that, within the limits of protocol, Mollet will explain what he considers points in Israel's favor, as well as outlining France's views.

Among the major problems to be discussed with Mr. Eisenhower is that of the weakening French economy, threatened by a crisis through a drastic drain on foreign exchange.

Prepared Statement. In a prepared statement handed to newsmen at Idlewild Airport, the French Premier said he would stress the following points in his talks with the President:

"To build Europe, to link it closely to Africa, to keep peace alive, and last, but not least, I intend to state emphatically to President Eisenhower, as well as to you, that our country has been for nearly two centuries your faithful ally and does not intend, rain or shine, to change its mind or its heart."

Mollet said he also wished to stress "the strength of the links that bind us for the sake of peace and international justice" and then added:

"Peace without justice is a crime. We cannot live in a world where, in the name of peace, dictatorships keep in slavery, under some kind of blackmail, innocent and law-abiding nations. Peace in the world means international respect for each other and the sanctity of contracts, whether they are signed by individuals or by nations."

"Freedom," the Premier's statement added, "is every nation's responsibility, and in particular it is the responsibility of France, Great Britain and the United States, the old and faithful allies in two struggles against aggression."

Postal Receipts Rise. WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield said yesterday postal receipts for the first half of the fiscal year ending June 30 totaled $1,388,800,000, up 4.5 per cent from the same period in the previous year. For the July 1956-January 1957 period, Summerfield reported a postal deficit of $288,200,000.

WITHDRAWAL BY ISRAEL URGED BY MACMILLAN

British Prime Minister Calls for Guarantees, However, and Use of U.N. Troops.

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan said today Britain believes Israel forces should withdraw from Egyptian territory. But, he added, Israel should be guaranteed access to the Gulf of Aqaba and United Nations troops stationed in the Gaza strip.

The Prime Minister made his statement in the House of Commons when asked by former Laborite Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell what decision the government had taken concerning use of sanctions against Israel if it refuses to withdraw forces from Gaza and Aqaba.

"We believe that the Gaza strip should be evacuated by Israel," Macmillan replied. "We equally believe that it should be made the United Nations responsibility and that U.N. forces should be stationed there."

"We believe that Israeli forces should retire from the west shore of the Gulf of Aqaba. We equally believe that, coupled with that withdrawal, it should be made clear beyond a peradventure, both by the United Nations and by leading maritime countries, that they regard access to these waters as free to the world."

"Thus we should achieve a solution which would be fair to all."

"We have throughout made this view clear to the American Government and to other of our friends and allies. I am not without hope that a solution will be found along these lines."

Shinwell said he welcomed the statement and asked further: "Can the Prime Minister assure us that the Government will not consent, even under pressure from the United States or United Nations, to any solution which does not provide the effective guarantees to which he has just referred?"

Macmillan answered: "That is exactly what we are trying to do. We are trying to find a settlement fair for both sides."

WISCONSIN FAR IN FRONT OF MISSOURI ON NURSING HOMES

Raising of Standards on Continuing Basis Has Paid Off — Record in Milwaukee Is Cited.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 25.—Milwaukee and the rest of Wisconsin appear to be far ahead of Missouri in regulation and supervision of nursing homes and in continually raising the standards for safety and health, a study showed today.

In this state there have been no fires or other major difficulties in nursing homes in recent years.

The State Board of Health, the principal regulatory agency, has a policy of raising the standards year by year, and major upgrading is planned for this year.

A law requiring state supervision and licensing went into effect five years ago, but Milwaukee had been keeping official tabs on the institutions for 10 years before that. The state has 384 homes, with 4148 beds. Seventy-five homes with 1800 patients are here.

The City of Milwaukee serves as agent of the state in governing the homes here, for which it is paid $25 annually per home. The other municipalities depend on state supervision.

State and city officials agree generally that the nursing home operators are co-operating in the continuing effort to raise standards. Under state law there is an advisory committee of nine members to help in setting the official requirements. They include representatives of the fields of nursing homes, hospitals, medicine, public welfare and civil interests.

"We get very good co-operation from the operators of homes," said Vincent Otis, head of the division of hospitals under the Board of Health.

"For instance, when someone applies for a license, the board sends a brochure to the would-be operator. The brochure outlines information on how to maintain and operate a home, zoning requirements, industrial building requirements, and so on. The applicant even is cautioned not to enter into a contract for a building until he finds out how much it will cost to convert it to convalescent home use."

"When our first letter goes out, a copy of it goes to the Industrial Commission, alerting the commission that a building is being considered. The commission sends the applicant a letter outlining the requirements, and in turn sends us a carbon of the letter. This system has worked out very well. There is no overlapping, but each agency knows what the other is doing."

Explains Board Philosophy.
Otis, in explaining the board's philosophy of constantly upgrading, said that when regulation came five years ago, the first aim had been to keep the existing homes in business. That has happened. One out of five either quits business or sells to another operator each year. This rate is expected to drop as the field becomes further stabilized.

The director said that 80 percent of the homes are operated on a "proprietary" basis — by individuals, partnerships and corporations. This represents slightly more than half of the beds. The rest are run by non-profit groups, including churches and fraternal organizations.

Despite the continuing shortage of nursing homes, Otis said that inspectors find only 3 percent are overcrowded and some of these are "honest mistakes." The board acts promptly to get the numbers reduced.

Otis devotes about half of his time to administration of the homes. Three registered nurses spend two-thirds of their time on inspections, and two engineers cover new homes and serious complaints. Another nurse and engineer are being sought. The board also has eight district officers where nutritionists are available to work with nursing home operators on diets and other problems.

As in state supervision, Milwaukee has an interlocking system of control of its nursing homes. Working most closely with them, perhaps, is Dr. Jean C. Antonmatt, deputy commissioner of health, a former health worker in St. Louis and Laclede county, Mo.

"We avoid the problems before they happen, by close supervision," said Dr. Antonmatt. "Largely it is a question of hazards. An applicant here

LICENSE OF REALTY BROKER IS REVOKED

Mrs. Charlotte B. Todd Refused $1750 Refund, State Commission Finds.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 25.—The real estate broker's license of Mrs. Charlotte B. Todd, 14 West Big Bend road, Webster Groves, was revoked today by the Missouri Real Estate Commission because she refused to return the down payment on an unfulfilled contract.

J. W. Hobbs, secretary of the commission, said evidence at a hearing conducted in December in St. Louis disclosed that Mrs. Todd had refused to return a $1750 down payment to Dr. and Mrs. John W. Weiss last year after failing to complete a home for them under terms of a contract.

The house, at 8 Crestwood drive, St. Louis county, was not finished under the contract, the commission found.

Dr. Weiss, a dentist, demanded the return of the down payment, and was refused, Hobbs said. The commission held that the contract Dr. Weiss signed "was intended to influence him to pay the $1750."

"Mrs. Todd's refusal to return the money violated the Missouri real estate law," the commission declared.

Under the contract, the house was to cost $19,950. The agreement between the purchaser and the broker involved loan terms and contained a completion date the commission said.

Mrs. Todd could not be reached. Neighbors reported that the furnishings were moved from 14 Big Bend road over the weekend.

A second offense lands the operator in court.

The city health department also watches the feeding of patients. A nutritionist works with the homes, and a nurse often drops in at mealtime or during the preparation and makes suggestions if needed.

The operators also are asked to submit a week's menu, which a nutritionist checks for food values. Every three months a bulletin is published for the operators. Nutrition seminars are held, to which cooks and operators are invited. Attendance has been good.

An important link in the success of the Wisconsin system is the operators' own association. Its current president is the Rev. Herbert Nommensen, operator of a small Lutheran home in Milwaukee. About 100 operators are members, representing about half of the beds in the state.

The organization has the same goals as the board, to raise the standards of the homes. The association holds an annual educational convention.

At present one of its aims is a more equitable distribution of public welfare patients, the Rev. Mr. Nommensen said. Costly improvements cannot be made "unless you have a full house," he explained. If a half dozen welfare patients suddenly are shifted from one home to another, it means a drastic drop in income for one.

There may have been some good luck, but constant vigilance of nursing homes here certainly has helped keep fire tragedy away.

DISTILLERY OPENED IN 1857 BURNS DOWN AT WESTON, MO.

WESTON, Mo., Feb. 25 (AP).—A 100-year-old distillery, established four years before the Pony Express and still in operation, was destroyed by fire yesterday.

Cloud L. Cray Jr., secretary treasurer of McCormick Distilling Co., which owns the plant, termed the loss "irreplaceable." The vats and distilling equipment burned were priceless with age, he said. Cray called it a "quaint, old-fashioned distillery down to the core." The spring run was to have begun March 15.

Firemen from Weston and neighboring communities kept the blaze from spreading to six other buildings housing the plant's stored whisky, bottling works and offices. Weston is a small town on the Missouri river between Kansas City and St. Joseph, where the Pony Express was founded.

The distillery was converted in 1856 from a packing house by Maj. David Holladay, brother of Ben Holladay, whose stage coach routes extended west of St. Joseph 500 miles. It was known then as Blue Springs distillery. McCormick took over operations in 1950.

THIS IS LAST DAY TO REGISTER IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY

Today is the final day for St. Louis county residents to register in the April 2 elections. The Election Board office in the courthouse in Clayton will remain open until 5 p.m. to receive registrants. Only persons not already registered need register.

A proposed constitutional amendment which would increase monthly salaries of state legislators from $125 to $300 will be submitted to voters in a state-wide election April 2. This special election will coincide with municipal elections.

St. Louis county will not use its voting machines because it would be too costly to set them up for the simple yes-or-no ballot in the state-wide election, Carl V. Elmbeck, member of the Board of Election Commissioners said.

Some complications may develop in municipalities having to use the county registration books for local elections at the same time that a state election is being held, inasmuch as polling places for balloting on constitutional amendment may not be the same as those for the municipal elections. A verification list of registrants will be supplied to municipalities, Elmbeck said.

EAST SIDE MAN KILLED BY POLICE IN GUN FIGHT

4 Officers Hit—Wounding of Fifth Man Started Hour-Long Battle.

A retired packinghouse worker was killed and four policemen were wounded in an hour-long pistol and shotgun fight yesterday afternoon in Venice, Ill. Officers from four East Side communities fired more than 100 shots. The wounding of a fifth man precipitated the fight.

Dead in his bullet-riddled home was ex-convict Henry Thomas, a Negro in his late 60s, who had been struck seven times by police bullets and riot gun slugs. By his side were two shotguns and extra ammunition.

The wounded, treated at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, in Granite City, were: Patrolman Homer Easton, of Venice; Chief Ernest Hawkins of Brooklyn and two of his patrolmen, Herman Hudson and Adolph Bradley, and Ulysses S. Jackson of Brooklyn. The Brooklyn officers and Jackson are Negroes.

The police went to the Thomas home, 313 Short street, at 4 p.m. to investigate the shooting of Jackson, who was wounded in the back of the head by shotgun pellets.

Jackson, who lives at 616 Canal street, Brooklyn, said he was shot without provocation by Thomas, who was walking through the neighborhood firing a shotgun. Short street is the dividing line between Brooklyn and Venice.

Thomas opened the front door of his home when police appeared on the porch. He shouted, "You're not going to take me," and slammed the door.

The officers hurried to a justice of the peace, obtained a warrant for the arrest of Thomas and returned to his home. Patrolman Easton stepped out of a police car and was wounded by a shotgun blast. Pellets struck him in the neck, forehead and chest.

Police reinforcements were summoned from Brooklyn, Madison, Granite City and Venice. Four deputy sheriffs arrived on the scene and participated in the shooting.

Officers, unaware that Thomas' invalid wife, Annie, was in the house, poured in fire from revolvers and riot guns. Thomas fired from windows and made several dashes to the porch, firing a shotgun and treating inside. When he refused to surrender, tear gas was fired into the house.

Police then rushed in and found Thomas dead on a day bed. He had been shot in the head, abdomen and back. Mrs. Thomas was unharmed but suffering from fright and shock. The firing attracted large crowds.

Police Chief Robert Trower of Venice said Thomas served 20 years of a life sentence for murder imposed about 30 years ago.

NEW JERSEY CAR CRASH FATAL TO CLAYTON YOUTH

Stephen Muckerman, Georgetown U. Classmate Killed When Auto Overturns.

Stephen A. Muckerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Muckerman, 6 Wydown terrace, Clayton, and a Georgetown University classmate were killed early yesterday when Muckerman's sports car overturned near Hackettstown, N.J.

His companion was Louis A. Loichot, son of Raymond L. Loichot, president of the First National Bank of Canton, O. Muckerman's father is a retired vice president of City Products Corp., and former president of the St. Louis Coal Exchange. Both youths were 20 years old.

New Jersey state police said Muckerman's machine, a new MG convertible, failed to make a curve on a winding stretch of Waterloo road, 15 miles from Hackettstown. The car ran off the left side, climbed an eight-foot embankment, rolled over several times and fell back on the road.

Pinned Under Car.
State police said the youths, still wearing their safety belts, were pinned under the car. There was no evidence of drinking, they said.

Muckerman and Loichot had been on a date with two girls from Centenary Junior College in Hackettstown, state troopers said. Loichot's car had broken down and Muckerman was driving him back at about 12:30 a.m. to tow in the disabled machine, when the accident occurred.

A member of the Muckerman family who telephoned the coroner for a detailed report said the coroner described the circumstances of the accident as "freakish," in that the low-slung car apparently nosed over instead of overturning sideways.

Junior at Georgetown U.
Muckerman was a junior at Georgetown University, in Washington, D.C. He was graduated from Chamblaine College here. Surviving are his parents, two brothers, Peter D. Muckerman and Walter B. Muckerman Jr., and a sister, Mrs. Hampden M. Swift of Chicago.

A man thought to be a St. Louisan was killed last night when his car went out of control and plunged down an embankment on U.S. Highway 66.

Crash Victim

STEPHEN A. MUCKERMAN

near Dwight, Ill. He was identified as Donald Leroy Tuttle.

A St. Louis youth was injured early yesterday in an automobile accident near Leadwood, Mo., in which a companion was killed.

State highway police said Harry Lee Brown, 19, whose address was given as 2104 Waverly place, was taken to a Bonne Terre (Mo.) hospital suffering from head injuries. The boy who was killed in the accident was Bobby Dale Myers, 16, of Leadwood. He and Brown were passengers in a car driven by Bobby Ray McClain, 16, of Leadwood, who also suffered head injuries.

State troopers said the car overturned when McClain tried to make a left turn into State Route 8 from Highway Z, St. Francois county, without observing the stop sign at the intersection. Leadwood is about 65 miles southwest of St. Louis.

GASOLINE WAR ON AGAIN, PRICES
CUT 2 TO 3 CENTS

The recurrent gasoline price war in the St. Louis area has flared up again with cuts in retail prices ranging from 2 to 3 cents a gallon, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Some major oil companies have trimmed regular and premium gasoline prices 2 cents a gallon, lowering the price on regular to about 26.9 cents and premium to 29.9 cent, a gallon.

Independent stations reported a 3-cent cut on regular to 21.9 cents and a 2-cent drop in the price of premium to 25.9 cents. Although no specific cause was given for the price cuts, a spokesman for one major oil company noted that St. Louis is one of the most competitive areas in the nation in the sale of gasoline. The price cuts are restricted to the St. Louis area.

Butler's appeal contested the state law violated the United States Constitution's guarantees of free press and due process of law.

The police officer who bought the book, Inspector Herbert W. Case, cited 101 excerpts from the book as being objectionable.

Butler protested against judging the book by use of excerpts. He contended the volume viewed as a whole "was not in any way obscene, lewd, immoral or lascivious, but was a serious work of artistic and literary value."

Kent Cleland of Ferguson Dies With Neighbors in Fire in Japan.

Airman Kent Cleland of Ferguson was burned to death when he vainly attempted to rescue another airman and his wife from a fire in their quarters last Thursday in Misawa, Japan, the Air Force reported yesterday.

Cleland, 22 year old, was the son of James V. Cleland, 111 Royal avenue, Ferguson. The others who died were Airman and Mrs. Stanley D. Schmidt, Devil's Lake, N.D.

Cleland's wife, Rita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ahlmeier, 4440 Linscott avenue, Woodson terrace, escaped with cuts and shock.

The Air Force reported the Clelands tried unsuccessfully to awaken the Schmidts after the house caught fire. Cleland then broke a window to gain entrance but there was an explosion and he died with the Schmidts.

Mrs. Cleland, also 22, had joined her husband in Japan only a few days earlier. Both formerly attended Ferguson High School.

Unidentified Assailant Sought — Believed to Have Dropped Motorcyclist's Cap.

Donald Miller, a dockhand, of 4044A Blaine avenue, was stabbed fatally early yesterday in a fight in the 1500 block of South Broadway.

Police were seeking an assailant who is believed to have dropped a black, visored cap of the type popular with motorcyclists, which was found at the scene.

Police were told that Miller, 26 years old, had visited a number of South Broadway taverns late Saturday night and early yesterday with his two brothers, William L. Miller, of the 9100 block of Forest drive, East St. Louis, and Robert G.

Miller, of Deloris drive, East St. Louis, and a brother-in-law, Dale Wise of Kankakee, Ill. Police said they were told the four men had left a tavern when Donald Miller and an unidentified man across the street became involved in an exchange of words. A fight ensued with the other two Miller brothers coming to Donald's aid before the unidentified man fled.

When the fight was over, William Miller, 27, a clerk, who said he had not seen a knife displayed, discovered that both he and Donald had been cut. Donald, who had been stabbed in the left side just below the heart, died about an hour later at City Hospital. William Miller was treated there for a laceration of the lower right side.

BLAIR WILL ASK $50,000 TO STUDY NURSING HOMES

know what it was doing. Spencer and Senator Floyd R. Gibson of Independence, Democrat and president pro tem of the Senate, defended the resolution. Spencer said he agreed with Gov. Blair that the Spradling bill is a step in the right direction, particularly since it marked an improvement over existing law, but still it might not provide a final answer to the nursing home problem.

Gibson said a legislative inquiry was in order, despite other investigations already being made, because the matter presented a new problem. Senator Hawkins offered a resolution to refer the question to the Public Health Committee but his resolution was defeated, 8 to 21.

Bill for State Board.

State Senator Hartwell G. Crain of St. Louis county plans to introduce in the Senate this week a bill which would establish a state division of fire safety and protection, to inspect and regulate nursing homes as well as other kinds of buildings.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Annie L. Waddock, member of a St. Louis county grand jury that issued a report in 1955 criticizing the nursing home situation in the county, said it appeared that the same conditions exist today with the jury's recommendations ignored.

Senator Crain, a Republican of Crestwood, told the Post-Dispatch the new state division would have authority, under his bill, to close any nursing home or other building not complying with the regulations.

"I think we should have some authority to protect places where we have gatherings of people against dangers of fire," he said. "This would include schools, churches, theaters and other buildings used by the public, in addition to privately-operated nursing homes."

Taking note of the pending Spradling bill, Crain said: "The Health Division is primarily interested in nursing and medical care. Fire safety is an incidental sideline to its work. I believe a separate division of fire safety and protection could do the job better."

The new division, if established, would be expected to make regulations concerning storage of explosives, installation and maintenance of fire escapes, use of sprinkler and fire-alarm systems, number of exits from buildings, and such safety factors as fire doors and inclosed stairwells, Crain said.

Referring to the blaze which swept through the Katie Jane nursing home, he asserted: "I think one of the most important things is to have fire blocks within the building, so that flames can't go through the structure so rapidly. That usually is the cause for heavy loss of life."

Cites Fire at Fulton.

He pointed out that the 720 mental patients at the Missouri State Hospital at Fulton escaped unharmed last year despite a fire that caused $2,500,000 damage. He attributed the escape to fire-resistant safeguards.

The state Senator said installation of sprinkler or fire-alarm systems would be an important phase of the division's supervision.

"The State Hospital on Arsenal street in St. Louis does not have sprinklers, but it does have an automatic fire-alarm system," Crain stated. "The fire station is right nearby."

Under his proposed bill, the fire safety division would be headed by a director or fire marshal, who would have power to make investigations, issue subpoenas and hold hearings for non-compliance with regulations. An appeal to the courts could be taken on any order closing a building.

The director, whose qualifications would include at least 10 years' experience in that type of work, would have two deputies and as many inspectors as the legislative appropriation permitted. His regulations would be subject to review by a five-member advisory board to be named by the Governor.

A bill similar to the one being prepared by Crain failed to pass in the 1951 session of the Missouri Legislature.

Mrs. Waddock, who headed a four-member committee that looked into the nursing home situation for St. Louis county's January terms 1955 grand jury, told the Post-Dispatch recent news stories indicated there had been no improvement.

"It looks as though we wasted not only our time but also the state's money by making a thorough investigation with nothing being done about it," she said.

Thought Report Was Strong.

"We thought our report was strong enough to cause action. Some of the nursing homes in the county that we condemned apparently are going along just as they had before."

"The committee spent three to four weeks investigating these homes. We visited 10 or 11 of them. The jury gave serious consideration to the matter during all four months of its term."

"The jury's report, through the medium of the press, aroused considerable interest for a brief period. There is an aroused press and public indignation at present as a result of the Warrenton disaster.

"Will this agitation also subside until another like disaster shocks the public conscience?"

Writes Other Jurors.

Mrs. Waddock, who lives at 522 West Big Bend boulevard, Webster Groves, has sent letters describing her disappointment over inattention given the jury's report to other members of the committee — Mrs. T. Frank James Jr., Mrs. Charles A. Lee and Albert F. Versen.

The county grand jury told of finding hazardous conditions in a number of nursing homes, some of which were receiving $30 to $60 a month for each patient from the county as supplementary payments.

Fire hazards existing in these homes—three in particular—were cited in detail by the jury. It described dangerous wiring conditions, lack of fire extinguishers, doors opening inward instead of outward, improperly maintained fire hoses and blocked exits.

The jury criticized state and county health authorities for their failure to seek prosecution for violations of existing laws applying to nursing homes.

Senator Crain said he inquired into the nursing home situation in the county several years ago and found conditions "that looked pretty dangerous to me."

He and Mrs. Waddock acknowledged that providing proper accommodations and care to nursing home patients at the low price most patients are able to pay presented a considerable problem.

"Economics are unquestionably involved," Mrs. Waddock said. "The question arises whether old-age pensions should be increased or nursing homes subsidized."

"In any event, it's up to the state and county to step in and do something about it."

POLICE BOARD MOVES TO GET PAY RISE BILL

the situation is so serious and the pay increases are so necessary that we feel the entire community will endorse the proposal."

Board Prepares Budget

Under the metropolitan police department plan, the police board, appointed by the Governor, prepares an operating budget, which the city is required to pay. Present cost of police salaries is $9,178,139 a year.

Pointing out that previous discussion of police pay bills called for "across-the-board" increases, the Police Board said its proposal was "entirely new, the result of careful study and the wishes of the board to correct inequities."

The board said vacancies in the rank of corporal will not be filled as officers are promoted or retire, thus eventually eliminating the rank.

"Under the system we propose, about one-third of the patrol force will be eligible for merit pay increases and promotion, instead of being frozen below the rank of corporal," the board said.

Criminologist's Views.

Bruce Smith Jr., Westport,

(Conn.) criminologist, who conferred with the police commissioners today on operation of the department, told the Post-Dispatch that, while he favors good salaries for policemen, he thinks political interference is a much more important factor in lowering morale than low salaries. He advocates a top scale of $6500 a year for experienced and deserving patrolmen.

"It is strange what little influence pay has on police morale," Smith said. "Morale is something you cannot buy. But men who have been made cynical by political interference can bounce back fast when they see that the so-called powers-that-be are on the level."

"It is wrong to pay high salaries to indifferent policemen," Smith said. "The important thing is to have good leadership unhampered by political influence. Good leadership will make the men proud to serve, to be part of a fine tradition."

A police department can suffer from politics regardless of whether the police commissioners are controlled by the Governor or city government, Smith said. Even strong civil service laws cannot protect the department.

"It makes no difference whether civil service control is tight or loose," he said. "If a crooked politician is in control there is no law in the world that can stop him, at least for awhile."

"This constant surge either toward or away from civic righteousness, which is part of our self-government, makes cynicism of men who probably came to the department in the first place as idealists."

See Seamy Side of Life.

"Policemen see the seamy side of life anyway. Patrol work is terribly lonesome work and a man has a chance to brood about the ills of the world. Conscientious policemen try to rectify the situation as best they can. Whether they succeed depends on the leadership."

This was the first visit by Smith to St. Louis for consultation on police work. Smith, 38 years old, formerly was with the consulting firm of Griffenhagen & Associates, Chicago, and since 1953 has operated his own business of conducting surveys for police and fire departments.

He is a graduate of the University of Michigan, where he received a bachelor of science degree in forestry. In World War II he served as an officer in the infantry and later was an intelligence officer in the Army Ordnance Department. He is the second police expert brought here for consultation by the new police board.

Smith is a firm believer in "team policing," which was developed largely by the Salford (England) Police Department. He said he applied the method to the Salt Lake City Police Department last winter with amazing results.

"The Salford method hinges on correct teaching of patrol sergeants," he said. "A sergeant aims his patrols at specific problems, basing his operations on problems likely to exist at certain locations during certain periods of the day or night."

"We applied this system to Salt Lake City and the department, which began concentrating more on checking back alleys and trying doors, made some unusual catches of burglars."

The current high crime rate in itself is no reflection on the police department, Smith said, but is a reflection of the community itself. The department can be gauged more accurately by the percentage of crime solutions, particularly of burglaries.

DULLES - EBAN TALKS STIR NEW MIDEAST HOPES

out a full solution either by seeking further postponement of debate in the U.N. or by withholding announcement of its own stand for several days while debate proceeded.

A sanctions vote in the U.N. General Assembly requires approval of two-thirds of the nations present and voting, and many expect the United States stand to be decisive.

The joint communique put out last night reported Eban presented Israel's views, Dulles "clarified certain points" about the United States "attitude and intent," and they agreed to talk some more.

Other "important aspects . . . primarily of concern to the United Nations," were left for today's consultation between Eban and Secretary General Hammarskjöld.

"It is hoped," the communique said, "that out of these discussions a solution will be found consistent with the principles of the United Nations."

Memo Emphasized.

The communique emphasized the United States memorandum to Israel of last Feb. 11. Officials said this memo represented the latest United States position. They indicated that Dulles and Eban were in accord on this division of the problem:

1. Gaza strip—A U.N. problem. Dulles emphasized in his Feb. 11 memo to Eban that only the parties to the Palestine truce could change it, and that left out the United States. The truce gave Egypt the right to administer Gaza.

Ben-Gurion said in a speech last Thursday that Israel never will agree to giving Gaza back to Egypt. He is known to be trying to get some sort of de facto U.N. control which would leave Israeli civil administration in Gaza. He has offered to make a substantial start on rehabilitating the 200,000 refugees there. This is the proposal Eban was expected to lay before Hammarskjöld.

The Dulles-Eban meeting followed a morning session Dulles held with eight Republican and Democratic Senate leaders.

Views of Others.

Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem.), of Montana, one of the eight, said later during a television interview (NBC "Meet the Press") that he thinks the Eisenhower Administration will vote for sanctions against Israel "if it is forced to." He said the Administration "has gone about as far as it can go" in offering assurances.

But he told a newsmen later he expected no announcement of a United States stand until after several days of debate in the U.N. Assembly. He said he thought that debate might require a week during which he added some agreement might be reached with Israel.

Whitney, a graduate of Oxford, is well known and liked by the British. Speaking to reporters at London airport, he recalled serving in England as a colonel with the United States Air Force in World War II.

"It was during this time I became particularly impressed with the ability of our two peoples to work together in really combined operations," he said.

"It is my belief that that is the way we will be able to work during my service in London. Combined operations do not arise from divided policies. We should all address ourselves toward bringing those policies in line. It is not words but deeds which prove our common interest."

INVESTIGATION IN NURSING HOME FIRE IS RESUMED

No Evidence Yet of What Caused Blaze
Fatal to 72, Investigator Says.

By ROBERT H. COLLINS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WARRENTON, Mo., Feb. 25—Investigation of the Katie Jane nursing home fire, which took 72 lives Feb. 17, was resumed today by Lt. W. L. Hutchings of the Missouri Highway Patrol and Sheriff Paul Wright of Warren county.

Lt. Hutchings told the Post-Dispatch no evidence has yet been found indicating what caused the blaze.

Hutchings and Wright have been going over carefully since yesterday the many notes they took while interviewing persons who might have had some knowledge of the fire. They expect to recall some of these persons later today and possibly tomorrow for further questioning.

A large crowd is expected tomorrow for the mass funeral of 14 of the fire's victims. They will be buried in Warrenton Cemetery after graveside services. Highway patrolmen will be brought in to help local police handle traffic.

So many visitors appeared here yesterday to see the ruins of the Katie Jane home that auxiliary police were called out to help handle traffic.

Some sightseers dug through the debris, and officials of the nursing home asked the sheriff's office to send deputies to keep these persons away.

However, rain started falling, sending souvenir hunters scurrying for their automobiles. The area around the burned-down building was roped off, and "Keep Out" signs were posted.

A small crew of workmen today was tearing down portions of walls and cleaning up debris, aided by a scoop shovel on a truck.

Work also continued on building a concrete-block kitchen for Kessler Hall, the nursing home's administration building. A number of survivors of the fire are being housed there in addition to other patients.

The kitchen probably will be ready for use by the end of this week. In the meantime, meals are being prepared in the kitchen of a nearby church.

LIGHT SOUTHERN ILLINOIS JUDICIAL VOTE PREDICTED

A light vote was expected today as voters in St. Clair county and 23 other southern Illinois counties went to the polls to elect a Supreme Court justice in the First Judicial District of Illinois. Polls opened at 6 a.m. and will close at 5 p.m.

Opponents are Circuit Judge Byron O. House at Nashville, Republican, and Frank P. Hanagan of Benton, Democrat. The winner will serve the unexpired term of the late Justice Ralph Maxwell of Nashville who died last August. Justice Maxwell had three years to serve.

House, a graduate of the University of Illinois, has been a circuit judge since July. Hanagan, city attorney of West Frankfort, is a graduate of St. Louis University.

HAROLD J. GIBBONS TO TALK AT HARVARD U. SEMINAR

Gibbons will make an address and lead a discussion on collective bargaining goals and policies. The seminar is one of a series, directed by Prof. Sumner H. Slichter, in which trade unionists serve as discussion leaders.

Eisenhower Warns Mideast Against Communism's Evils

smash all their hard-won accomplishments overnight.

"And so we give these countries the assurance that if such a danger develops, and if the United Nations machinery cannot deal with the danger, and a threatened country asks for our help, it can count on our help.

"Secondly, behind the protective arm of this assurance, the real creative work of progress can go on, and, to speed this creative work, an extra measure of economic assistance for the area is included in my proposals."

What U.S. Proposes.

The President has asked Congress to approve the use of $200,000,000 in already appropriated funds for economic assistance in the Middle East this year. Part of the money would go for support of defense forces.

Another feature of the Administration resolution, now pending in Congress, would authorize the use of American troops in the Middle East, to help nations threatened by communism if they requested military assistance.

Mr. Eisenhower's text, which he followed with only minor departures, did not refer specifically to the current crisis brought on by Israel's refusal to withdraw its forces from the Gaza strip and Gulf of Aqaba, territory claimed by Egypt.

He said, however, that "there must be some source of international order" to settle the "differences of interest" which will always arise among nations.

"A principal source of order in the world, and one that can provide an over-all pattern, is the United Nations," Mr. Eisenhower declared.

His 10-minute talk was made from a vantage point in front of the Voice of America's central control board and broadcast by the agency's 78 transmitters, all of which were being used for the first time to carry a single program.

Mr. Eisenhower spoke slowly and with frequent emphasis. He has been bothered for several weeks by a persistent cough but did not cough during the speech. Afterward, he coughed once.

His personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, who accompanied him to the studio, told the Post-Dispatch the cough was "coming along."

Points Out U.S. Ideals.

In his talk the President said the history of the United States itself started with a "struggle for the right of self-determination and human dignity."

He quoted the Declaration of Independence's statement that "all men . . . are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

"But this same declaration also states that, along with this self-determination, we must show 'a decent respect to the opinions of mankind,'" Mr. Eisenhower said.

"In world affairs," he went on, "this nation has striven to confirm and give meaning to these noble words. Through the years we have helped new countries achieve political and economic strength."

"And the way we dealt with the Suez crisis and its after-effects in the United Nations was also an action demonstrating our conviction that international harmony begins with a decent respect to the opinions of mankind."

Mr. Eisenhower has used that phrase before in the present situation. He has expressed hope that Israel will show a decent respect for world opinion and withdraw its troops from Gaza and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Criticism of Russia.

His remarks, which were beamed behind the Iron Curtain and filmed and recorded for use by networks in this country, contained new criticism of Russia.

"One small country after another has been swallowed up by international Communism," he declared. "Their freedom is lost. Their national pride is crushed. Their religion is trampled on. Their economies are mere feeders to that of Russia. And if they attempt to assert their tradition of freedom, their people are shot down by the thousands. Witness: Hungary."

He concluded with "a special word to those peoples now living under the tyranny of international Communism," saying:

"We want your friendship. We cherish the ties that have linked us in the past. And we wish you well in your aspirations toward freedom."

After the speech, Mr. Eisenhower took a short tour of the Voice of America studios, exclaiming at one point: "My goodness, what a place — an enormous place." His guide was Arthur Larson, director of the United States Information Agency, of which the Voice is a part.

HOW WE MANAGE THE TELEPHONE BUSINESS

A STATEMENT OF POLICY by E. M. CLARK, President, SOUTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

PROGRESS has long been the keynote of the telephone business. Within a few generations this company has grown from a few people serving a handful of telephones until we now number almost 60,000 people serving five million telephones.

And, if business forecasters are anywhere near correct, the next 20 years will bring more growth and development than we have ever seen before.

With this in mind, it would seem a good time to examine ourselves and the company to see what we may expect during the next 20 years as a company and as individuals.

As individuals, we work for the company, first of all, to earn a living. We want to live in reasonable comfort. We want to educate our children properly, and we want to be accepted and respected by our neighbors.

Beyond that, we also want to work with people we like, to enjoy what we do, and to feel that our efforts are worth while and appreciated.

And since together we form one company in which each of us earns his living, we can achieve those things only through the policies and practices of the company. No individual can be more successful than the company of which he is a part. Thus, being informed—being "in the know"—on what the company is trying to do is important to every telephone employee.

OBJECTIVE

Our objective has been developed from years of experience by hundreds of thoughtful people.

The policy, briefly stated, is to furnish the best possible telephone service at reasonable cost—a cost consistent with financial safety and fair treatment of employees.

SERVICE

In this policy good service ranks above everything else. Profits? For the long pull, we are not likely to make profits on a service that is not good. Employees? If a business fails to serve, there will soon be no business to work for.

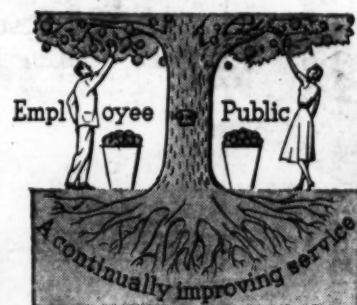

So, our first objective is to furnish good service. And in this fast-moving economy, the only good service is one that is continually improving.

To furnish this service, we need the best people, the best equipment, the best methods, and the best management we can develop.

Our research, our experimentation, and our training are all directed to this end.

REASONABLE COST

But all of our equipment, our training, and our improved methods would net us nothing if the cost of service became so high that people would not buy it. Therefore, cost must be weighed in everything we do. We must keep the price of our service reasonable. A reasonable price has been defined as one that produces an ever-growing public demand, for this means that the service appears to be worth what it costs to more and more people.

FINANCIAL SAFETY

On the other hand, the price of service cannot be so low that the financial security of the company is endangered. The price must bring in enough revenue to provide a fair return to the owners of the business. The price must provide a sufficient profit margin to enable the company to plan ahead with confidence.

A company with insufficient earnings must live from hand to mouth. Decisions must be based on the amount of cash available rather than the needs of the business. There can be no training, no building for the future, no security of employment. Long run considerations of economy and efficiency must be sacrificed for stopgap measures, and the end result is poorer service, higher costs, and eventual failure.

In the long run, a price that provides profit enough to undertake new research and development results in better and cheaper service to the public.

FAIR TREATMENT OF EMPLOYEES

Fair treatment of employees means good pay, good working conditions, reasonable job security, and opportunity for advancement based on merit.

These things, in turn, depend on a successful business. And it is people—employees—who are the most important element in the success of any business. Thus—in the broadest sense—each of us is responsible in a large degree for our own fair treatment. There is no surer way to insure our own success than giving the public more and better service for the price it pays.

This is the keystone upon which our wages, our Benefit and Pension Plan, our opportunities, and all other job factors depend.

And along with giving good service goes job satisfaction, for good service can be as satisfactory to the giver as to the public. It provides its own personal sense of accomplishment—pride in a job well done.

MANAGEMENT'S RESPONSIBILITIES

Employees depend on management to provide the machines, the methods, the equipment, and the direction that will enable good people to provide good service. Thus, how management discharges its responsibilities determines how much opportunity employees have to succeed.

In addition to supplying the material things needed to do the job, management must so run the business that employees have an incentive to do well. And management must recognize and reward merit when it is displayed by employees.

This reward comes in the form of upgrading in vocational levels or promotion into or within management, and it serves a twofold purpose. One purpose, of course, is to give the employee the recognition he has earned through merit. The other is to assure the company of continued good management. The future of the business and all the people in it depends on the kind of people who are promoted into management. For they are the ones who will run the business tomorrow.

It is literally true that the telephone business is an up-from-the-ranks business. There is no substitute for experience gained on the job and for training which a person receives as he progresses from job to job.

Advancement, however, does not come automatically. Each person's chances depend largely upon himself.

MANAGEMENT'S RESPONSIBILITIES

...to the Employees

Provide machines... methods...equipment...
direction...leadership...
job training...
incentives to progress...
selection for promotion

...to the Public

More and better service at a reasonable cost...
public welfare and defense

...to the Owners

Run the business in a sound, profitable manner

All of the training and all of the experience which the company can offer will not necessarily move a person into a better job. The employee must also have the ambition to develop and improve himself. And, through good job performance, he must earn advancement.

There are many, many good people in this business, and the competition is keen. Training courses are open to all these people. The person who makes the most of this training—the one who thinks and studies on his own and who is most ready for opportunity when it comes—is the person most likely to get ahead.

Management can provide training courses; it can encourage employees to progress, but it cannot and should not force any person to develop himself; that must come from within the individual.

Along with employees, management also has a responsibility to the owners of the business and to the public.

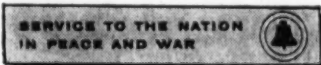

The owners depend on management to run the business in a sound, profitable manner. If this is not done, one of two things will happen. There will be a change in management, or the business will run downhill. The latter would be disastrous to all concerned, including the employees.

The public depends on management to administer the business in such a manner that its service needs are met at a reasonable cost.

And the public in the end is the boss of any business. If this boss—the public—is not pleased, the business is again in trouble and its jobs and people in jeopardy.

Beyond that, management has a moral obligation to the public and the nation. Business is an integral part of the great American economy. It is the duty of all business—and particularly of a public utility—to place the welfare of the country and its defense at the head of the list.

THE FUTURE

These are a few basic thoughts on the objectives of our company. They do not cover specifically the daily problems that make the job difficult at times. But there is hardly a daily problem that cannot be considered and solved under our basic policies.

There may be times when one factor will seem to have more weight than another, but in the long run a policy of equal consideration for owners, employees, and public will assure success.

We can face the future with confidence. As previously mentioned, the next 20 years are expected to bring our greatest period of growth and development.

If all of us are informed on company objectives, if all of us understand our own aims and objectives in working for this company, and if we all co-operate to achieve those objectives, the years ahead cannot help but be pleasant, fruitful, and rewarding.

Helena Rubinstein Shows You How to Improve Your Complexion!

New Medically-Tested Treatment Banishes Oiliness, Coarse Pores, Skin Problems

Helena Rubinstein, whose studies in medicine led her to specialize in correcting disturbed skins, now shows you how to conquer oily, clogged skin problems. Your skin will become clearer before your very eyes after one 15-minute treatment! In two weeks' time blackheads, coarse pores, clogging oiliness will give way to the smoother, mat, even-textured complexion that's your dream.

"Best thing that ever happened to me. My husband's using it too."
(Mrs. Carson, Radburn, N.J.)

"It's like a Cinderella story. I still can't believe my mirror."
(Lucille Rusby, N.Y.C.)

MEDICATED BEAUTY TREATMENT

Simple as one-two-three—just three steps: Enlarged pores are an open invitation to blemishes. Your first step is DEEP CLEANSER, a creamy liquid that flows deep into the pores and dislodges even the dirt "glued" in by oil—while its exclusive antiseptic R-57 destroys the bacteria that commonly cause surface blemishes.

Step two helps heal and clear with MEDICATED BEAUTY MASK. Its medications are the same ones prescribed by dermatologists as most effective in healing surface blemishes. "Unmasking" was a momentous thrill for the women tested. As they washed off the mask they actually washed off blackheads and saw a clearer, smoother, younger-looking complexion emerge!

Last is a vitalizing skin bath of "WATER LILY" PORE LOTION which quickly tightens the pores, leaving a more delicate texture where once the skin was coarse and uneven.

When you see those blackheads wash off like so many dirt specks, you'll know there's nothing for your skin like Helena Rubinstein's complete MEDICATED BEAUTY CARE. 4 weeks supply, just 3.95 plus tax.

RESULTS GUARANTEED

Helena Rubinstein says: "I am so sure that you will be satisfied with the results when you use these products as directed, that I

Wash away these blemishes in 15 minutes!

Here are the 3 simple steps that will clear your skin:

1. Apply Helena Rubinstein DEEP CLEANSER with exclusive R-57. It rids pores of dirt, "sterilizes" against bacteria.
2. Apply Helena Rubinstein MEDICATED BEAUTY MASK. In 10 minutes wash off mask—wash away blackheads! Skin is clearer, finer, smoother.

MARINE CHARGED WITH HITTING MEN ON TRIAL TODAY

3 Other Instructors at Parris Island, S.C., to Be Tried for Abusing Recruits.

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C., Feb. 25 (AP)—Staff Sgt. William E. Rich of Manchester, Conn., a drill instructor charged with hitting five recruits with his hands, faces a special court-martial at this Marine base today.

Rich is one of four drill instructors who will be tried in the next two weeks on charges of abusing recruits.

If convicted, he faces a maximum punishment of a bad conduct discharge, six months confinement, forfeiture of two-thirds pay for up to six months and reduction of rank to private.

3 Others Charged.

Capt. James F. Mahoney, base public information officer, said the other drill instructors charged are Cpl. William F. Walsh Jr. of Lyndhurst, N.J.; Sgt. Daniel K. Corey of Boston; and Sgt. Clinton L. Jones of Pensacola, Fla.

Mahoney said Walsh, accused of striking 11 recruits, will face a special court-martial in about two weeks.

Jones and Corey will face a summary court-martial within a week, Mahoney reported. The summary court-martial is the least of the three military courts—general, special and summary. Maximum punishment of a summary court-martial is up to 30 days confinement, forfeiture of two-thirds pay for as much as a month, and reduction to private.

Jones is accused of striking one recruit with his hand. Corey is charged with pushing a recruit to the ground and of forcing another recruit to stuff candy into his own mouth.

Mahoney said none of the recruits involved in any of the cases required medical treatment.

Relieved of Duties on Feb. 6.

The base has had several cases of recruit mistreatment within the past year. The latest investigation was touched off when Nelson R. Porter of Hartford, Vt., wrote Maj. Gen. Homer L. Litzberg, base commander, that his son, Pvt. David L. Porter, had reported he was struck by Walsh with an object which looked like a "hand-cancelling stamp used in post offices."

A preliminary investigation was started in January and the four drill instructors were relieved of their duties on Feb. 6. Last April, six recruits drowned in an unauthorized night disciplinary march into nearby Ribbon Creek swamps led by Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon of Worcester, Mass. He was convicted by a general court-martial and reduced in rank to private, fined and confined for a total of three months.

RED LEADER PLEADS FIFTH AMENDMENT

Eugene Dennis Refuses to Answer Questions at Senate Hearing.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Eugene Dennis, retiring secretary of the Communist party in the United States, invoked the Fifth Amendment today in refusing to answer questions at a Senate hearing.

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee called Dennis, who has served prison terms on charges of conspiring to advocate the overthrow of the Government and for contempt of Congress. He refused to say even whether he had attended the party's recent national convention which claimed to have slapped him down and broken its ties with Soviet style Communism.

The convention, held behind closed doors, announced it had refused to re-elect William Z. Foster, the Communist party chairman.

Dennis contended the subcommittee had no right to "pry into my political beliefs" by questioning him.

He said his conscience would not let him answer questions of a subcommittee he said was "headed by a chairman who is a notorious racist."

Senator Hruska (Rep., Nebraska, presiding in the absence of Chairman Eastland (Dem., Mississippi), banged his gavel and told Dennis he would "not tolerate any aspersions" on any subcommittee members.

Dennis also attempted to base his refusals to answer questions on his rights under the First Amendment, but Hruska said the Fifth Amendment is the only basis under which a witness may decline to testify.

Dennis, among other things, refused to say whether he had met with a man named "Irving Potash" whom the subcommittee counsel, Robert Morris, said had entered the United States "surreptitiously" in late 1956 after visiting Moscow.

Dennis called it "absurd, fantastic, preposterous" when Morris asked whether he had met secretly with Potash. He said that so far as he knows Potash passed on nothing that "could be regarded as directives" from Moscow. He refused, however, to say whether he had received any advice from Potash.

JOHNSON CHIDES SENATE FOR LONG MIDEAST DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (UP)—Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson coaxed the Senate today to wind up debate on President Eisenhower's Middle East "doctrine" and start voting.

The Texan said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told Senate leaders yesterday that the Administration wants the pending resolution passed "as soon as possible." Johnson said he hoped the Senate would agree by unanimous consent to limit debate, starting Thursday.

Senator Wayne L. Morse (Rep., Oregon), said he did not see any urgency to the resolution and would not agree to begin voting until it had been debated fully.

Johnson replied that one of his problems is finding one senator to speak on the bill and another to preside. In a sense, he said, "the Senate itself is on trial" because the nation cannot understand why so few senators are present when such an important issue is being debated.

HAMMARSKJOLD, EBAN CONFER ON ISRAEL'S ANSWER

the assembly Egypt was ready "to make special and helpful arrangements" for use of the U.N. Emergency Force around the Gaza strip to prevent border raids and for "good civilian administration" in the strip.

Over the weekend, however, Egyptian spokesmen in Cairo said in effect President Gamal Abdel Nasser had not agreed to a long-time role for the U.N. troops in the strip. They said they considered UNEF's only function was to supervise the Israeli withdrawal.

One Israeli source remarked the Egyptian comments seemed to make Hammarskjold's statement meaningless. But a U.N. spokesman said the Secretary General's report still stood.

By the United Press.
Mrs. Golda Meir, the Israeli foreign minister, said she still believed there would be no imposition of sanctions against Israel.

She told a local television audience last night "Israel has never believed for one moment that the United Nations would impose sanctions" and said it would be a tragic day for both Israel and the United Nations if they were imposed.

JOSEPH COSTELLO ARRESTED IN ATTEMPT TO AID FRIEND

Joseph Costello, head of the Ace Cab Co., was locked up early yesterday after he appeared at Newstead Avenue Police Station to inquire about a friend, who had been arrested in a disturbance. Costello, who lives at 2626 Curney court, was later released.

The disturbance took place in the tavern of James W. Price, 4425 Olive street, who said he fired a gas gun to break up a fight among customers. Police, called to the tavern at 1:15 a.m., found a large hole in the plate glass window. They were told a man leaped through the window and ran east in Olive street, accompanied by a woman, after Price fired the tear gas gun. The name of the man was not learned.

Costello appeared at the police station to inquire about Price, who was booked suspected of affray. Price told officers the trouble started with an argument between two women, and several men joined in. One man fought him when he tried to restore order, Price said.

com·mu·ni·ca'tive

is the word for the Newsweek reader...

* com·mu·ni·ca'tive, adj.
Inclined to impart or communicate information, ideas, etc.

the key to a current marketing problem:

In business, industry, science, government—the need is more and more for communicative people...

• People with the dynamic quality for inspiring agreement and action in others.

And, more and more, astute advertisers are delving beyond mere circulation numbers or ratings to seek out this "communicative" quality among the audience they cultivate.

This is a major reason why advertisers invested more dollars in Newsweek during 1956 than ever before, and for Newsweek's rise to first place among news magazines in number of advertising pages gained during the past year.

Newsweek's circulation, now over 1,050,000, is concentrated among communicative people who initiate agreement and action on issues—ideas—policies—possessions and purchases—whether it be in business, home, social life or community.

Newsweek exerts natural attraction for such people because its editorial function is the clear, accurate—and objective—presentation of the significance in the news.

INTERNATIONAL OILS STRONG STOCK GROUP

Suez Canal Report Factor—
Irregular List Decline
Meets Late Support.

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor.
NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (UP)—
Stocks turned firm in what Wall Street called a creditable performance today.

Prices declined irregularly for a time with some support developing late in the session.
International oils stood out with gains ranging to more than 3 points in Gulf Oil. Oils generally were better by small amounts.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 302.44 at close, a point lower than 466.90 at the close. The 20 rails rose 96 at 141.26, while the 15 utilities gained 19 at 70.53.)

Suez Canal Opening Talk.
Hope for an early reopening of traffic on the Suez canal after the period of the oil group, chemicals met support after Dow had lost more than two points. Aircrafts were lower.

Steels were mixed in a narrow area. Motors were steady except General Motors which lost more than a point.

Numerous special issues moved higher. A few of them lost ground. Trading rose early in the day and fell off later. But it still was well above the dullness of the previous session on Thursday.

Oil Shares Higher.
Oils generally were higher and fairly active. The oil group, behind the market for a long time, came into its own last week when the oil issues led several strong recoveries. Seaboard Oil, an exception, lost
more than a point.

The industrial and railroad averages lost ground moderately while the utilities enjoyed their sixth consecutive advance, helped by a rise of more than a point in Peoples Gas.

Traders judged the market favorably and many market experts said the trend pointed higher over the near term. The Middle East situation still tended to restrain buying enthusiasm although the news on that area seemed to smolder more favorable interpretations.

Steels, Motors Irregular.
Steels and motors were irregular. In the latter, General Motors whose lowered Chevrolet production brought down auto output last week, set a new low. Chrysler gained slightly while Ford eased.

Du Pont with a loss of more than 2 points helped pull down the industrial average. Rails lost because of small losses in Southern Railway, Chesapeake & Ohio, Great Northern and New York Central.

Special issues registered gains of a point or more in a long list, including Central Foundry, Cooper Bessemer, Diamond T Motor, Mead Corp., Minneapolis Honeywell and St.
Joseph Lead.

The Associated Press said that of 1117 issues traded, declines totaled 422 and advances 433. There were 23 new issues for 1956-57 and seven new highs.

The Associated Press 60 stock average rose 10 cents to $172.20 with the industrials up 20 cents, the utilities up 40 cents and the average 10 cents on Thursday.

Volume totaled 1,710,000 on Thursday.

Business Outlook

STATISTICS POINT IN ALL DIRECTIONS

By J. A. Livingston

THIS IS A FRUSTRATING time of year to try to figure out what's ahead in jobs, productions, sales, and profits. It's between seasons. Baseball players are in training, automobile dealers are building up inventories, housewives are not yet ready for spring cleaning, and Easter's two months away—April 21. So you don't dare make too much which or what about the economic trend.

Wall Street's no help. Prices of industrial stocks are down 12 per cent since August. Does that presage an economic recession? Or is the stock market backpedaling on overexpectations?

Consider the January drop in department store sales—126 in the Federal Reserve Board's index as against 129 in December and 131 in November. Not encouraging. Especially since inventories reached a new high. So, in December department store buyers cut back purchase orders for merchandise to 6 per cent below last year.

Darn Those Statistics!
Don't, incidentally, be taken in by February plus signs, because February, 1956, was a sad month for department stores. Sales were at their year's low. Cash registers this February will have to tote up year-to-year gains of 7 per cent to maintain last month's pace. In the first two weeks, they've scored gains of 5 per cent and 7 per cent respectively.

But is that bad? Don't ask a statistician. All he'll say is: "Darn those department store statistics! Who knows what they mean?" Some stores establish branches in the suburbs. That alters the data. Some quit downtown. Namm-Loe's just gave up in Brooklyn. Wanamaker's had previously left Manhattan. What once was an excellent retailing index has lost some of its validity.

Thus, sales of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and Montgomery Ward & Co., which operate parking-lot stores in outlying sectors of cities, were up 8 per cent in January over last year. That, in contrast with the department store gain of less than 2 per cent. Which data tell the trend? Prices also are mixed. Copper's down another cent to 31 cents a pound. Yet, the cost of living index creeps to a new high, 118.2 in January, up 0.2 implication: More cost-of-living wage increases.

Layoffs in the television industry also are hard to "figure." This could be merely a mild readjustment—the result of overproduction. Or it could be a retrenchment year. The last one was 1951. Sales tumbled from 7,463,000 to 5,385,000 sets—28 per cent. Then sales rose to 6,100,000 in 1953, and have been above that level ever since. High year: 7,756,000 in 1955. In 1956, sales hit 7,200,000.

Cash-Buyers for Autos.
The auto industry counts on balmy weather to bring out the new-car lust in you and me. Last year started off as if to beat all records. So it's hardly a disgrace if 1957 sales don't match early '56 levels.

Passenger cars in dealers hands totaled 621,000 on February 1 as against 513,000 on January 1, according to Automotive News. But they're 200,000 less than January a year ago. The industry notes two hopeful auguries—(1) dealers are said to be getting good prices; they're not giving huge discounts and (2) cash-buyers are back in the car market. In September and October, when automobile dealers were cleaning up 1956 models, four out of every five new cars—80 per cent—were sold on credit. In November, that dropped to 65 per cent and in December to 59 per cent. "Normal" is 60 per cent to 65 per cent.

Housing's still enigmatic. Starts in January were at an annual rate of about a million dwellings, slightly below the average for 1956. Rejection by the House Veterans' Committee of President Eisenhower's proposal to boost interest rates on GI loans from 4½ per cent to 5 per cent isn't going to help. If legislators want veterans to get their share of mortgage money,

U.S. TREASURY ISSUES STEADY, TRADE LIGHT

Rails, Industrials and Utilities Give Ground Late in Day.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—The bond market turned slightly lower in late trading today with rails, industrials and utilities giving ground. Volume was moderately active.

U. S. Government bonds were steady and quiet over-the-counter. Central European and South American dollar liens gave ground in a slightly lower foreign department.

BANK CLEARINGS
St. Louis bank clearings for Feb. 25 were $110,100,000, compared with $108,200,000 a year ago.

The way to do it is to make the GI interest rate competitive—not to keep them so low that money-lenders will steer clear of veterans.

Like the First Robin, Waiting.
So far, there's every indication that the economy will roll with the current readjustment instead of being "rolled" by it. Government expenditures—federal, state, and local—are due to rise, which will impart an up-thrust to business later on in the year. Credit is easier—thanks to a rapid reduction of bank loans since Christmas. Business men borrowed in the fall to be sure of having plenty of a then scarce commodity, money. Now they don't need quite as much as they thought they would.

True, because of declines in TV, furniture, textile, and paperboard output, the Federal Reserve board index of industrial production dropped a point in January to 146. This arrested the rise which began in July when the steel strike hit the economy full force and dropped the index to 135. A one-point dip's no ski-slide.

The statistics point in all directions. There seldom is a clear trend in January and February—when economists, automobile dealers, the first robin, baseball players and Easter hats await spring.

FOUR MORE BODIES RECOVERED FROM KOREAN AIR CRASH

SEOUL, Feb. 25 (AP)—Search crews today found four more bodies in the wreckage of a United States Air Force Globemaster that crashed and burned Friday night on a Han River sandbar. This raised the lost of known dead to nine, leaving 13 still missing and presumed dead.

One of the missing was Sgt. Ralph E. Myers, husband of Mrs. Betty J. Myers of Lebanon, Mo.

Injured included Specialist Third Class Donald L. Hoehner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hoehner, Rural Route 1, Collinsville, Ill.

The big C-124 transport was en route to Japan with 156 Americans aboard—10 Air Force crewmen, 147 Army men and 2 Army civilian employees. Most were on leave. Twenty-eight of the 137 survivors accounted for are still hospitalized, two of them in serious condition.

Army and Air Force officials said the search was continuing for the missing. Many officers said privately they had little hope any of them would be found alive.

Two Killed by Tree.
GRANT PASS, Ore., Feb. 25 (AP)—A search party late Saturday night found the bodies of two foresters who were crushed to death when gusty winds toppled a 125-foot fir tree on their jeep. They were William Brinsfield and Fred Michellott.

BOAT CAPSIZES, 6 DROWN

BAY MINETTE, Ala., Feb. 25 (AP)—Six persons drowned when a small skiff capsized in a tributary of the Tensaw river yesterday. The dead included four children. There were three survivors.

All nine occupants of the 10-foot skiff were members of two Bay Minette families. The dead were Joe Cook, 31 years old, two sons of Cook, Billy Wayne, 9, and Thomas, 5; Joyce Hodge, 16; Challie Hodge, 11, and Hubert Hodge, 9.

IT'S THE DREAM CAR TO DRIVE
—THE BIGGEST VALUE TO BUY

ONE GLANCE can't possibly tell you what a complete and thorough job the Buick engineers did on this '57 SPECIAL.

But the longer you look, the better you'll know.

And the deeper you probe, the more you'll know that here is newness where newness counts most—inside, where performance is born.

Sure, in this suave and strapping new Buick you get a brand-new body, and a brand-new frame, and a brand-new chassis that "nests" the body like no chassis ever did before.

And that's why you enjoy a car so low, yet so roomy—with full headroom and legroom and footroom for all 6 passengers.

But you also get a new and mighty engine. A slick new instant Dynaflo.* A completely new power train, in literal truth.

And that's why your Buick is so zestful, so thrilling, so silken smooth, such a dilly for performance.

On top of that, you get a brand-new ride, new steering, new braking, new safety.

And when you put this all together—as you'll find out behind the wheel—you have the dream car of the year to drive.

Yet this '57 Buick can be yours if you can afford any new car at all.

Proof? Owners of small cars have been flocking in by the thousands ever since they saw prices like we show here. Want further proof? See your Buick dealer today.

'BUGS' MORAN DIES, CHICAGO GANGSTER

Prohibition Era Hoodlum Was in Federal Prison for Robbing Bank.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Feb. 25 (AP)—George C. (Bugs) Moran, prohibition era Chicago hoodlum, died today in the federal prison here of lung cancer. The 64-year-old Moran was brought to the prison last month to serve a 10-year sentence for burglary of a bank at Ansonia, O., 11 years ago. Last November Moran completed serving a 10-year sentence at the Ohio penitentiary for robbery. Moran was the leader of a powerful Chicago North Side liquor and gambling gang in the late 1920s. Several of his lie-tenants were killed in the 1929 Valentine day massacre, which took place in a garage he used as a headquarters. He never regained his stature as a big-time crime boss after that.

WASHINGTON U. ALUMNUS GETS TOP BELGIAN AWARD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ATLANTA, Feb. 25—Dr. Eugene R. Kellersberger of Melbourne, Fla., one of 12 Washington University School of Medicine alumni honored in St. Louis last Wednesday, today was presented the Croix de L'Officier de la Couronne from the Belgian Government at a luncheon here. Presentation of the decoration, the highest given by the Belgian Government, was made by Henri de Givie of the Belgian consulate for Dr. Kellersberger's 25 years of service in the Belgian Congo. He previous has received the Chevalier Royal Order of the Lion and the Chevalier Royal Order of the Crown from the Belgian Government for curing 11,000 cases of sleeping sickness. Dr. Kellersberger, who was graduated from the university's medical school in 1915, is an ordained Presbyterian minister. He retired in 1953 as general secretary of American Leprosy Missions, Inc., national Protestant agency which aids 16 leprosy colonies in 32 countries.

Chevy tops all cars at Daytona —officially!

Coveted Manufacturers' Trophy won by Chevrolet as "best performing U. S. automobile"!

There's no question about it now—official NASCAR* trials prove that the 1957 Chevrolet is America's outstanding performance car!

Running in the famous Safety and Performance Weeks competition at Daytona Beach, Florida, Chevrolets from all over the country piled up the largest point margin ever recorded to capture the official Manufacturers' Trophy!

Daytona is America's greatest open competition for stock cars. Claims don't count—just performance. Electronic timing equipment and keen-eyed NASCAR officials guarantee that results are impartial, that all cars are regular production models. And here are the cold, unanswerable figures:

FLYING MILE (two-way run)

CLASS FOUR (six-cylinder engines)

- 1..... Chevrolet
- 2..... Chevrolet
- 3..... Chevrolet
- 4..... Car A
- 5..... Chevrolet

CLASS FIVE (low-priced V8's)

- 1..... Chevrolet (new class record)
  - 2..... Chevrolet
  - 3..... Chevrolet
  - 4..... Chevrolet
  - 5..... Chevrolet
- and Chevy won every other place in the first 10.

ACCELERATION (one mile from standing start)

CLASS FOUR (six-cylinder engines)

- 1..... Car Y
- 2..... Chevrolet

- 3..... Chevrolet
- 4..... Chevrolet
- 5..... Chevrolet

CLASS FIVE (low-priced V8's)

- 1..... Chevrolet (new class record)
  - 2..... Chevrolet
  - 3..... Chevrolet
  - 4..... Chevrolet
  - 5..... Chevrolet
- and Chevy won the first 18 places!

Even more significant for the average driver was the special competition for the "Big Three"—the definitive contest for cars in the low-price field. These were single-carburetor V8's equipped with automatic transmissions, the most popular kind of car Americans buy. And what happens here? Take a look at the results:

"BIG THREE" CLASS (flying mile)

- 1..... Chevrolet
- 2..... Chevrolet
- 3..... Chevrolet
- 4..... Car A
- 5..... Chevrolet

What does all this prove?

It proves—without any room for argument—that Chevrolet is the best performance buy in America. The 1957 Chevrolet is head and shoulders above everything else in its field!

Chevrolet is the best engineered car in its class. In every event—for six-cylinder cars, for high-performance V8's, for automatic drive single-carburetor V8's—Chevrolets piled up overwhelming margins. Note this particularly: Chevy V8's were running against cars with larger displacement, bulkier engines. And they whipped them soundly!

This competition means only one thing to you: actual proof of performance, not fancy claims. And there's an even better way for you to sample what this means in your own terms: Drop into your Chevrolet dealer's showroom the next day or so. Drive a Chevrolet—any model that suits your taste. Whatever it is, you'll find championship performance, right across the board!

MANVILLE ATTENDS WEDDING OF ONE OF FORMER WIVES

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—Tommy Manville Jr. did something yesterday he never had done before. He attended the wedding of one of his nine former wives.
He congratulated the bridegroom, British-born actor John Sutton, 43 years old, and kissed the bride, Mrs. Anita Roddy-Eden Manville, 34. She was his ninth and—to date—last wife.
Manville, now 62, said Mrs. Manville invited him to the wedding. The marriage was her second and Sutton's third. Her marriage to Manville ended in a Reno divorce and a $260,000 settlement in 1955. They separated 12 days after their marriage July 10, 1952.

MORE TRAFFIC LAWS URGED FOR UNDISCIPLINED DRIVERS

More traffic regulations are the answer for motorists who are not willing to educate themselves in the tenets of safe driving, Col. Hugh H. Waggoner, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, said yesterday.
If Missouri motorists are not willing to discipline themselves, others must do the job for them, and this means more rigorous enforcement regulations, Waggoner said.
People may have good reflexes, know the traffic laws, and know how to drive very well, but if they haven't the proper driving attitude, they invite accidents and highway deaths, he said. The Patrol urges all drivers to test their own driving attitudes carefully, and to know their own driving faults, he added.

THURGOOD MARSHALL SAYS BIAS HARMS ALL

Effect of School Integration Fight Discussed Here by N.A.A.C.P. Lawyer.

The South's fight against desegregation of public schools menaces not just a minority group but all Americans, for it challenges the Constitution of the United States, Thurgood Marshall, counsel of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, declared here last night.

Marshall, who argued the school segregation cases before the United States Supreme Court, spoke at Sheldon Memorial at a public assembly sponsored by the St. Louis Civil Liberties Committee.

"The question involved in desegregation is whether this is a country of laws or not," he declared. "Many people are beginning to think that a law can be flouted if it is sufficiently disliked. There are some laws I don't like—income tax, for example. But I manage to obey them."

West Virginia and Missouri are leading the way in integrating their public schools, Marshall said. Other states are following less rapidly, but eight states—Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Georgia, the Carolinas and Virginia—are defying the Supreme Court by making no move for compliance with the law, he asserted.

"The great majority in the South are law-abiding people of good will," he said, "but they are being pressured into silence. Social ostracism is the least a man can expect when he speaks out against segregation."

"As some universities, teachers of government and other 'sensitive' subjects are required to submit their lecture notes for scrutiny to make sure they don't get out of line. Anyone who challenges a school board finds himself subjected to ruthless economic retaliation. If he has a job he is fired. If he owes money on his home, the mortgage is called. He finds that he can't borrow a dollar to put seed in the ground."

The attorney emphasized that racial discrimination in employment and in housing must be eliminated before the democratic ideal of equal rights can be realized.

Asked why the President of the United States has not spoken out against southern defiance of the law, Marshall replied: "I believe that President Eisenhower is as well-informed and well-intentioned on this as he is on any subject."

FIRM RUN BY VITALE ROBBED THIRD TIME

$3500 Stolen—All Break-Ins
Have Taken Place
This Year.

Anthony Novelty Co., 3635 Klenen avenue, Pine Lawn, was visited for the third time this year by burglars, who knocked the combination off a safe and stole with $3500, police were informed today. Gangster John J.
Viale is head of the firm, which distributes jukeboxes and vending machines.

Entrance to the one-story building was gained by chopping a hole in the roof. The combination was knocked off a new safe, which replaced a strongbox stolen in a previous burglary. The cash it contained was largely in coins.

The first burglary was on the night of Jan. 21, when $1930 was stolen from a box. Viale bought a safe, but three nights later burglars stole the 300-pound safe and $1900. On those occasions the burglars gained entrance by forcing a door and a window. The present safe is bolted to the floor.

A camera valued at $400 and a radio valued at $50 were reported stolen today from a study at Third Baptist Church, 620 North Grand boulevard.

LIGHT TURNOUT PREDICTED FOR CITY PRIMARY

The unusually small number of candidates—45—in the city primary March 5 will be matched by a light voter turnout, Chief Clerk Harry Letz of the Election Board predicted today.

"I may be sticking my neck out, but I doubt if the vote will run higher than 95,000," Letz said, adding that he doubted the last-minute entry of former Sheriff Thomas F. Callanan in the mayoral primary against Mayor Raymond R. Tucker would increase voting substantially.

Vote in the last mayoral primary, in 1953, totaled 143,129.
Registration this year will be about 350,000, compared with 387,220 before the 1953 mayoral primary.

Names of 19,133 persons were stricken from registration rolls after a canvass last Friday and Saturday showed they did not live at addresses listed. Notices were being mailed to them today and they can appear at the Election Board offices, 208
South Twelfth boulevard, Wednesday through Saturday to submit proof of their residence.

SENATE UNIT BACKS WEBER JUDGESHIP

Judiciary Committee Approves Appointment to U.S.
District Court Here.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—The Senate Judiciary Committee today unanimously approved the nomination of Circuit Judge Randolph H. Weber of Poplar Bluff, Mo., to a United States District judge for the eastern district of Missouri, with headquarters in St. Louis.

Weber, a Republican, will fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge Ruben M. Hulen last July. The nomination will now go to the Senate for approval. Senator Thomas C.
Hennings Jr. (Dem.), of Missouri said he would confirm Weber's nomination.

Weber, 47 years old, was born in St. Louis and was reared in Poplar Bluff, where his father was in the shoe manufacturing business. He said recently his family will live in St. Louis if he is named to the federal bench here. The Webers have two sons.

three persons may have been killed.

NEW YORK AREA DAIRYMEN GO ON STRIKE, DUMP MILK

BRANCHVILLE, N. J., Feb.
25 (UP)—Thousands of dairymen in three states dumped their milk today rather than sell it to New York suppliers for prices 14 to 18 cents lower than the retail price.

Members of the Master Dairy Farmer Guild in northern New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York went on strike last night to back their demands for 12 cents a quart for raw milk sold to creameries in the New York milkshed area. They currently are getting 10 cents a quart.

The Rev. John W. Dorney, executive director of the guild, said the boycott of creameries would affect "millions" of milk drinkers in the New York re-

MITCHELL SEEKS MINIMUM WAGE LAW EXTENSION

Labor Secretary Would Include 2,000,000 Retail Workers, 500,000 in Other Trades.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell today proposed putting an additional 2,500,000 workers under the federal dollar-an-hour minimum wage law, but he conceded most of them already make that much.

Mitchell presented Administration recommendations for expanding coverage of the Fair Labor Standards Act as the opening witness at Senate Labor subcommittee hearings.

The subcommittee already has a series of bills calling for considerably broader coverage than Mitchell proposed. He said his plan is as far as Congress should go at the present time. The AFL-CIO has urged extending coverage to take in nearly 10,000,000 additional workers.

2,000,000 in Retail Trade. Mitchell proposed extending the dollar-an-hour minimum wage to some 2,000,000 employees in retail trade and smaller numbers of workers in the local transit, telephone, seafaring, hotel, taxicab and construction industries.

He called for including all employees of firms with 100 or more workers which have an intake across state lines of at least $1,000,000 in income, merchandise, materials and supplies.

Under close questioning by Senator Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts, subcommittee chairman, Mitchell said his department has not yet calculated how many of the 2,500,000 employees proposed for coverage now makes less than a dollar-an-hour.

But he said when Congress raised the minimum wage to the dollar level two years ago, approximately 10 to 12 per cent of exempted workers were making less than the dollar hourly wage. He said he supposed the ratio is generally true among the workers proposed for coverage now.

Called Discriminatory. Rowland Jones, president of the American Retail Federation, told reporters after Mitchell's testimony his organization would continue to oppose any change in the present retail exemption of the law. He said Mitchell's proposals would cover only about 30 per cent of retail employees and this would be "discriminatory" and an opening wedge for broader retail coverage later on.

About 25,000,000 workers now are protected by the $1 minimum wage. They are mostly in factories, offices, mining, transportation, communication and utilities.

House hearings are due to start Friday. The early start in both House and Senate gives promise of some action on the coverage extension plan this year, particularly since both Republican and Democratic party platforms are committed to the idea.

Retailers' trade groups are actively fighting extension of the law to their field. One argument is expected to be that increasing wages would add to inflation. There are no up-to-date figures on wages actually paid in the retail field.

ATOMIC SUBMARINE FANS

GROTON, Conn., Feb. 25 (AP)—Blower fans described as the smallest and quietest ever built are ready to be installed in the atomic-powered submarines Nautilus and Seawolf, the crafts' builder reported yesterday.

Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. said the fan took three years to perfect. Cramped quarters and the dependence of atomic submarines on silence to escape detection made development of the small, super-quiet fan imperative, Electric Boat said.

$1537 IN EXPENSES BY GREEN AND AID FOR 6-WEEK TOUR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (UP)—Expense accounts for Senatorial junkies usually are guarded like atomic secrets—all but 89-year-old Senator Theodore Francis Green's.

The millionaire Rhode Island Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, formally reported that he and an assistant toured Africa for six weeks, spending $1537.49 plus commercial air-line fare.

Green and committee staff member Alwyn V. Freeman visited places such as Capetown, Addis Ababa and Tunis to study economic and technical assistance. They made two stops in Paris. They spent $731.48 in United States money and $806.01 in counterpart funds—local currencies furnished in repayment of United States aid. The State Department paid their air fare in counterpart Italian lire.

Their expense account was detailed down to items like $2 for visa photographs, $2.84 for "postage, telephone and telegraph," and $5 for "maps, books and other papers."

Mexico's Tourist Trade Up. MEXICO CITY, Feb. 25 (AP)—More than 588,000 tourists visited Mexico last year—a 9.6 per cent increase over 1955.

SYMINGTON HITS AT SANCTIONS AS HARMFUL TO U.S.

Unilateral Application Would Reduce Security, Missourian Tells Senate.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 — Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), of Missouri, speaking as a member of the Armed Services Committee and a former official in the executive branch, told the Senate today that "any unilateral application of sanctions against Israel in this air atomic age will reduce the security of the United States."

The Missouri senator repeated his agreement two weeks ago with Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas that if we are to have sanctions at the United Nations "they should apply to all nations which defy the resolutions and mandates of that organization."

At that time, Symington asked "are we now adopting as a national program a policy of being strong against the weak and weak against the strong?"

He said today that this fear may become a reality.

"I for one believe," he said, "that as a result of the many assurances given Israel by this Administration, it would be better for that nation, and the rest of the free world, if their leaders agreed to withdraw from Egypt and relied on the sincerity of the more recent assurances they have been given by the Government of the United States."

"I also believe that, simultaneously, the United Nations forces should move into the Gaza strip and along the Gulf of Aqaba."

"I am not a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; but there is more to this than just diplomacy and for some time I have been informed with respect to the military plans and programs incident to the best interests of the United States."

"Based on that knowledge, obtained over the past 10 years, I believe that any unilateral application of sanctions against Israel in this air atomic age will reduce the security of the United States."

"There should be a 'doctrine of equality,' and if sanctions are to be applied against one state they should also be applied against belligerent Egypt, against India for its unfair and unjustified attack against Kashmir, and against the Soviet Communists for their stark brutality in the suppression of Hungary's bid for freedom."

"Any other action would justify the apprehension I expressed some weeks ago—namely, that this government was now planning to carry out a policy of being strong against the weak and weak against the strong."

U.S. SAYS IT WILL SHOW MINE-MILL UNION IS RED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The Department of Justice said today it will offer a "convincing preponderance of evidence" to show that the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers is Communist controlled.

The statement came from L. E. Broome, trial attorney for the department as the Subversive Activities Control Board opened hearings on a petition by the Attorney General to have the Mine-Mill union declared Communist infiltrated under terms of the Communist Control Act.

Broome said that for three years before the petition was filed in 1955, the union was "under the tight domination and control of the Communist party." "A majority of the members of the international executive board have been either party members or so closely affiliated with the party as to be subservient to its wishes," he said in an opening statement on the case.

U.S. COMPLAINS TO RUSSIA ABOUT AUTOBAHN BLOCKADE

BERLIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—The United States has complained to Russia about Soviet interference with the free movement of Americans on the autobahn between West Germany and Berlin, western sources said today.

The informants said the United States mission in Berlin lodged the complaint with Red army headquarters in East Berlin after Russian army guards turned back American travelers, including State Department officials, at the Martenborn checkpoint on the West German frontier.

Six State Department officials, four men and two women of the Hamburg consulate driving to Berlin for a holiday, were turned back by the Russians at Martenborn Friday. A Soviet army officer asserted their passports were not properly stamped.

Peach Tortoni Can Be Stored in Freezer

Unexpected dinner guests will pose no problem as far as the dessert course is concerned if some of these delicious little individual delicacies are stored in your home freezer. Peach Tortoni is made from canned cling peaches, whipped cream, macaroon crumbs and slivered almonds; it is the sort of dessert you linger over between sips of black coffee.

Party Desserts in Freezer
Make It Fun to Entertain

By DOROTHY BRAINER
Post-Dispatch Food Editor.

ENTERTAINING can be fun or it can be a sort of necessary evil, depending upon two things—the way you feel about it, and how much thought has gone into your planning. Guests have a sort of sixth sense that tells them when a party is an expression of sincere hospitality, and when it is given as a duty to repay social obligations.

And it is a basic law that the success of any social gathering depends more upon the attitude of the hostess than upon expensive food or elaborate decorations. If she is tense and hurried from a last-minute flurry of preparations, her guests will be ill at ease; if she is relaxed and obviously having fun at her own party, they will have fun too.

Chances are that the woman who entertains graciously, with an almost casual ease, owes this skill more to wise planning than to any native talent. She plans her menu thoughtfully, so that much of the preparation can be done ahead of time.

If she owns a home freezer, she makes sure that it always contains at least one "party" dessert—a festive finale that can be made at her convenience.

One word of warning: In packaging frozen desserts it is of course of prime importance to use a moisture-vapor-proof freezing material which will give a completely air-tight wrap.

Peach Tortoni is a perfect example of this type of party dessert.

It is made from crushed canned cling peach slices, whipped cream, macaroon crumbs and slivered almonds. The luscious mixture is spooned into waxed paper baking cups in muffin pans for freezing. After they're frozen firm, remove from muffin pan and wrap each, individually, in freezer paper, sealing airtight. Store in freezer; they will keep a month. (Wrapping after the tortoni is frozen keeps its shape and pretty top intact.)

This recipe makes 12 to 14 desserts, but there's no reason why you can't double it if you would like to save some time by getting 24 desserts out of the way in one afternoon.

Peach Tortoni.

One (No. 2½) can cling peach slices.
One pint whipping cream.
One-half cup powdered sugar.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Three tablespoons sherry wine.

One-half teaspoon salt.
Two egg whites.
One and one-half cups macaroon crumbs—about 15 (2½-inch) macaroons.
One-third cup slivered, roasted almonds.

Six or seven candied cherries. Drain peaches thoroughly. Crush two cups and reserve remainder for garnish. Whip cream. Fold in powdered sugar, vanilla, sherry, salt and crushed peaches. Beat egg whites stiff but not dry. Fold egg whites and the macaroon crumbs into cream mixture.

Put paper baking cups in muffin pan and spoon mixture into each one. Garnish each top with almonds, a cherry half and peaches, dicing peaches, if desired. Freeze in home freezer until very firm.

To store, remove from muffin pan and wrap in freezer paper, sealing airtight. Store in freezer no longer than one month. To serve, remove paper and thaw in refrigerator about 10 minutes. Yield: 12 to 14 large tortoni.

Ice Cream Crumb Pie.
One and one-half cups chocolate cookie crumbs.
One and one-half pints ice cream.
One-fourth cup butter or margarine.
One-fourth cup sugar.

Roll thin chocolate wafers with rolling pin to make crumbs. Cream butter; add crumbs and sugar. Mix well. Pack half the crumbs in freezing tray and place in refrigerator to chill. Cover crumbs with ice cream; pack down well. Press remaining crumbs firmly on top. Return to refrigerator and freeze. Before serving garnish with whipped cream and cookie crumbs. Approximately six weeks storage.

Lemon Pie.
Two eggs, separated.
One-third cup lemon juice.
One tablespoon lemon rind, grated.

One-half cup sugar.
One cup evaporated milk, whipped or one cup cream, whipped.
One-half cup graham crackers or cake crumbs.

Beat egg yolks, add lemon juice and rind and all but two tablespoons sugar. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly. Cool.

Beat egg whites until stiff with remaining two tablespoons sugar; fold into cooked mixture. Fold in milk or cream. Line ice cube tray with waxed paper. Sprinkle with one-fourth cup of crumbs. Pour in lemon mixture, sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Freeze until firm. To serve, cut across tray diagonally to make pie-shaped pieces. Yield: Five servings. Approximately one month storage.

Frosted Orange Cup.
Four large oranges.
One quart orange sherbert.
One quart vanilla ice cream.
Juice oranges and remove membrane from shells. Fill empty orange shells with scoops of orange sherbert and vanilla ice cream. Wrap for freezing and freeze. Yield: eight servings. Approximately two months storage.

Pink Party Cake.
Two and one-half cups sifted cake flour.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Three and one-half teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon salt.
One-half cup vegetable shortening.

Three-fourths cup milk.
One-fourth cup maraschino cherry juice.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Two teaspoons almond extract.

Four egg whites, unbeaten.
One-third cup maraschino cherries, well drained and very finely chopped.
One-half cup pecans, finely chopped.

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together in a mixing bowl. Drop in shortening. Combine milk and maraschino cherry juice. Add three-fourths cup of this liquid and flavoring. Mix well. Add remaining liquid and egg whites and mix well. Add cherries and nuts and blend.

Bake in two deep nine-inch greased layer cake pans in 375 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Cool. Spread with Pink Frosting.

Place in freezer to harden, package and freeze. This can be stored for six months. To serve, allow about two and one-half hours for cake in its original wrapping to thaw at room temperature.

Pink Frosting:
One-fourth cup butter or margarine.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One-half teaspoon almond extract.

One-half teaspoon salt.
Four cups sifted confectioners' sugar.
Nine tablespoons cream, scalded.

Red food coloring.
Combine butter, vanilla, almond, salt and blend. Beat in one-half cup sugar. Add hot cream alternately with remaining sugar, beat well after each addition. Add only enough cream to make a nice spreading consistency. Before spreading frosting on cake, add a few drops of red coloring to tint frosting a delicate pink.

Coconut Balls.
Vanilla ice cream.
Shredded coconut.
Form ball of vanilla ice cream with ice cream scoop or large tablespoon. Roll in shredded coconut. Package individually and freeze. Serve directly from the freezer on bed of raspberry or chocolate sirup. One quart ice cream makes eight balls. Two months storage.

Ice Cream Ribbon Cake.
One angel food cake (loaf 10 by 5 by 3 inches).
One pint strawberry ice cream.
One pint mint ice cream.

One pint whipping cream.
One tablespoon sugar.
One three and one-half ounce box shredded coconut.

Coffee.

Orange and Raisin Pork Chops.
Four pork chops.
One to two oranges.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One tablespoon cornstarch.
One-eighth teaspoon allspice.
One and one-fourth cups hot water.

Two tablespoons lemon juice.
One-fourth cup orange juice.
One-fourth cup raisins.
Flour chops, brown, and sprinkle with salt. Remove orange rind with sharp knife; free orange sections from membrane and lay two sections on each chop.

Make sauce as follows: Mix together sugar, cornstarch and allspice. Gradually stir in hot water and cook until thick. Add lemon juice, orange juice and raisins. Pour sauce over chops and cook over low heat for an hour. Serve topped with sauce. Yield: Four servings.

One pint whipping cream.
One tablespoon sugar.
One three and one-half ounce box shredded coconut.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Cut cake lengthwise in three layers. Spread strawberry ice cream between first layer and green mint ice cream between second. You may substitute your preference for color and flavor.

Answers to Ten Questions About Fruits, Vegetables

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of articles designed to bring homemakers the answers to questions which may have puzzled them concerning various foods. Top authorities in each field were asked to prepare, exclusively for this newspaper, a list of questions which they receive most frequently from consumers and to give the authoritative answers.

By AVANELLE S. DAY
Director Home Economics Activities, United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

FRESH FRUITS and vegetables have long played vital roles in our diet and therefore our cooking and food shopping habits, but they still give rise to many questions from homemakers. Here is a sampling of the queries most received by our test kitchen.

Q. How can I encourage my family to eat more fresh fruits and vegetables?
A. One of the best ways to induce anyone to eat what is good for him is to make it look attractive.

Q. How should green vegetables be cooked to retain their color?
A. Place lid on the pan so there is an opening for steam to escape, or leave lid off for first five minutes then cover for the rest of cooking period. Or keep covered the entire time, but raise lid three or four times to permit volatile vegetable acids in the steam to escape. Otherwise the mild acids will turn the pigment of such vegetables as broccoli or green beans to a drab, unappetizing color. Some green leafy vegetables, such as spinach, cook so quickly that it is possible to cover them during the entire cooking period without harming the color.

Q. What is the best way to cook fresh vegetables?
A. The general rule for cooking fresh vegetables is to use the minimum amount of water—one-fourth to one inch usually is sufficient, depending upon the size of saucepan and quantity of vegetables. Add salt and bring to boiling point. Add vegetables, cover pan tightly to keep in steam which does the cooking. Quickly bring to boiling point again. Reduce heat and boil gently so that steam does not escape around the lid. Cook only until tender when tested with a fork, then remove cover to evaporate any water left in pan.

Q. How can I prevent baked potatoes from becoming soggy?
A. Wash potatoes and bake ONLY until tender in a prepared, covered, or skinned, method of cooking vegetables. A. This method is used by French and Chinese cooks. It produces deliciously flavored vegetables with semi-crisp texture. Vegetables lending themselves to this method are carrots, celery, cabbage, snap beans,

That Extra Touch

Add that extra touch to gingerbread or spice cake by topping it with maple cream. Combine one-half pint of heavy cream and one-fourth cup of pure maple sirup in a bowl; beat until soft peaks form. Chill before serving.

potatoes, green peppers, tomatoes, spinach and other leafy greens. Shred, slice or dice vegetables and place in a heavy skillet or saucepan with one to two tablespoons butter or margarine. Toss lightly. Cover. Cook until vegetables sizzle, then reduce heat. Cook only until crisp-tender, stirring once or twice.

Q. What are the advantages of baking vegetables?
A. Baking is excellent for retaining minerals and vitamins in certain vegetables and is especially good for those which contain enough water to prevent drying out. When cooked whole, the skins hold in the steam so they remain moist.

A FRENCH APRICOT PIE IS A TREAT
FOR YOUR FAMILY.

Flavorful, golden dried apricots and a crunchy brown sugar and butter topping are combined in this French apricot pie. For an extra treat, serve it topped with vanilla ice cream.

French Apricot Pie.

Two-thirds cup granulated sugar.
One tablespoon cornstarch.
Few grains salt.
Two and one-half cups unsweetened cooked dried apricots.
Pastry for single 8-inch crust.
One tablespoon cooking liquid from apricots.

One-half cup brown sugar (packed).
One-third cup flour.
One-fourth cup butter or margarine.

Thoroughly blend together granulated sugar, cornstarch and salt. Drain apricots well, and arrange in pastry-lined pie pan, sprinkling sugar mixture between layers of fruit. Sprinkle with cooking liquid.

Blend brown sugar, flour and butter until crumbly and sprinkle over top. Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees) 25 to 35 minutes, until pastry and topping are well browned. Cool before cutting.

Yield: one eight-inch pie.

BUILT-IN FLAVOR

Ground and toasted Brazil nuts added to a pie crust will give a "built-in" nut flavor. This taste-enriched crust is an excellent accent for a chocolate chiffon pie filling.

Add one-fourth cup ground and toasted Brazil nuts to the pastry mix for a nine-inch single pie crust. (Or for a home-made crust, add the nuts to the flour before the shortening or liquid). Prepare and bake crust according to package or recipe directions.

REGULAR, DRIP AND FINE GRINDS—ONE AND TWO POUND CANS

LEFTOVER CHICKEN IN SHEPHERD'S PIE

Shepherd's pie, that savory concoction of meat topped with mashed potatoes to make a meal-in-one dish, is an old-time favorite.

Deviled Chicken and Olives is an especially good version of shepherd's pie. The sauce is well seasoned with dry mustard, paprika and Worcestershire sauce, and has the elusive flavor of wine. Ripe olives help stretch the chicken into more servings, also add flavor and texture.

Deviled Chicken and Olives. Left-over chicken. Sprig parsley. Bay leaf. Six peppercorns. One large chopped onion. Two chopped stalks celery and leaves. Two teaspoons salt. Three tablespoons butter, margarine or turkey fat. Four tablespoons flour. One and one-half teaspoons dry mustard. Two teaspoons Worcestershire sauce. Two tablespoons catsup. One teaspoon paprika. One-half cup dry white wine. One cup ripe olives. Two cups mashed potatoes. Cut enough left-over chicken from bones to make two cups. Cook bones in two cups water with parsley, bay leaf, peppercorns, onion, celery and salt about one hour. Strain broth. Melt butter or chicken fat in saucepan; stir in flour and mustard; add one and one-half cups broth and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Add Worcestershire sauce, catsup and paprika. Stir in wine and chicken. Cut ripe olives in large pieces and add. Pour into casserole; edge with a ruffle of mashed potatoes. Brown in hot oven (425 degrees) 20 minutes. Yield: six servings.

FLAVORFUL STUFFING FOR CROWN ROAST

A crown roast of pork is a handsome dish to serve with pride, and when it has a well-seasoned stuffing such as this one it becomes really special. The stuffing is made partly with cornbread crumbs, has ripe olives, onion and celery to enrich it.

A crown roast of pork usually will serve about 12 persons.

Crown Roast with Cornbread Stuffing. Six pounds crown roast of pork (about 12 chops).

Eight strips bacon. Stuffing: One cup ripe olives. One-half cup chopped onion. One and one-half cups thinly sliced celery.

One-half cup butter or margarine or drippings from pork roast.

Three cups cornbread crumbs. Three cups soft bread crumbs. One-half teaspoon salt. One-half teaspoon sage. One-fourth teaspoon black pepper. One-fourth cup hot stock or water. Have crown roast prepared by butcher, removing backbone to aid carving. Season roast with salt and pepper. Place on rack in pan with bone ends up. Cut bacon strips in halves and wrap one around each bone to prevent charring. Roast uncovered in moderately slow oven (325 degrees) 40 minutes per pound (about four hours).

After two hours baking time, fill center with cornbread stuffing. Any remaining stuffing may be baked in covered casserole in same oven.

Cornbread Stuffing: Cut olives into large pieces. Cook onion and celery slowly in fat until transparent but not browned. Combine cornbread and bread crumbs, and pour butter-vegetable mixture over them, tossing to blend. Stir in salt, sage, pepper and olives. Sprinkle stock over mixture and mix lightly.

Plum Bran Muffins. Add canned purple plums to bran muffins for an extra fruity flavor. Drain and pit the plums and mix with muffin batter made from your favorite bran muffin mix. Bake as directed on the package.

Ever Bake a Tier Cake? It's Easy

Tier cakes, those tall proud beauties that are served on special occasions, never fail to create a sensation. Gaily decorated and perhaps topped with candles, they add that unmistakable party touch.

Because they look so impressive, many women are a little afraid to attempt baking them at home. But don't hesitate; actually, they are great fun to make—and quite easy with a set of tier cake pans now on the market.

Of course tier cake pans are not new; they have been available for years for wedding cakes. But these new polished aluminum ones come in a smaller size so that they are practical to use for all sorts of occasions such as St. Patrick's day, Easter, birthdays and anniversaries.

From top to bottom, diameters of the four pans are three and one-fourth to nine inches. Home recipes for layer cakes may be used if increased by one half, or you can use exactly one and one-half packages of your favorite cake mix. To serve, remove each layer to a separate plate and then cut; the yield is approximately 20 to 24 slices. You will have fun decorating the cake to suit the occasion. Use one of the inexpensive little cake decorators available at most housewares departments; tint the frosting with vegetable coloring. Here is a challenge to bring out all of your latent talents as a creative cook; give your imagination free rein in using candies, colored sugars, bits of fruits or nuts to decorate your tier cake to complement the color scheme of your party table.

BARBECUE FLAVOR TO THIS POT ROAST

Pot Roast, Barbecue Style, brings the good flavors of outdoor barbecue cooking right into your late-winter kitchen schedule. Place beef pot roast in a spicy marinade overnight; next day, drain and brown the meat, pour on the marinade, cover and simmer gently until meat is tender. Thicken the gravy, if you like, but it's mighty good as is.

Pot Roast, Barbecue Style. Two tablespoons instant minced onion or one medium raw onion, finely chopped (about one-half cup).

One-fourth teaspoon garlic powder or two finely crushed cloves garlic.

One-half cup red or white table wine or broth.

One (8-ounce) can tomato sauce.

One teaspoon salt. One-half teaspoon paprika. Five pound beef pot roast. Two tablespoons shortening or drippings.

One-fourth cup tomato catsup. One-fourth cup wine vinegar. One tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

Combine onion, garlic, wine, tomato sauce, salt and paprika. Pour over meat in large bowl; marinate overnight in refrigerator. Heat shortening in heavy skillet or Dutch oven. Remove meat from marinade; brown on both sides in hot fat.

Blend catsup, vinegar, Worcestershire and mustard into remaining marinade; pour over meat. Cover pan and simmer until meat is tender, about two to two and one-half hours.

Gravy may be thickened slightly, if desired, with a little cornstarch mixed with water. Yield: eight servings.

Hot Dish for Late Supper

Here is a hot dish that can be prepared in just a few minutes and is delicious either for Sunday night supper or a late evening snack. Smooth, tangy Welsh Rarebit served over tomato-topped shredded wheat biscuits has both taste and texture appeal.

RAREBIT-ON-BISCUIT FOR EVENING SNACK

This dish might become your specialty for an after-theater or after-cards supper. The crisp shredded wheat biscuits give nice texture contrast to the smooth Rarebit; tomatoes are perfect flavor companions for cheese. Keep the Rarebit hot in a chafing dish and let each guest help himself. A crisp green salad is the just-right accompaniment.

Rarebit-on-Biscuit. One and a half tablespoons butter or margarine.

One and a half tablespoons flour.

One and a half cups milk.

Two cups grated sharp American cheese.

One teaspoon salt.

One-half teaspoon dry mustard.

One-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Few drops tabasco sauce.

Four shredded wheat biscuits. Four thick tomato slices.

Melt butter or margarine. Stir in flour. Gradually add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is smooth and has thickened. Add cheese, salt, mustard, Worcestershire sauce and tabasco sauce to mixture and continue to cook, stirring constantly until cheese is completely melted. Keep warm over hot water.

Start oven 425 degrees. Dip the shredded wheat biscuits in water for a few seconds. Place on a greased baking sheet. Place a tomato slice on top of each biscuit. Bake for 10 minutes. Serve topped with Rarebit sauce. Yield: four servings.

SNOW BISCUITS AN UNUSUAL TYPE OF HOT BREAD TREAT

Serve these hot with dinner and see how much they add to the meal. They are a different kind of hot bread, a sort of a cross between rolls and biscuits.

Snow Biscuits. Two cups sifted flour.

One and one-half teaspoons sugar.

One-half teaspoon salt.

One cake yeast.

Three-fourths cup lukewarm water.

One tablespoon shortening.

Sift together flour, sugar and salt. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Add to dry ingredients. Add melted shortening. Dough will be soft.

Turn out on floured board and knead dough quickly and lightly until smooth and elastic. Roll out one-half inch thick.

Cut with floured biscuit cutter. Place on greased pan. Let rise until doubled in bulk, about one-half hour. Prick top with fork. Bake at 425 degrees about 20 minutes (maybe less) for two-inch biscuits.

TUTTI-FRUTTI DATES. Delightful confections, easy to prepare and tempting to look at are these cream cheese party snacks.

Soften cream cheese with a little milk. Add chopped candied fruit peels and flavor with pure vanilla extract to taste. Sandwich between two pitted date halves.

VEGETABLES

Continued From Preceding Page. heated oven (400-450 degrees). Open skin in the tops soon as removed from oven. Do not overbake since overbaking also produces soggy results.

Q. What use can I make of broccoli and cauliflower leaves?

A. The leaves of broccoli and cauliflower contribute valuable nutrients to the body. Do not discard them. They are delicious eaten raw in salads and cooked as vegetables. The stems in cauliflower leaves may be trimmed, cooked and served with cheese sauce on toast as for asparagus.

Q. How should fresh fruits and vegetables be stored to retain the maximum food value and freshness?

A. Store fresh fruits and vegetables at low temperature (not freezing) and keep them in closed containers of metal, plastic or film. The ripening process of fruits and vegetables conditions. This process improves flavor due to enzyme action transforming sugar into starch, as in case of young sweet corn and peas. Food value and crispness are decreased by exposure to light and loss of moisture.

Q. Why is so much emphasis placed on the nutritional value of fresh fruits and vegetables?

A. These fresh products contain very large amounts of the vitamins and minerals which aid growth and protect health. For instance, we get over 90 percent of our vitamin C from them.

Q. What months are fresh fruits and vegetables in substantial supply?

A. Thanks to modern agricultural storage and distribution facilities, most varieties of fresh produce are now available in every part of the country all year long. Fresh fruits and vegetables are the best buys when they are at their peak of the season.

HOT CORN STICKS FINE TO SERVE WITH SALADS

Corn sticks, piping hot from the oven, are just right with salads and with certain casserole dishes. And they are so easy to make that there is no reason not to enjoy them often.

Corn Sticks. One cup yellow corn meal.

One-fourth cup sugar.

Four teaspoons baking powder.

One cup all-purpose flour.

One-half teaspoon salt.

One egg.

One cup milk.

One-fourth cup shortening (melted).

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Sift together the dry ingredients. Add egg, milk and shortening. Beat with rotary egg beater until smooth; do not overbeat.

Heat corn stick pans in oven and grease well. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes.

SQUASH CUPS

Season hot cooked Hubbard squash with butter or margarine, salt and ground white pepper. Pipe into individual custard cups.

Drizzle molasses lightly over top of each. Sprinkle with ground nutmeg and slip under broiler until lightly brown.

PARTY DESSERTS TO GO IN FREEZER

STREAMLINED RECIPE
FOR VEAL PAPRIKA

Veal Paprika is a favorite in most families, and it is festive enough to serve to guests. Here is a streamlined recipe which uses a package of tomato-vegetable soup mix to cut the cook's chores in half. The soup mix goes into one and one-half cups of boiling water and is simmered for 10 minutes. After cooling a bit, blend in a cup of sour cream. This sauce goes into the casserole over the browned veal cubes and mushrooms and is subsequently baked in a moderate oven for about an hour.

When it comes out bubbling hot and fragrant with flavor, serve it with an interesting fruit or vegetable salad and piping hot corn muffins. The hungry family will eat this meal right down to the pattern on the plate.

Veal Paprika
With Tomato-Vegetable Sauce
One package tomato-vegetable soup mix.

One and one-half cups boiling water.
One cup sour cream.
Two pounds veal steak, cut into two-inch squares.
Two tablespoons shortening.
One four-ounce can mushrooms.

Three-fourths teaspoon salt.

Pepper.
One-half teaspoon paprika.

Stir tomato-vegetable soup mix into boiling water in saucepan. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Cool slightly and blend in sour cream. Brown veal in shortening, then remove to a two-quart casserole. Add mushrooms and seasonings.

Pour sauce over browned veal. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for one hour or until meat is tender. Yield: six to eight servings.

A QUIZ TO TEST YOUR KNOWLEDGE OF MEAT COOKERY

With the large variety of different meat cuts now on the market, it's to the advantage of the homemaker to know the meat cuts available and the method by which they are cooked.

Below is a quiz set-up to test your knowledge of meat cookery.

There may be more than one correct answer to each question; therefore, check as many answers in each question as you think best describe the meat cookery method.

1. A smoked ham slice can be (a) panbroiled, (b) panfried, or (c) broiled.

2. Meat croquettes are best if (a) broiled, (b) braised, or (c) deep-fat fried.

3. Veal birds made from round steak are best prepared by (a) braising, (b) panbroiling, or (c) roasting.

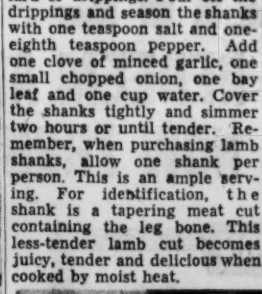

4. Fresh pork loin chops can be best cooked by (a) broiling, (b) braising, or (c) panbroiling.

5. Sweetbreads, a variety meat, can be (a) panbroiled, (b) panfried, or (c) broiled.

Answers: 1. a, b, c; 2. c; 3. a; 4. b; 5. a, b, c.

Shanks With Jelly Glaze
Good Way to Serve Lamb

Brown the Lamb Shanks. Brown four lamb shanks on all sides in three tablespoons of lard or drippings. Pour off the drippings and season the shanks with one teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Add one clove of minced garlic, one small chopped onion, one bay leaf and one cup water. Cover the shanks tightly and simmer two hours or until tender. Remember, when purchasing lamb shanks, allow one shank per person. This is an ample serving. For identification, the shank is a tapering meat cut containing the leg bone. This less-tender lamb cut becomes juicy, tender and delicious when cooked by moist heat.

Coat Shanks with Jelly. Combine one-half cup red currant jelly and one teaspoon grated orange rind in a saucepan and heat until jelly melts. Pour melted jelly over the lamb shanks. Cook slowly in the sauce, about five minutes, turning occasionally to coat the shanks thoroughly. A thin, paper-like covering on the lamb shanks which is called the "fell" should not be removed. It will become tender when the shanks are cooked by a moist heat method of cookery, namely braising. The "fell" actually helps the shanks to retain their shape when being cooked. Less-tender cuts of lamb are cooked to the well-done stage.

Lamb Shanks with Currant Jelly. This recipe makes four delicious servings. Note the dressed-up appearance these lamb shanks have after being thoroughly coated with the melted currant jelly. To go with these glazed lamb shanks, serve buttered rice topped with toasted slivered almonds, peas and carrots, and a tossed salad. Complete the menu with your favorite dessert. Other delicious winter day dishes featuring lamb shanks include braised lamb shanks or stuffed lamb shanks. Lamb shanks braised with vegetables are popular, too. All lamb should be served piping hot or cold—never lukewarm.

Good Breakfast in Minutes
With Appliances, Planning

Throw out any excuses you may have for skipping breakfast. Here's a three-minute breakfast. It's a breakfast that needs no watching or tending, one that's as nourishing and satisfying as any half-hour meal. And you can dismiss those thoughts about calories, for nutritionists have long since proved that even if you are dieting, you need a good breakfast.

What could be faster than this automatic breakfast? In three minutes time you can have toast and coffee, cherry jam, soft-boiled eggs and the usual fruit juice. The trick? There is a trick of course—there always is. In this case, it's organization, with the right food and the right equipment.

Once you are set up for breakfast, breakfast is quick and easy the rest of the week, until Sunday comes and you can have the leisure to serve up something fancier.

The new breakfast is a serve-yourself one. Everything is put within easy reach, at the well-organized breakfast bar. Instant coffee is laid out, and an electric water cup—an "Instant Coffee Pot"—is ready. Coffee cups, too, of course, and an automatic egg cooker and a toaster. The eggs come from the cooker in three minutes flat, the toast pops up from the toaster, the hot water is ready for the coffee and there's jam on the spot. Orange juice, fresh, frozen or delivered by the milk man, is chilled, ready and waiting in the refrigerator.

WAYS TO SAVE
OF HONEY IN JAR

Here's how to use that teaspoon of honey that lines the jar when you have emptied it: Pour honey over a serving of ice cream for an ice cream sundae.

Put honey in the peanut butter jar and cream the peanut butter and honey.

Add honey to a glass of milk, cocoa, or a cup of hot tea or coffee.

Pour honey into the center of a half grapefruit and broil for a few minutes.

Add honey to the white of an egg and beat it for meringue.

Spread honey on bread, toast or graham crackers for an afternoon treat.

Sweeten your breakfast cereal with honey.

Add honey to the sandwich filling you fix for your mid-night snack.

Soften cream cheese with honey for a delicious fruit salad dressing.

Combine honey with a teaspoon of lemon juice to soothe a cough.

Drop honey into the center of a canned pear or peach for a dessert.

Pour honey over the vegetable you are cooking for dinner for an even glaze.

Combine honey with a teaspoon of butter for a honey-butter sandwich.

CORN AND GOOD

Whole kernel and cream style corn share equal popularity at American tables. And with the canned corn supply this year at an all-time record, here's a way to vary this native favorite.

Cook green pepper strips in butter in a skillet until tender. Stir in whole kernel or cream style corn; season with chili sauce and a dash of tabasco; heat.

BUDGET PROBLEM?
NAVY BEANS CAN COME TO RESCUE

Looking for a before-payday dish to satisfy the family's appetite for a hearty meal? Then take advantage of the big supplies of navy beans (pea beans if you prefer) these days. Not only can many hearty meals be made with these dry beans, but they have a special respect for low budget balances now.

That's because 73 million pounds more of these beans were produced in 1956 than the year before, according to the U. S. Dep. of Agriculture.

You probably have your way of fixing beans or peas, but here's a recipe for good old-fashioned bean soup.

Soak one cup of dry beans overnight in a quart of water.

In the morning add another quart of water, one-fourth pound of salt pork, an onion, and a few stalks of celery, if desired.

Simmer until the beans are tender. Remove the salt pork and rub the beans through a strainer if a smooth soup is desired.

Cut the salt pork into tiny pieces and return it to the soup.

Add a tablespoon of flour mixed well with a little water to keep the bean pulp from settling to the bottom. Stir, reheat, and season with salt and pepper.

If you prefer a bit of color to the soup, add tomatoes and carrots.

EGYPT CONFISCATES ISSUE OF CATHOLIC NEWSPAPER

CAIRO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Egyptian authorities confiscated yesterday's issue of the Roman Catholic weekly Le Rayon d'Egypte which has been carrying articles on alleged Egyptian discrimination against Christians.

Sources close to the editor, the Rev. Victor Gohargui, said it was unknown whether the weekly would be allowed to publish next week. Egyptian officials could not be reached for comment.

An article Feb. 5 charged recent laws to "Egyptianize" businesses here resulted in Christians being refused jobs and that many Christians are considering leaving the country because of discrimination.

MEN WHO WOULD HEAD AGENCIES IN WARTIME NAMED

Fleming Says Operation Alert Later in Year Will Test Emergency Organization.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Retiring defense mobilizer Arthur S. Fleming said today President Eisenhower already has selected the men who would head emergency agencies in the event of war.

Fleming also said that in an operation alert, planned for later this year, "we will undoubtedly, for the first time, test out the wartime organization."

He said this in discussing "readiness plans" in a copyrighted interview published in the weekly magazine U.S. News & World Report.

Fleming has resigned as chief of the Office of Defense Mobilization to return to his post as president of Ohio Wesleyan University. Mr. Eisenhower has nominated Gordon Gray, an Assistant Secretary of Defense, to succeed Fleming. Saying that the President has approved ODM plans for an organization to cope with wartime problems, Fleming added:

"The President also has selected the men who would head up the wartime agencies. They know who they are."

There has been no public announcement of their selection. They simply serve as consultants to ODM or to other agencies.

Fleming said these men already, "are engaged in selecting the second and third echelons of personnel for their organization."

He said ODM has developed detailed readiness plans to deal with general mobilization either with or without an attack on this country. He added that his agency also has developed the "action steps" to be taken and has identified the agencies that would be responsible for these steps.

Fleming said the Government has learned valuable lessons from Operation Alert exercises conducted annually since 1954. He did not say when the 1957 test would be held.

As one outgrowth of the alert exercises, Fleming said, Mr. Eisenhower has decided that relocation sites established for the various government agencies should be manned the year around by small groups of workers.

"He decided that they should be assigned there on a permanent basis, to do normal work, and to be trained to handle emergency duties if necessary," Fleming said.

"And the agencies are now in the process of carrying out that decision."

He said each agency that would have major responsibility in an emergency has a relocation site "in an arc of 50 to 300 miles around Washington."

PRAVDA CHARGES
U.S. FINANCED
ISRAELI INVASION

MOSCOW, Feb. 25 (AP)—Pravda fired another salvo at the United States Middle East program today, charging that Israel's invasion of Egypt was "prepared on dollars lavishly provided by the United States."

The Soviet Communist party organ asserted Israel's seizure of the approaches to the Gulf of Aqaba is "the Eisenhower doctrine in action."

The newspaper asked in its lead editorial: "How could the ruling circles of a small state like Israel hurl a challenge at the entire United Nations? And what prevents the United Nations from compelling Israel to respect its decisions?"

Pravda said the answer to both questions was "the United States."

The new Soviet blast followed by a day a claim in Izvestia, the government organ, that the United States and Israel had arranged a "clandestine deal" to cause a new war in the Middle East.

Pravda declared the United States gave Israel $400,000,000 but "does not venture to come out openly on the side of Israel" because it fears the reaction of the "peace-loving peoples of the world."

L. RICHARD GUYLAY QUILTS AS G.O.P. PUBLICITY CHIEF

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The resignation of L. Richard Gulyay as public relations director for the Republican National Committee was announced yesterday by Chairman Meade ALCORN, effective April 1. A successor has not been chosen.

ALCORN said he tried in vain to persuade Gulyay to stay on in the post he has held for two years. The chairman said he was glad Gulyay's services will be available to the committee on a consultant basis.

Gulyay said he was quitting to re-establish his public relations firm in Washington. He helped run the late Senator Robert A. Taft's 1952 campaign for the G.O.P. presidential nomination.

15 ARE REPORTED KILLED IN ARGENTINE TRAIN WRECK

CORDOBA, Argentina, Feb. 25 (AP)—A fast passenger train derailed near here today. First reports said 15 persons were killed and 50 injured.

The train was filled with vacationers returning from Capilla Delmonte, in the mountain resort country northwest of this provincial capital.

All 10 cars of the diesel-pulled train left the tracks with a deafening crash and seven overturned.

U.S.-SOVIET BLOC TRADE DROPS TO ALMOST NOTHING

Secretary of Commerce Says Shipments Are Running Far Below
Authorizations.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Trade between the United States and the Soviet bloc of Europe has dropped to an almost negligible figure, the Department of Commerce reported yesterday.

Eastern Europe gets less than one tenth of 1 per cent of all United States exports, the report said, while imports from that area represent about one half of 1 per cent of the United States total.

In a quarterly report to the President and Congress on export controls, Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks said shipments to the Soviet bloc are running far below authorizations.

For the 12-month period ended last Sept. 30, Weeks said, United States exporters were licensed to ship $24,300,000 worth of goods to Russia and its satellites. Actual exports totaled only $10,000,000, less than 41 per cent of authorizations.

Weeks said there were indications "that even after United States exporters receive orders from eastern European sources and obtain export licenses, financial or other obstacles frequently cause cancellation of the shipments."

Exports to the Soviet bloc totaled $8,800,000 in the first nine months of 1956, compared with $6,000,000 in a like period of 1955. That is far above the 1952 low of $1,000,000, but less than 4 per cent of the 1947 total of $340,000,000.

Weeks said 1947 was selected for this comparison "as a most representative 'normal' post World War II period, prior to the heightening of cold-war tensions and the imposition of security trade controls by the United States and other free world nations."

United States exports of industrial machinery and electrical equipment to eastern Europe have declined sharply from the 1947 level, "principally but not entirely as a result of United States security export controls," the report said. Exports of industrial machinery to the area totaled $104,600,000 in 1947, as compared with $330,000 in the first nine months of 1956. Electrical equipment fell from $26,000,000 to $134,000.

Tallow and Corn Seed. Inedible tallow and corn seed were the two largest exports to the Soviet bloc in the first nine months of 1956. They were valued at $1,800,000 and $1,600,000 respectively.

The bulk of United States imports from eastern Europe were made up of canned hams, shoulders and other pork products, and benzene, a coal derivative used in chemical processes. Weeks' figures do not include certain categories of "peaceful goods" which can be shipped to the Soviet bloc without a special license.

SOVIET MINING SCHOOLS FAR AHEAD, SAYS U.S. EDUCATOR
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25 (UP)—Two professors said yesterday that European and Russian mining students and curricula are far advanced over their counterparts in the United States.

Lute J. Parkinson of the Colorado School of Mines and J. P. Nielsen, professor of metallurgy at New York University, addressed the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers.

Parkinson said Russian and European mining and metallurgical students are better prepared for their courses than American students and the average European freshman is two years advanced over his American counterpart.

Parkinson, who recently returned from Germany, Italy, Austria and Sweden, said European students have a sound preparation in Latin, numerous arts and sciences, in addition to foreign languages, chemistry and mathematics.

ISRAEL BUILDS NEW PIPELINE

JERUSALEM, Israel, Feb. 25 (UP)—Israel has begun work on a 16-inch oil pipeline between Beersheba and the Mediterranean, it was announced Sunday.

The pipeline will bring oil from the Eilat-Beersheba pipeline to the Haifa refineries, bypassing the Suez canal. It is to be completed by March 15.

11 FORMOSANS DIE, 33 HURT IN QUAKE, WORST IN 10 YEARS

TAIPEI, Feb. 25 (AP)—Formosa today counted 11 dead and 33 injured in its worst earthquake in 10 years. There were no casualties among 3000 Americans stationed on this main Nationalist Chinese island.

The quake, centering 45 miles off the island's east coast, struck before dawn yesterday. Greatest damage on this island of 10,000,000 population was at Hualien, east coast port city of 50,000.

High mountains across the center of Formosa reduced the shocks before they reached Taipei and other west coast centers, where most of the American military and embassy personnel live with their families.

The shocks also were felt in the Pescadores, heavily garrisoned Nationalist island chain between Formosa and the Communist mainland.

Provincial police said 180 homes, most of them on farms, were destroyed. Two light tremors jolted Formosa today but caused no further damage.

MAN'S BODY FOUND BESIDE TRACKS IN RAILROAD TUNNEL

The body of John McCarthy, 1209A Chouteau avenue, was found early today beside the Terminal railroad tracks in the tunnel under Washington avenue, near Seventh street.

Identification was made by a neighbor, who said McCarthy, 59 years old and unemployed, had lived at the Chouteau avenue address intermittently for four years.

The body, with hands and feet crushed, was found by the engineer of a diesel locomotive.

MAN ARRESTED IN GEORGIA ACCUSED OF ROBBERY HERE

Lloyd Francis Underwood, arrested yesterday in Atlanta, Ga., was charged with robbery in a warrant issued today at Clayton, following his identification as one of two robbers who terrorized Mrs. Charles J. Schneider in her home, 49 Calverton road, Calverton Park, on Jan. 21. More than $16,000 in furs and jewels were stolen from her.

Underwood, formerly of the 3900 block of North Nineteenth street, is being held by federal authorities on a charge of theft from an interstate shipment. He was one of seven sought for stealing a truck containing 35 television sets, values at $3726, at Goodfellow and Delmar boulevards last Dec. 7.

Underwood was charged in the robbery warrant on the basis of photographs identified by Mrs. Schneider and other information in the possession of the St. Louis county police department. A companion, Franklin Burch, a former tavern owner also was charged with the robbery in a warrant issued Feb. 9.

TIRES OF POLICEMEN'S AUTOMOBILES SLASHED

Tires on four automobiles parked across the street from Page Boulevard Police Station, Union and Page boulevards, were slashed last night. Three of the machines are owned by policemen attached to Page District.

Passersby, attracted by the sound of escaping air, said three boys fled from the scene. Owners of the automobiles were Cpl. Edward Witt, Patrolmen Eugene Valloni and Roger Gueswelle and Cletus Thurston, a clerk, 1322 Union boulevard. The right front tire was cut in each instance.

RULES 'UNDER GOD' BE LEFT IN PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

ALBANY, N.Y., Feb. 25 (UP)—A New York state supreme court justice refused today to order the phrase "under God" stricken from the pledge of allegiance to the flag recommended for use in the public schools of the state.

Justice Isador Bookstein ruled, however, that the right to disbelieve in God is guaranteed by the First Amendment to the Constitution and children of non-believers can delete the phrase while reciting the pledge.

Bookstein dismissed a suit brought by Joseph Lewis and Alfred L. Klein, two representatives of the Freethinkers of America, against State Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr.

Bookstein said he did not believe that a child's omission of the phrase would set him apart as a "non-conformist," but he added that even if it did, compulsory removal of the phrase from the pledge for all "would be preferring those who believe in no religion over those who do believe."

MRS. ROOSEVELT WILLS EYES TO CORNEAL BANK

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, widow of the President, has willed her eyes to the Eye-Bank for Sight Restoration, Inc., it was reported yesterday. They will be used for corneal transplants.

Mrs. Roosevelt is a member of the Eye-Bank's council. More than 15,000 persons signed pledges in 1956 to donate their eyes after death to the organization.

65 Executions in 1956.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The Federal Prison Bureau yesterday reported that 65 executions were carried out by civil authorities in the United States during 1956—11 fewer than in 1955 and only three more than the record low of 62 in 1953. This, the Bureau said, marked a continuation of the trend toward less frequent use of the death penalty in America.

POLICE FOIL BURNING OF CROSS, 4 SEIZED

Anti-Negro Incident in Miami Led by Leader of White Citizens Council.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25 (AP)—Four men charged with trying to erect a cross on the lawn of a Negro family moved into a white neighborhood are scheduled for trial tomorrow.

The four, arrested Saturday night, posted bonds of $500 each within a few hours of their arrest. Five policemen were hidden in shrubbery at the residence of Frank Legree and seized the men as they dug a hole in which to stand the kerosene-soaked cross. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

Their leader was Fred B. Hockett, 51-year-old carpenter and a member of the Seaboard White Citizens Council. The others arrested were Frank L. Foster Jr., 29, James McSweeney, 45, and J. E. Shaver, 47, all of Miami.

Hockett said he organized a

PRIVATE PLANE CRASHES IN ARKANSAS, 4 ABOARD DIE

GRAVELLY, Ark., Feb. 25 (AP)—Two women and two men were killed last night when a private plane en route from Texas to Alabama crashed into the Fourche la Pave river near this west Arkansas town.

The victims were identified as Haywood Irvin Smith Jr., 40 years old, owner and pilot of the four-place Cessna; his wife, Mildred, and Dr. Burton Joseph Chapman, 52, and his wife, all of Athens, Ala. The crash occurred in drizzle and fog.

At Athens, it was said the Smiths and the Chapmans had been visiting in Plainview, Tex. since Thursday. Smith was a chemist at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

Dade county chapter of the council to fight Communism and integration.

The cross-burning attempt followed a day of picketing at the Negro-owned house. A group of young boys led by Mrs. Hockett picketed the apparently deserted house four hours until police dispersed them. No arrests were made. They carried signs urging the Legrees to move.

VOTING IN INDIA'S GENERAL ELECTION HITS FULL STRIDE

NEW DELHI, Feb. 25 (AP)—Voting in India's second general election moved into full stride today with Indians going to the polls in nearly 600 election districts in 10 states.

The election period, which began yesterday, goes on until March 14. Prime Minister Nehru's Congress Party is favored to continue in power. At stake are 495 seats in the Lower House of Parliament plus control of 13 state assemblies.

The nation has 2354 districts, many of which allow voting on more than one day.

In all, about 100,000,000 persons are expected to vote. Because many are illiterate, separate boxes were set up for each party marked with the party symbol. The voter dropped the unmarked ballot into the box of his choice.

Voting was heavy in the Punjab, near New Delhi, and Orissa, south of Calcutta, where the polls opened yesterday. Counting of ballots began in those two states today.

The first killing of the election was reported at Chintamani, in Mysore, when Congress party campaigners clashed with Communists.

POPE PIUS APPROVES USE OF ANESTHETICS

Sanctions Pain-Easing Drugs Even if They Might Shorten Life.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 25 (AP)—Pope Pius XII said yesterday there is nothing immoral or un-Christian in the proper medical use of anesthetics or pain-easing drugs, even when the relief of agony might shorten life.

He made his carefully worded statement at an audience for 500 doctors in reply to three questions raised last fall by the Italian Society of the Science of Anesthetics. The questions and his answers:

Q. Is there a universal moral obligation to refuse analgesia and to accept physical pain in a spirit of faith?

A. "The doctor who accepts its methods (the technique of anesthesia) enters into contradiction neither with the natural moral order nor with the specifically Christian ideal. He is seeking, in accordance with the ordinance of the Creator, to bring suffering under man's control, and to do so, he makes use of the conquests of science and of technical skill. The patient desirous of avoiding or of soothing the pain can, without disquiet of conscience, make use of the means discovered by science and which, in themselves, are not immoral. Particular circumstances can impose another line of conduct, but the Christian's duty of renunciation and of interior purification is not an obstacle to the use of anesthetics."

Q. Is it in accord with the spirit of the Gospel to bring about, by means of drugs, the loss of consciousness and the use of man's higher faculties?

A. "Within the limits laid down (for proper medical use of anesthesia) and provided one observes the required conditions, the state of insensibility involving a lessening or a suppression of consciousness is permitted by natural morality and is in keeping with the spirit of the Gospel."

Q. Is it lawful for the dying or those in danger of death to make use of drugs if medical reasons exist for their use? Can one use drugs even if the lessening of pain is probably accompanied by a shortening of life?

A. "To sum up, you ask us: 'Is the removal of pain and consciousness by means of drugs—when medical reasons suggest it—permitted by religion and morality to both doctor and patient—even at the approach of death and if one foresees that the use of drugs will shorten life?' One must answer: 'Yes—provided no other means exist and if, in the given circumstances, that action does not prevent the carrying out of other moral and religious duties.'"

The Pope elaborated on this theme in a 45-minute address. He said his reply to the second question applied also to hypnosis "practiced by the doctor to serve a clinical purpose," provided the precautions of science and medical ethics were observed.

He told the doctors "it would clearly be unlawful to make use of anesthetics against the expressed will of the dying person." He warned that "all forms of euthanasia—the administration of a drug in order to produce or hasten death—are unlawful."

FORMER EMPLOYEES TO SUE CROWELL-COLLIER CORP.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—A committee of former employees of the defunct Collier's and Woman's Home Companion announced yesterday it would file a $1,000,000 suit against the Crowell-Collier Corp. for severance pay due 2300 workers.

A committee spokesman said the group decided "to press its claims in court because it finds itself unable to deal longer with a corporation and management beset by total chaos and confusion." Publication of Collier's Magazine and the Woman's Home Companion was suspended last December. Last month the company said it would provide severance pay for the employees.

The employees committee said: "After lengthy negotiation... the employees agreed to accept any one of several alternative payment plans, at which point present management refused to go forward with the agreement previously reached."

VIGNETTES OF HISTORY

As the western frontier expanded, new roads were needed. One of the earliest was Boon's (Boone's) Lick Trail, the first road crossing the entire state of Missouri. The original trail to Boone's Lick was probably an Indian and animal path which the early settlers followed, since it offered the most direct route across the country. In 1820, a weekly stage was started between St. Charles and Franklin, but as late as the 1840's, the trail was still badly defined. If the road was bad, the stage driver drove out on the prairie, or cut a new road through the woods. As time passed, Boone's Lick Trail branched into the great trails to the Far West, and in turn, into our modern transcontinental highways. ## Resentment Grows Stronger Every Day in Cuba Against Iron Rule of President Batista

Army's Counter-Terroristic Brutality Hidden by Strict Censorship—Young Generation Leading Formidable Opposition Against Dictator.

By HERBERT L. MATTHEWS

© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.

PRESIDENT FULGENCIO BATISTA of Cuba is fighting a revolutionary offensive. As of today he has the upper hand, and with any luck he can hang on until his presidential term ends in February 1959.

The economy is good and most workers are contented. There are profitable sugar, coffee and tobacco crops. Tourism has been satisfactory. American investments are high and Batista has been made to feel he has the United States behind him. The upper echelons of the army and the police are his men and they give him his power.

Yet the President needs luck, for the Cubans are a violent, unpredictable people, and the forces lined up against Batista are strong and getting stronger every day.

These and other developments have been hidden by the strictest censorship ever imposed in Cuba. Even the best-informed Cubans do not know what is happening outside their immediate circles.

This has been the case since Jan. 15, at which time, constitutional guarantees were suspended for 45 days in all of Cuba. It is still true, although censorship on outgoing dispatches of foreign correspondents was eased Thursday. The only way to get complete information about Cuba today is to talk with every type of Cuban and to travel around the island. One must then leave the country to write the story.

Giving Lives for an Ideal. On such a trip, one gets to understand why Batista is so generally unpopular and why such a formidable opposition is building up against him. The dictator has lost the young generation of Cuba. The group of young rebels, led by a former law student, Fidel Castro, who dominates the Sierra Maestra at the eastern end of the island, and is fighting off successfully the cream of Batista's army, is only one element—the most dramatic one—to prove this.

Castro's men, the student leaders who are on the run from the police, the people who are bombing and sabotaging every day, are fighting blindly, rashly, perhaps foolishly. But they are giving their lives for an ideal and for their hopes of a clean, democratic Cuba.

The extent of the violence and the counter-terroristic of the army and the police are among the things that have been hidden by the censorship. The bombs have wounded some persons and killed a few; but that is not the purpose of the bombings. The aim is to do a little sabotage and above all to register a violent protest against the dictatorship.

The public does not know who is doing the bombing, for the police have thus far caught only one small group in Havana and none elsewhere. As a desperate measure of counter-terroristic, therefore, the police kill someone virtually every time a bomb is exploded in Havana, riddle his body with bullets, put a bomb in his hand and call the press photographers to come and take pictures. This macabre procedure is sardonically called by Hazañero's "Batista's classified advertisement."

Yet the bombings go on. In the seven nights the writer spent in Havana there were seven or eight bombings. In Santiago, at the other end on the island, there were 18 on Feb. 15 alone.

Communism Small Factor. Communism has little to do with the opposition to Batista. There is a well-trained, hard core of Communists that is doing as much mischief as it can and that naturally bolsters all the opposition elements. But there is no Communism to speak of in Cuba.

Another Political Crisis Threatens Italian Cabinet. ROME, Feb. 25 (UP)—A political crisis touched off by the Italian republican party threatened the coalition government of Premier Segni today.

The Republicans are not represented in the Segni Cabinet, but they have voted with the coalition to give the Premier a working majority in both houses of Parliament. Last night, 110 delegates to the Republican National Council denounced their alliance with Segni's Christian Democrats, the right-wing Socialists and the liberal parties.

Only last Saturday Segni was spared a political crisis when the right-wing Socialists decided not to unite with the left-wing Socialist party of Pietro Nenni.

COUNCIL BACKS GUATEMALA'S CLAIM TO BRITISH HONDURAS. GUATEMALA CITY, Feb. 25 (AP)—The Economic Council of the Organization of Central American States yesterday endorsed Guatemala's claim to the right to take over British Honduras.

Ending a meeting of economic co-operation within the Central American isthmus, the council adopted a resolution denouncing British Honduras as "an integral part of the republic of Guatemala."

The resolution declared that the economic development of the British territory "is precarious and has scant possibility of improvement owing to the colonial regime to which it is subjected."

Mideastern Defense Planning Co-ordination Called Inadequate

Veteran Diplomat Reports Lack of Unity Among Nations, Alliances to Protect

By JOHN D. MORRIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.

INADEQUATE co-ordination of Middle Eastern defense planning by anti-Communist countries and alliances has been reported to Senators by a veteran career diplomat.

This and other findings of an on-the-ground survey of United States aid to Iran, Turkey and Greece have been submitted by Norman Armour, a retired ambassador, to the special Senate committee studying the foreign aid program.

Armour recommended a "full appraisal" of the strategic roles of Iran and Turkey in the overall defense strategy for the Middle East with clarification and better co-ordination as the aims. He also proposed close examination of Greece's role in the defense of Europe.

Armour is among a number of foreign affairs experts commissioned by the committee to make foreign aid surveys in various countries. He has served as ambassador to Chile, Argentina, Spain, Venezuela and Guatemala. He was an assistant Secretary of State in 1947-48.

Aid Concepts Valid. His report has been circulated among committee members and is expected to be made public within a few days. He found United States aid concepts "generally valid" in all three countries and advised continuation of the programs with some adjustments.

He suggested that the effectiveness of military aid was being seriously hampered by the insufficient co-ordination of Middle Eastern defense plans of the United States, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Baghdad Defense Alliance.

"Although currently accepted strategic concepts take into account the importance of protecting NATO's right flank" (Turkey), he said, "little if any actual co-ordination seems to exist on this problem either between the Baghdad pact and NATO as such, or between Iran and Turkey."

Armour expressed doubt that either Turkey or Iran was economically able to absorb any substantial increase in United States military aid. He advised a step-up in technical aid for Turkey, but said this type of help should be leveled off in Iran. He called for limitation of the number of economic development projects in both countries.

Objectives Should Coincide. Regarding Greece, he recommended that "careful study be made of the country's role in the defense of Europe."

DRUMMOND

Eisenhower, Truman Blame Each Other

Neither Believes He Caused Rift—Could Hoover Heal Breach?

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON.

ONE of the most regrettable and hurtful aspects of American public life today is the strained relationship—to put it mildly—between President Eisenhower and former President Truman.

The blunt fact is that Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Truman are not on speaking terms. They have not seen each other, spoken to each other or allowed themselves to be in the same room with each other since the inauguration on Jan. 20, 1953. Their meeting then was compulsory.

They have been in the same city more than once and have never arranged to see one another. Most correspondents believe they arranged not to see one another.

Each is deeply offended in the other. Each is profoundly and sincerely convinced that the other is at fault.

All of this wouldn't matter much if only Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Truman were concerned. Probably many of us do not speak to somebody. But when the President of the United States does not speak to a former President of the United States, this cannot fail in some measure to hurt the presidency, to take something of quality from American political life and, at times, to handicap the government.

It seems to me that this strained relationship between President and ex-President is seriously diserving the nation right at this moment.

On March 10 the Greek and Turkish governments are commemorating the tenth anniversary of the "Truman Doctrine" which brought economic and military aid to these two countries in time to save them from Communist domination. These governments very much wanted the former President of the United States as their guest to celebrate the occasion. Secretary Dulles passed on the invitation and Mr. Truman found himself previously engaged.

Under all the circumstances, I cannot escape the feeling that I cannot escape the feeling that

CHILDS

Democrats' Criticism of Dulles Eases Under Johnson Influence

Majority Leader Argues That Attacks Serve No Useful Purpose—Contrasts With Blasts at Acheson.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS

A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

(Copyright 1957, The Post-Dispatch)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.

WHETHER or not he escapes the unhappy necessity for choosing sides in the issue of sanctions against Israel, and it now appears that he will, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has nevertheless won a reprieve.

Not long ago, many Democrats in the Senate were so critical of Dulles and his policies that the angry mutterings of an attack like that which the Republicans launched against Dean Acheson when he was Secretary of State in the last year or two of the Truman administration could be heard. Few Republican Senators were in a mood to come to Dulles's defense.

But the moderating influence of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has prevailed. In the Senate Democratic Policy Committee and with his colleagues in the cloakroom, Johnson has argued that an attack on Dulles would serve no worthwhile purpose. So long as he has the confidence of President Eisenhower he will remain as Secretary of State and to attack him personally would be merely to undermine him further when he is in the middle of the most hair-raising difficulties.

Certain of Dulles's angrier critics argued that these difficulties were partly of the Secretary's own making and this Johnson readily conceded; but he has insisted that no useful purpose would be served by merely riding herd on the harassed Secretary.

This attitude is, of course, in marked contrast to that which prevailed in 1950 and after when many Republicans made Acheson the target for a savage attack, putting on him personally the blame for all of America's ills in a world of upheaval. The more savage the attack became, the more determined was President Truman to back Acheson.

Dulles Faces Dilemma. Dulles today is faced with a dilemma something like that which Acheson confronted after the Communists triumphed in China. Substitute the Middle East for China and Dulles's problem of reconciling the views of America's Western allies with the American position in the Arab-Israeli dispute is seen to be a parallel. The problem is sharpened in the Middle East by the fact that in that area lies control of the oil vital to the existence of Western Europe.

Premier Guy Mollet of France arrived today for what is being billed as a good-will visit to lay the base for future negotiation. In his discussion with Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles, Mollet will reflect the critical attitude in France toward the American position which seems to favor sanctions against Israel. The same widespread criticism, in both the Conservative and Labor parties, is reported from England.

What Mollet would like is a three-power declaration giving Israel the guarantees that the Israeli Government did not feel were sufficiently strong in Dulles's initial offer to Ambassador Abba Eban. But this is not likely to come out of the two days of talks Mollet will have here with Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles.

South's Views Changing. Johnson's task of restraint is made harder by a fact of the utmost political importance, the significance of which has largely escaped attention. The South has for the most part withdrawn its support from the foreign policy of the United States.

For many years, the core of support for an internationalist policy has come from southern Senators. There were perfectly good economic reasons why this should have been so. They wanted to see the products of their region—tobacco and cotton—move into the channels of world trade. The traditional low tariff status of the South was carried over into a more complex era in support of programs such as the Marshall

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform; never tolerate injustice or corruption; always fight demagogues of all parties; never belong to any party; always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers; never lack sympathy with the poor; always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Reason to Scede

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I see that the subject of daylight saving time is up for discussion in Missouri again. Are the representatives of the city people in the State Legislature simply going to let the farmers decide what is best for us? I work for a living five days a week (and most of the time six days a week) and consequently see very little daylight. I enjoy that extra hour in the evening provided by daylight saving time and look forward to it all winter. There are thousands of people just like me who don't have the opportunity to spend the day outdoors like the farmers do—we enjoy daylight, too. If the farmers in Missouri want standard time, let them keep it as they have in the past.
According to the newspaper report no one at the hearing in Jefferson City had a word to say "for" daylight saving time. It's a pretty sad state of affairs when a few farmers can dictate what is best for all the people of a state as big as Missouri. St. Louis area Senators and Representatives were elected to represent the people from the district who are working people like myself. Please do something about this matter.
MARIAN G. MADDEN.

Certainly daylight time helps compensate for other unpleasant features of the St. Louis summer. Owners of drive-in theaters are in the minority. As for those visitors to our city who go to the Union Station an hour early, there is a solution—let them go to the airport instead. Must the desires of the thousands of taxpayers in this area be sacrificed to those of the one outstate farmer?
MRS. ELDRIDGE LOVEACE.

The poor people suffer. We all can't get up at nine or ten to go to work. Poor people have to be at work at 6 and we've got to have lights to see by and that's one hour gives us a chance to sleep.
MRS. LORRAINE ROBERTSON.

I'll bet Elmer is a real cut-up when he goes back to Puckyhuddle, snaps his galluses, shifts his chew and tells how he put it over again on the City Slickers.

The people in St. Louis county are now finding out that what affects St. Louis affects them. When is rural Missouri going to learn this? Most of the tax of this state comes from Kansas City and St. Louis. If we are smart enough, to pay for their roads and old age pensions, and babies, Elmer's way, why can't we be the judge if we want daylight saving time?
How does a city scede from a state?
YANKEE REBEL.

It seems that the largest group of people interested in daylight time are the movie theaters and the railroads. While there may be some inconvenience to these particular groups, there are many working people, particularly in St. Louis, who greatly benefit from daylight time.
MRS. F. GRACE.

Can't the St. Louis people govern themselves on these issues or do they have to be governed by parties who can't remember the difference between daylight time and standard time?
Q. H. SWANSON.

Freedom's Loss at Koinonia

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A series of terrifying attacks have been made on the property and now on the people of Koinonia Farm, which is an interracial Christian community near Lawrence, Kansas. For some months fires and dynamite blasts have expressed the hostility of those opposed to the continued existence of the 10-year-old interracial farm. Destroying the roadside market and its stock, burning houses and barns, and attacking the farm in a car on the farm. Bullet holes, seven in all, now dot the room where two men were sleeping.
Later in the week 10 or 12 shot-gun blasts were fired at the main cluster of buildings. Again, the bullets of the terrorists missed hitting human beings by inches.
The President of the United States was vacationing about 75 miles from Americus, at Thomasville, Ga. It seems incredible that within a few miles of the presence of the head of a government dedicated to the proposition "that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness"—that there could occur such denial of these sacred rights.

Loss of freedom at Koinonia Farm is loss of freedom in St. Louis. If our form of government is to survive we must protect the right of free men to live freely within the law.
GERTRUDE G. FAUST.

When Economy Hurts

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
C. V. Elmer preaches economy but he is not a fan of a bill which would cut the pay of legislators. He is in the vote of the Legislature. He is also unwilling to cut his own pay and now he is preaching economy.
The people of St. Louis are tired of Elmer's preaching. They are tired of his preaching that they are not to be taxed. They are tired of his preaching that they are not to be taxed. They are tired of his preaching that they are not to be taxed.
C. V. ELMER.

For Highway Safety

Two important highway bills are progressing in the Missouri House, but each could still be improved in the interest of traffic safety.

A bill which has won tentative House approval is intended to plug holes in the present driver's license law. It would define habitual reckless driving more strictly, and permit jail sentences for persons who drive while their licenses are suspended. And it would give municipal court convictions the same effect as state court convictions toward mandatory revocation of licenses.

This measure goes a mile or so too far, however, in allowing suspension of driver's licenses on any first conviction of a moving traffic violation. Should a man who nudges through a stop sign once have his license suspended? In more important violations suspension is indeed called for, but the offenses should be defined.

A second bill, passed by the House Traffic Committee, establishes fixed passenger car speed limits: 70 miles an hour by day on divided highways; 65 by day on other roads; 60 for all roads at night; plus some other limitations, including one on speeds too slow for safety.

Obviously fixed speed limits cannot provide realistic measures of safe speeds on all roads under all weather conditions.

The speed limit law should be amended to make it a "prima facie" measure. That applies the basic rule of reasonable and prudent speeds, but adds numerical speed limits. If a driver goes faster than these limits, he provides prima facie evidence that his speed is not prudent and is unlawful. If he drives under the limit, there is prima facie evidence that he is within the law.

In effect, this means that if a driver is arrested for going above the limit, the burden of proof is on him to show that he was driving at a safe speed. But he may be arrested for imprudent speeds below the set limit, in which case the burden of proof is on the police.

Such a law discourages the absurdity of an arrest for driving 66 miles an hour on a straight road on a sunny day while there could be no arrest for driving 65 miles an hour on curves in a rain. That is why far more states use prima facie than absolute fixed speed laws.

There are ample statistics to prove that speed limits, set too low or fixed too rigidly, merely encourage speeding. Speed laws have to have some flexibility and considerable popular acceptance or they cannot be well enforced. That is a point for the Missouri House to consider.

Wonderful Gadget

Quick! Without putting pencil to paper, how much is 1378×2963.47? We, too, are not very good at mental arithmetic. Given even an easy one like 97×33, we reach for a scratch pad. But this no longer calls for an inferiority complex. A pocket-size mechanical brain is on its way to market. When it comes out, try the man who owns one on anything—election forecasts, missile trajectories, opinion projections—anything at all. His slogan will be: If Univac can do it, I can do it better.

This is no joke. Dudley A. Buck, a graduate student at M.I.T., has perfected a gadget called the cryotron. It is so small that 100 of them can be carried in a thimble—although a flat-bottomed pill-box is more convenient. The cryotron can do what was done heretofore by giant transistors almost as huge as your little finger.

Already an electronic computer, occupying a cube foot of space and containing 215,000 cryotrons, is being built to supplant machines which fill whole rooms. And this will be only a rather crude pilot model. The pocket-size, we are sure, is just around the corner.

Meanwhile we have one regret and one prophecy: It is too bad that Mr. Buck's wonderful invention was not available when hard-faced teachers were demanding that we meet the math requirement. And, super-computer or no, there never will be any fun in filling out an income tax return. Alas, in every jar of ointment there is a fly.

Beneficial Bill in Illinois

Illinois State Senator Monroe of Collinsville is sponsoring a meritorious measure at Springfield to improve the administration of justice in St. Clair and Madison counties. This is a bill to divide the Third Judicial Circuit which now covers a population of nearly 600,000 and is the largest in the state in number of people included. Currently there are 2400 untried civil cases alone in St. Clair county and 1900 in Madison county. This delay in going to trial frequently means denial of justice.

The proposed division of the district has been approved by votes in the Madison county and Belleville bar associations and a group of East St. Louis lawyers. It has been endorsed by newspapers in Alton, Granite City and elsewhere in the district. It passed the State Senate Judiciary Committee, 21 to 0, and the Senate itself, 45 to 0. Representatives Simon and Harris of Madison county are for it and Senator Gray of St. Clair county is backing the efforts of Senator Monroe. The support, if now provided, of other House members from the two counties will assure passage in the House.

Of all the judicial bills pending at Springfield this one has a special claim to favorable attention as the report of the Madison county bar's legislative committee makes clear. It is to the interests of citizens, litigants or not, in the seven affected counties that they make their wishes known.

Opportunity Overlooked

One of the principal advantages accruing to residents of Missouri's third class cities is the right to choose the Council-Manager form of local government as spelled out in the statutes. Six cities in St. Louis county fall within this class, but only one of them—Olivette—has elected to take advantage of its opportunity to adopt the manager form. Olivette assumed the status of a third-class city and chose the mayor-plan all at once in a special election last month.

The county's other third-class cities are Kirkwood, Richmond Heights and Maplewood, which operate under the outmoded commission form, and Jennings and Wellston which are run with in the mayor-council frame. Because of their size, each of these communities in addition enjoys the right to adopt its own "home rule" charter. When Olivette's population of 5500 reaches 10,000 it too can move for its own charter.

Five county cities now enjoy home rule through their own charters and each is run under the manager plan. They are University City, Ferguson, Berkeley and Clayton, the last two having voted for home rule earlier this month.

For home rule cities such as these the manager plan provides such advantages as full-time professional administration of local affairs; elected policy makers who are not forced to meddle in administration; consolidation of municipal departments in the interest of efficiency and economy, and freedom in large measure from rule by Jefferson City. All of which suggests that Kirkwood, Richmond Heights, Maplewood, Jennings and Wellston may be overlooking a golden opportunity.

What Partnership Did Not Do

The failure of the Eisenhower Administration's partnership policy to bring new power production into being, and to make existing production effective, was strikingly shown in the Sunday Post-Dispatch. In the 1951-55 period United States production grew only 29 per cent while Russian production grew 80 per cent. These figures are not wholly comparable because United States production was so much larger than the Russian to begin with that every percentage point of gain required a great many more kilowatts. Still, they roughly measure the lack of aggressiveness in this country that has come about from relaxing Government leadership in pressing forward.

The partnership policy's shortcomings in making existing power output effective are documented by the case of the Pacific Northwest. That region has for years been growing faster than its power supply.

The Administration's private-power-alone policies, which have denied the region maximum development of new power sites, have also denied it the advantage of forming a grid through connection with the Central Valley federal power system in California.

The tremendous advantages of the grid system—which means simply the exchange of productive capacities among neighboring systems—had been evident even before TVA, principally through the example of England. Yet as The Portland Oregonian, a Republican newspaper, complains, the Administration by selling its transmission line through central Oregon to a power company prevented connection between the two valleys.

One consequence is a one-third cut in aluminum production which could have been averted, says The Oregonian, by power brought in from Central Valley.

The so-called partnership policy has failed because it is not a partnership, but a let-George-do-it. The partnership policy has failed because it is not a policy, but a drift.

Congressional Censors

We are disturbed not so much that the Committee on Un-American Activities should have put the name of a respectable Jewish magazine into its revised "Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications" by mistake as by the fact that it continues to issue such a list.

To announce that any publication is subversive is to exercise a most effective kind of censorship. And that is not a constitutional function of the Congress or of any of its committees. The business of such groups is to gather information in view of possible legislation, or to examine into the enforcement of laws passed by the Congress.

So this committee is engaged in an un-American activity. The question is how long the Congress will tolerate such headline-seeking disdain for the intent of the Constitution.

A State Retirement Plan

The Missouri House Pensions Committee has unanimously recommended a retirement system for state employees, and the State Senate also has a retirement bill before it. Only the Highway Department and Highway Patrol now have pension plans. A retirement plan for other state employees is not only a matter of justice, but will be necessary to retain competent personnel in state service.

Granted the need for a retirement program, the main question involves soundness. Senate Bill 52 provides for a reasonable scale of contributions and benefits. State and employee contributions to the retirement fund would amount to approximately 4 per cent of the payroll. Benefits would be graduated with years of service. Thus an employee with 30 years' service, whose highest average monthly pay for five years was $400, would receive $100 from the state, added to $108 from social security.

Two criticisms may be made of the Senate bill, however. It would permit retirement at age 60, five years earlier than social security, and without reduction of benefits. There is not much excuse for such early retirement, because the plan also provides disability benefits for those who cannot work until age 65. The early retirement might add 40 per cent to the cost.

Moreover, the Senate bill allows a minimum benefit of $75 a month for members of the Legislature with eight or more years of service. Other state employees would have to average $13,500 in annual salaries to be guaranteed that much retirement pay for that short a term of service. Why such favoritism for the legislators? The Senate bill needs some alterations. And on the score of timing alone, it would be wise for the Legislature to defer the start of a retirement plan until next year, when Gov. Blair has promised the state its first comprehensive budget. Many new expenditures are having to wait upon a thorough study of state finances. Any long-range retirement plan ought to be fitted into long-range budget programming.

Change in the Pajama Game

The style-changers have gone to work on men's pajamas. Any man who got a fashionable pair on St. Valentine's Day has discovered this by now. Made of the new synthetic fabrics in the more masculine pastel tones—gray, blue, etc.—they are luxurious enough to open the female shopper's purse. And to that we do not object, but we are not sure about the pockets. It is something to be taken up with Richard Bissell, assuming that he has kept up with the pajama game.

Two pockets—called lounging-pockets, by the way—now are set low on each side of the coat. This makes it easy for a man to jam his hands into them and to assume a semi-spread-eagle, it's great-to-be-alive-in-the-morning stance, very debonair and good for morale, conducive to positive optimism.

The primary purpose of pockets, even in pajamas, nevertheless is to contain other things than hands; for example, handkerchiefs, and if worn by a man who likes to work in his pajamas: cigarettes, pencils and all sorts of stuff. And for this, the old handkerchief-pocket is far better than the new lounging position. No tailor would make a sack coat or a vest without a handkerchief-pocket even though he adds others and can count on four pants-pockets which are not crickets in the pajama industry. The tailor knows that luxury without convenience may lose him a customer.

Perhaps the pajama designers should not have eliminated the handkerchief-pocket when they came up with the lounging-pocket. But we cannot be hard on them since they continue loyal to buttons and will have no truck with the zipper, perhaps the most troublesome gadget of the age. They are so sound on this fundamental that one may condone a vagary in pocket fashions.

GREAT OAKS FROM LITTLE ACORNS GROW

The Fruits of Franco Tyranny

Between Book Ends

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Despite American aid, Spanish dictator is no longer able to still unrest by mixing concessions with arrests; recent outbreaks not confined to one class or group; economy a morass; Franco now seeks more loans, posing difficult problem for Washington.

From The Providence Evening Bulletin

The troubles now arising to beset the dictator of Spain are the inevitable fruits of tyranny. Gen. Franco used force to seize power in 1939. For 18 years, he has used force to stay in power. What is taking place now in Spain demonstrates that tyranny holds within itself the seeds of its own destruction.

Crises are nothing new for Gen. Franco. He has faced them and overcome them countless times in these last 18 years. He managed to eliminate all effective political opposition in the early days of his rule by ruthless use of his police powers. Thousands were disposed of. Other thousands were languishing in Franco's jails years after he had assumed power.

He managed to quiet the dissident elements in labor, first, by purging their ranks of the most vigorous and dangerous (to Franco) leaders, and second, by extending small wage concessions. He quieted the monarchists by holding out the promise, at some indefinite time in the future, on a return of the monarchy. He quieted the Church by acceding to the Church's demands.

He even succeeded in quieting, momentarily, the dissident elements among the students and the intellectuals by promising some of the basic freedoms and by slightly relaxing the government's iron-handed control over the universities.

Yet, for all the apparent concessions and the promises, Franco guaranteed his hold with all the conventional weapons of tyranny. The press was gagged. Free speech was not recognized. Politics was channeled into the totalitarian mold, and no deviation was permitted. The wishes of the people were accepted and respected only to the extent that they happened to coincide with Franco's own desires.

The real significance of the events now being reported from Spain lies in the broad pattern of the discontent. If it were just a revolt of the laboring classes, Franco probably could handle it with dispatch. If it were just a revolt of the students, he might brush it off with an application of police suppression.

But the current outbreaks are not confined to one class of the people nor to one area of the country. They have the earmarks of a broad-scale rebellion against authority. They encompass the political Left, Right and Center. They involve the students, the intellectual leaders, the laboring classes and even elements of the Church and of the wealthy families.

Even worse, from Franco's point of view, is the deep economic morass into which Spain has drifted. Inflation has gotten out of hand. Industry is stagnating. The value of the peseta has tumbled. The ranks of the jobless are growing. A freeze last year decimated the orange crop and a drought has ruined much of the winter wheat. These are problems which Franco cannot solve with an order to his police.

Faced with this situation, by far the worst he has met since he bulled his way to power, Franco has turned to the United States with an appeal for help. He wants an additional 30 million dollars to tide him over—until July, and a loan of 130 millions for the next fiscal year. His hope is, perhaps, that if he can once ease his nation's economic pinch, he might worm his way somehow out of his other difficulties.

The Franco appeal poses a question. Granting the loan might merely support and perpetuate a tyranny. Refusing the loan might contribute to the fall of a tyranny and the succession of something that could be better—or worse. Still another circumstance not to be overlooked is the possibility that, whether the loan is granted or not, the Franco dictatorship at last may be succumbing to its own inherent weaknesses.

The Spring Chick

From The New York Herald Tribune

Without setting a slim foot outside, without measuring retreating snowbanks or melting ice, a wintered hen responds to the weather and gets more talkative on any mild February day. There are more than 337,000,000 hens in the United States.

A countryman has a few of these in an upstate hen house, and they form for him a test sample of cackling millions. He gathers more eggs as the days grow longer and the sun mounts.

An egg is a potential chick. A man remembers when a hen with maternal notions used to steal a nest in a hay mow and bring forth a brood of 15 lively children about the time a garden was being plowed and worms were plentiful.

Old-fashioned hens used to hatch out a family in about the same way and season that a robin does. But a featherless incubator changed all these motherly methods of a Plymouth Rock or a Leghorn.

If there are hens by the millions nowadays, it is because there are incubators by the thousands. A man on a hill country farm can buy a hundred or two chicks by mail and get a head start on the weather and hay mow.

In February and March a lot of incubator chicks do a lot of traveling. By parcel post, by railway express, by truck and by plane, day-old chicks from the West tour the East and those from the South start north.

Some arrive in the Adirondacks. Some have an infant look at the cold Catskills. In the small, stove-warmed postoffice of a mountain village it is a cheerful thing to hear chicks peeping through the portholes in a pasteboard carton when there is a snow squall outside and no robins are around looking for local housing or a family tree.

A million or more of what a man calls "store chicks" grow up to become broilers. Still another circumstance which never affects the offspring of a robin, Elizabeth Barrett Browning wrote about eating thrushes in Italy. And there are occasional tales of fat robins being delicately cooked and devoured in New Jersey. But these sad instances of illegal cuisine are rare.

However, a countryman notes that a baby robin is beginning to figure in the comparative tables of poultrymen who are seeking swifter meat production. A chick can grow to about three pounds of broiler size in eight weeks. But a chicken-breeding expert looks with surprise and envy upon baby robin who in less than half that time puts on three fourths of its adult poundage. It seems probable that worms in an April-plowed garden are more nourishing than the best commercial chick feed.

RECORD-BREAKING BUDGET.

From The Sacramento Bee.

The President's record-breaking peace-time budget is a reminder that the habit of spending more of the taxpayers' money is not the exclusive defect of any political party.

Sky Trail Blazer

THE FLYING YEARS, by Lou Reichers.
(Holt, 384 pgs., $4.50.)

Lou Reichers is one of the old-timers of the flying game and his reminiscences about his career spotlight the tremendous advances that aviation has compressed into the past twenty years or so. Reichers's flying career began in 1925 when he learned to fly a PT-1 at the Army Air Service's flying school at Brooks Field, Texas, and ended, so far as this volume goes, when he retired from the Air Corps as a lieutenant colonel in 1946.

During the depression years, as a civilian, Reichers was personal pilot to the late Bernard Macfadden, and he persuaded Macfadden to finance his solo flight across the Atlantic in an attempt to beat Lindbergh's record. As part of his preparations, Reichers became the first man to fly nonstop from Montreal to Havana, but later his Atlantic flight ended 17 miles short of the coast of Ireland where he was luckily picked up by a New York-bound steamer. In 1930, Reichers and a partner flew for 313 hours and 35 minutes over the environs of New York City to set a new endurance record using in-flight refueling.

Though Reichers did his share of "seat-of-the-pants" flying, and navigating by the "iron compass" as the old flyers called railroad tracks, most of his story is about the adventures as Chief of Special Projects for Air Transport Command during World War II. Reichers joined the original Air Corps Ferrying Command, later to become ATC, at its inception on May 29, 1941. After four trips from Washington, D.C., to Prestwick, Scotland, on the lend-lease route known as the "Hump" line, Reichers was picked to fly the Harrison Mission, which included the then Soviet Ambassador to the U.S., Constantine A. Cumansky, to Moscow in a B-24.

With no communications help from the Russians, Reichers flew what was then the record solo flight (2775 miles) from Scotland north of Norway then down to Moscow. His experiences in Russia are graphically described, including his being toasted by Stalin, and he matter-of-factly accounts for his pioneering trip back to Washington by way of the Middle East, Africa and South America.

During World War II, Reichers roamed the globe as a trouble-shooter for ATC from Alaska to Egypt. As he blazed new trails in the sky that were later to become standard Air Transport routes, Reichers passed his know-how on to the thousands of young pilots who flew those routes after him.

As a boy, Lou Reichers had watched Glenn Curtiss complete his historic flight from Albany, New York to win the $10,000 prize offer by The World for the first person to make the trip "in a mechanically propelled airship, either lighter or heavier than air." Young Reichers made up his mind then to become an "aeronaut" as they were called in those days, and this book proves that he became one of the greatest of his time.

JACK ALDRIDGE.

The French Touch

THE CHAMBERLAIN CALENDAR OF FRENCH COOKING, compiled and edited by Narcissa and Narcisse Chamberlain with photographs by Samuel Chamberlain. (Hastings House, 60 pgs., $1.50.)

No people in the world love dining more than the French who place the tiresome routine of eating on the level of feasting. A plump sauce, mushrooms and the French touch can turn a damp pile of spinach into an elegant dish, as attractive as it is gastronomically satisfying. Who but they, who have such excellent cause, could rave about soupe a l'oignon-onion soup?

This book of carefully selected recipes by the Chamberlain team, who have lived in France for many years, ought to take the anguish out of meal-planning, and out of meals, too, if that should be necessary.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Why Americans Favor Israel

WASHINGTON.

DURING the running controversy in which Israel has stood alone against Egypt and the rest of the Arab world the Eisenhower Administration has overlooked, and failed to take proper account of, one simple but most important factor having to do with our own people.

This is the traditional and instinctive habit of our people, who themselves created a nation out of a wilderness and then made it an independent, self-reliant nation dedicated to the principle of self-government and democracy, to rally to the cause of any other nation engaged in the same struggle. It is only natural for our people to side with Israel in her effort to survive against the threat of the United Arab nations around her, and to protest against the United Nations singling out Israel for punishment when the dictators of Soviet Russia and Egypt calmly defy the U.N.

Lincoln

people would react in the developing Israeli situation when it saw how they rallied to the support of Hungary in her valiant but abortive revolt against Soviet Russia.

In fact, our people forced the Administration to boost the number of refugees we would admit.

That should have been signal enough for the Administration. For Hungary is a clue to our whole history. Hungary takes us back to Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot who tried to free his country from Austria and was succeeding until Austria called in Russia.

Kossuth as a Hero. Louis Kossuth's revolt inspired Abraham Lincoln, then an Illinois lawyer, to draft resolutions which were approved by his Springfield neighbors in behalf of Hungary.

Kossuth later came to this country and was hailed everywhere as a hero. The Hungarian revolt was in 1848, the year when rebellion was stirring all over Europe, in Prussia, in Austria, in Italy.

Our link with that other Hungarian revolution over 100 years ago recently was revealed when out of one Hungarian radio station, manned by the rebels, there came in its final broadcast before being shut down the words: "Four score and seven years ago..." a dramatic story told in detail recently by the Saturday Review of Literature.

We have always exulted over every fight for freedom elsewhere, and so on down to the present day.

All Out for Saud.

Israel's case has undoubtedly been helped by another recent Eisenhower Administration show. This was when it rolled out the red carpet for the King of Saudi Arabia and his entourage, a cortege flanked and stage-managed by representatives of 15 international oil companies worth 20 billion dollars who do business in Arabia.

This lavish display of wealth against a flamboyant Oriental background, that of our oil aristocracy and that of Arabia, offered a contrast to the pioneers in Israel working industriously against great odds to make a barren land yield enough for her people, many of them refugees from Nazi persecution seeking to make a new life for themselves in a democracy.

Dramatized to all of us was the contrast between feudal Arabia, where slavery still flourishes, and democratic Israel.

Somewhere, somewhere, our leaders have lost the way, lost sight of the American dream and got us on the wrong side in the eternal fight for freedom.

CESARE SIEPI GIVES IMPRESSIVE RECITAL

Basso's Performance in Clayton Series Has Emotional Vitality.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

Cesare Siepi, the distinguished Metropolitan Opera basso, brought an appreciable measure of prestige to the Clayton Community Concert series at a recital given last night in the auditorium of the Clayton High School. He captured his listeners with his first group of songs and held them securely through the final encore by a performance that was notable for its emotional vitality and artistic divination.

His program had a strong operatic coloring because of the several listed arias and others that he added as encores, but as a number of different styles were represented, no lack of variety was felt. Moreover, further contrasting elements were introduced through a group of lieder by Richard Strauss, in the first half, and three English language songs in the second. So all in all a wide range of mood—devotional, earnest, romantic, tenderly sentimental, humorous, sardonic—was encompassed.

Whatever the mood or degree of emotional intensity, Siepi produced a beautiful, fluent, resonant, vibrant sound. The timbre was richer in the middle and upper registers than in the low voice, but the tone was perfectly controlled and focused at all points. His enunciation was crystal clear in four languages. As for style, it was only in the Strauss songs that his inflection seemed a little alien to the subject matter, though here, as elsewhere, he entered deeply into the essential feeling.

In all the others, the degree of one's satisfaction depended entirely on one's response to the music itself since all were delivered with authority. It was interesting to note the difference between Mephisto's "Serenade from Berlioz's 'The Damnation of Faust'" and Mephisto's song from Gounod's "Faust." The latter was the less diabolical and more humanized of the two.

The most impressive dramatic aria—and simply because it is a supreme work of imaginative characterization—was Iago's "Credo from Verdi's 'Otello.'" Siepi sang a number of encores, including Leporello's catalogue aria from Mozart's "Don Giovanni," and brought the evening to a gratifying conclusion with two popular Italian songs. His able accompanist was the pianist, Leo Taubman.

HARRY JOSEPHSON FUNERAL TOMORROW, MANUFACTURER

Funeral services for Harry Josephson, president of the Smith and Davis Manufacturing Co., will be at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Rindskopf undertaking establishment, 5216 Delmar boulevard. Burial will be in Beth Hamedrosh Hagadol Cemetery.

Mr. Josephson died Saturday of a heart condition at his home, 725 South Skinner boulevard. He had been ill with heart trouble since last Dec. 24. He was 61 years old. All of his business life was spent with the Smith and Davis firm, manufacturers of hospital beds. He was a former president of the National Bedding Association, a guarantor of the Municipal Opera and a board member of the Children's Research Foundation, a medical group.

Surviving are four sisters, Miss Jennie Josephson, Mrs. Helm Jacobs, Mrs. Leo Marmor and Miss Bertha Josephson, all of St. Louis.

4 TEAMS ENTER VANDERBILT CUP BRIDGE SEMIFINALS

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (AP)—Four teams, headed by the defending titleholders, survived elimination rounds last night for the Harold S. Vanderbilt Cup, symbol of contract bridge championship honors.

The four teams enter semifinal competition today with the final scheduled tomorrow. The defending champions, John R. Crawford and Sidney Silodor of Philadelphia and George Rapee, Howard Schenken and B. Jay Becker, all of New York, won their fourth "knockout" round by 410 points.

They defeated a team that included Alvin Landy, Sol Magal, Abe Goldstein and Maurice Seiler, all of New York, and John Moran of Arcadia, Calif.

Turning in Donations

MRS. FREDERICK H. DEIBEL, member of steering committee of St. Louis Heart Association, and LEONARD BALLMAN, volunteer worker, carrying money to collection center at Congress Hotel in "Heart Sunday" campaign yesterday.

$66,241 DONATED TO HEART CAMPAIGN

Several County Communities and City Wards Have Not Reported Yet.

A total of $66,241 was raised yesterday in the St. Louis Heart Association's annual fund-raising campaign, a partial tabulation of collections from the door-to-door solicitation showed today.

Returns from all but two county communities, Overland and Ballwin, were included in the tabulation, but only six of 22 wards in the city were included.

"This indicates that this year's collections should far exceed those of last year when we collected about $69,000," Dr. Arthur E. Strauss, campaign chairman, said today. A formal goal for the fund-raising effort was not set.

Highest collection reported in the county was $8240 in University City. Collections in Webster Groves and Kirkwood each amounted to $4200.

More than 12,000 volunteers took part in house-to-house solicitation in St. Louis and St. Louis county in the annual "Heart Sunday." Other volunteers worked at the Congress Hotel, collection center for the city, and at the Women's Building, Washington University, where collections were tabulated.

The Heart Association maintains the artery bank at City Hospital and shares with the United States Public Health Service the maintenance of the children's heart clinic at Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital.

KENNETH CALLAHAN TO HOLD EXHIBIT HERE

Seattle Painter Will Speak at Washington University.

By GEORGE McCUE

Kenneth Callahan, Seattle painter, whose connection with the school of northwest mysticism has made it one of the country's major regional art movements, will visit the Washington University School of Fine Arts Thursday through Saturday.

An exhibition of 13 of Callahan's paintings opens tomorrow in Givens Hall gallery, and Callahan will speak on "Art in the Pacific Northwest" on Saturday at 4 p.m. in Givens Hall. His talk will be open to the public.

The painter is on his way to the East Coast, from where he will start a year's tour as curator for the United States Information Agency's circuit exhibition of works by eight American artists, his own included. This will open in Copenhagen in March.

Callahan's mystic style grew out of three summer fire-watching stints in World War II in Washington's State Cascade Range. "In the complex of crags, cloud movements and mist I saw identity with life," he once said in an interview. "I was struck by the awareness that rocks, man, animals, ideas all come from one source."

His paintings on view at Givens Hall are generally in this spirit. In "Bull of Heaven," the animal figures are prominent in the composition—bulls with monumentally exaggerated forequarters like those in Minoan paintings, other strangely composite creatures out of some mysterious prehistoric time—all turning and plunging wildly in a smoky atmosphere.

"Warrior Passage" at first appears to be a rather dark, loose formation of clouds and peaks, but there gradually emerges from the whorls of deep color a host of lightly delineated figures—horses, cattle, human beings sweeping through space as though borne by turbulent air currents. Callahan's palette includes touches of burning orange and red in "Desert Saga," in which wreath-like figures and parts of figures seem to be catapulting through a hellish atmosphere. "Drift of Forms," which contains no figures, has craggy outlines of mountains seen as though being thrust through the earth's crust in a cosmic disturbance.

The exhibition will be on view through March 4.

Actor Memo Benassi Dies.
BOLOGNA, Italy, Feb. 25 (AP)—Memo Benassi, leading Italian actor, died here yesterday after a long illness. He was 71 years old. He appeared with famed Italian actress Eleonora Duse and between 1930 and 1943 played in at least 20 Italian movies.

Surviving, beside Mrs. Brown, is another daughter, Mrs. Adolf Dietrich of Rio de Janeiro.

JOHN J. NIEMOELLER FUNERAL TO BE WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for John J. Niemoeller, vice president and treasurer of Stifel Nicolaus & Co., Inc., investment firm, will be at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at Provoost undertaking establishment, 3710 North Grand boulevard. Burial will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Mr. Niemoeller died at Barnes Hospital yesterday after an illness of five years. He was 39 years old and lived at 7241 Forsyth boulevard, University City. Surviving is his wife, Mrs. Marguerite Wessels Niemoeller.

NADLER DEFEATS PROFESSOR AT $32,000 QUIZ LEVEL

Theodore Nadler brought his total quiz program profits to $64,000 last night by winning $32,000 on the program, "The $64,000 Challenge," where he matched his encyclopedic memory with that of four opponents.

Nadler defeated a college professor at the $32,000 level in the European history category, then battle three other challengers to draws. The $70-a-week Government clerk will return next week to face his opponents again.

Nadler, who made a down payment earlier this month on a home at 8157 Vardaman drive, University City, with part of his 1956 winnings, eliminated Prof. Harry T. Moore of Babson Institute, Wellesley, Mass., by naming six representatives and three monarchs who attended the 1815 Vienna Congress. The professor could not identify the papal minister who attended, Cardinal Consalvi.

Nadler tied a Wooster College professor at the $8000 level in naming the keys of eight Beethoven symphonies, although viewers protested against one question.

Challenger Richard Gore said the fourth symphony was in key B flat major, which is correct. Nadler said it was B flat minor. The show's producer said B flat, without the major or minor, was sufficient answer. However, professional musicians will review the problem, he said.

GUGGENHEIM AWARD FOR ART

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (UP)—President Eisenhower today presented Ben Nicholson, a British artist, with the first Guggenheim international award for art.

Nicholson, who lives in St. Ives, Cornwall, England, received $10,000 for an Italian landscape entitled "August 56 (Val d'Orcia)."

GENE BUCK DIES, FORMER ASCAP HEAD

One-Time 'Mr. Broadway' Was Ziegfeld Folies Scout — Wrote 500 Songs.

MANHASSET, N.Y., Feb. 25

(AP)—Gene Buck, who wrote 500 songs and was for nearly 20 years president of the American Society of Composers, authors and publishers, died yesterday at North Shore Hospital. He was 71 years old.

Mr. Buck, whose full name was Edward Eugene Buck, died after an emergency operation. Known at one time as "Mr. Broadway," he was long associated with the Ziegfeld Follies.

He was credited with discovering "Yours Truly" as Will Rogers and Ed Wynn as a talent scout and right hand man for producer Florenz Ziegfeld.

Graduated from the University of Detroit, he cut short a business career as a bank clerk to go into show business. In 1911 he scored a success with his song, "Daddy Has a Sweetheart, and Mother Is Her Name."

He became chief librettist and producer of more than 30 of the Ziegfeld Follies and originated an intimate stage entertainment, the "Midnight Frolics," that was hailed as a new theatrical development.

Leaving Ziegfeld in 1926, he produced his own shows, among them "Yours Truly," "Take the Air" and "Ringdaisy."

Among songs he wrote were "No Foolin'," "Garden of My Dreams," "Someone, Someday, Somewhere," and "Hello, Frisco."

Surviving are his widow, Helen; two sons, Gene Jr. and George; and two brothers, George Buck of New York and Charles A. Buck of Detroit.

MISS ELLEN BROOKS JOHNSON DIES; CHURCH, CLUB LEADER

Funeral services for Miss Ellen Brooks Johnson, who was active in church and club activities in St. Louis for many years, were held today at Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, University City. Burial will be in Richmond, Ind.

Miss Johnson, 80 years old, died of cancer yesterday at St. Luke's Hospital. She was the daughter of the late James Brooks Johnson, former St. Louis investment banker, and lived at 5475 Cabanne avenue. Miss Johnson was a member of Pilgrim Congregational Church and former editor of its newspaper, Pilgrim's Progress.

She was a past president of the St. Louis Woman's Club, a member of the Wednesday Club and an active supporter of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Surviving are two brothers, Herbert R. and James Chester Johnson, both of New York City.

says CARL G. MEYER, President Meyer-Blanke Company, St. Louis Equipment and Supplies for the Dairy, Food and Bottling Industries

"Blue Cross-Blue Shield protection has saved Meyer-Blanke employees many thousands of dollars in hospital and doctor bills. We like being a part of the only community-service program that aims to help everyone prepay the cost of health care. Blue Cross-Blue Shield membership is good business... and good citizenship, too."

"BLUE CROSS-BLUE SHIELD costs so little compared to the peace of mind it gives," says Miss Annette Hermjacob, statistician at Meyer-Blanke Company. "I know I can depend on this wonderful protection in time of sickness or accident."

"THE CONVENIENCE of being able to simply show your Blue Cross and Blue Shield membership cards when care is needed means a lot," says Mary Ellen Donaldson, employee at Meyer-Blanke Company.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield are different. Blue Cross is the only hospital plan officially approved by the American Hospital Association and sponsored by the hospitals of Missouri. Blue Shield is the doctors' plan to help people meet medical, surgical and maternity expense, while in the hospital.

Most employees need realistically. When need for hospital services and medical care arises, Blue Cross and Blue Shield help immediately. To get these basic services, the employee simply shows his Blue Cross and Blue Shield membership cards.

More efficient for management. By dealing directly with hospitals and doctors, Blue Cross and Blue Shield relieve companies of costly paper work, expense in filing claims, making investigations and following up cases. Blue Cross pays the hospital directly. Blue Shield pays the doctor.

Flexible to fit any benefit program. Blue Cross and Blue Shield protection may be readily integrated with any health and welfare programs... in both large or small companies. It can also be a retirement benefit, for employees may keep this protection when they leave the company.

Low cost, non-profit. Every cent paid in, except for small expenses, is set aside to help pay hospital, medical, surgical bills for members.

It's a Long Road to Majors, Cards' Rookies Learn in Real Ball Game

Phils Held To 5 Hits But Win

By J. Roy Stockton
Post-Dispatch Sports Editor.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 23.—There's nothing like a ball game, with good umpires, spectators, scoreboard and all the trimmings, to test a ball player.

Battling practice may give an athlete a chance to show his power at the plate or in batting practice a pitcher may look smooth and fast. But when you get only three strikes, or when you'll walk a man if you throw four balls before getting that third strike, it's different, no matter which side of the fence you're on.

Cardinals Manager Fred Hutchinson saw his rookies in competitive action against minor leaguers in the camp of the Phillies at Clearwater yesterday and Fred must have seen how far some of the young men were from being ready to knock at the door of Busch Stadium.

That doesn't mean that the Redbirds' early camp is made up of an awkward squad. It just means that rookies are rookies and demonstrates once more how tough it is for a ball player to qualify for the major league.

Geiger Good But Not Ready. Even Gary Geiger, or perhaps especially Gary Geiger, demonstrated the vast difference between the batting cage and a real ball game. Gary, whose free-swinging action with a bat had been one of the pleasing things in the early camp, drew two bases on balls, took a third strike right down the middle of the zone, and then struck out swinging at a bad ball, a low curve not far from the dirt.

Geiger is still a fine prospect, an excellent hitting prospect, but he's young and far from ready for the jump to big time. He has a lot of talent. He handled difficult chances at first base—low and wide throws and throws on grounders that he tried at first to field himself—but under competitive conditions he seemed much farther from the major leagues than he had looked while he was merely taking his turn in batting drills.

Promising young pitchers also showed that they needed to be much sharper in their control. Tom Hughes, David Satchell and Ed Mayer, other well-pitched well in a 4-1 defeat for the young Redbirds. Hughes, a bright prospect for several years, walked four in the first two innings. Satchell walked six in two forcing in the first run of the game with a pass, and Mayer, the best of the three in control, walked one in two innings.

When they did get the ball over the plate the Redbird pitchers were fairly effective, as they held the Phillis to five hits. But the Phillis pitching was even better, as the Cards were held to four hits and their only run was unearned.

Shannon Shows Batting Eye. Wally Shannon, son of the Cardinal supervisor of minor league playing personnel, was the outstanding hitter for the Redbird rookies. He has good batting form, and at least two of his drives, on which he was retired, were harder hits than his ninth-inning double, which set the stage for the lone St. Louis run.

Wally is experimenting with eye-glasses this year, after noticing that his batting and fielding fell off during late stages of each season, and figuring that perhaps impaired vision accompanied weariness.

Third Baseman Tony Alomar, one of the four Cardinal rookies, doubled, but he made a wild throw that sent two Phillis runs over the plate and missed a drive because he didn't take the trouble to leave his feet.

John Kennedy, a shortstop with the Kansas City Monarchs last year, played brilliantly at short for the Phillis and contributed two of their five hits. He may be held over for the regular Phillis camp, as the club is hurting for a good shortstop.

Frank Lane and Roy Hamey, general managers of the two clubs, had their heads together in the grandstand, but it was for photographic reasons. . . . Lane would like to get Richie Ashburn, but Hamey is demanding Wally Moon and Al Dark for the center fielder. And with Army service beckoning to Dick Schofield, the Cardinals would be foolish to put all their shortstop apples in a basket called Eddie Kasko.

Outfielder Mel Nelson, who has been experimenting as a switch-hitter, batted right-handed against righties yesterday, because of a stone bruise on his hand. . . . Moon, who arrived Saturday, expects to work out today if he has found an apartment for his family.

Patterson, Manager

Honored by Writers

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson last night was awarded a plaque by the Chicago Boxing Writers and Broadcasters Association as the "best fighter of 1956."

Patterson's manager, Gus D'Amato, was named "manager of the year."

The Packy MacFarland trophy for long and meritorious service to boxing was presented posthumously to late John Behr, former Illinois Boxing Commissioner, and lightweight Kenny Lane of Muskegon, who was named the "most improved fighter of 1956."

Lane's manager, Doc Kearns, announced that he is negotiating a title fight with lightweight champion Joe Brown at Indianapolis May 29, eve of the Indianapolis speedway race.

Kearns' check for $50,000 was accepted by Arch Lindman, executive secretary of the Indiana State Athletic Commission.

70 Bettors Pick Five Winners in 5-10 Pool

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Feb. 25 (UP)—Fancy Dresser scored a two-length victory over Konsonet in the feature race at the Caliente race track with L'Algie third at the end of a mile.

Apprentice Hugo Dittbach brought Fancy Dresser, the favorite with the 11,600 racing fans, into the lead in the stretch and won going away for a return of $8.20, $3.80 and $3. Konsonet paid $4.80 and $3.40 and L'Algie was worth $5. The time on a good track was 1:37 4-5.

Seventy players picked five out of six winners in the fifth through the tenth races for the "5-10" handicapping pool.

From Here to Hospital

Bad Day for Weigel.

Veteran Hal Weigel, himself a former Kutis star, suffered a badly strained knee, a cut nose and various other bruises. As the St. Agatha right fullback, he bore the responsibility of halting the Kutis forwards. He left the game for repairs in the first half after being kicked in the face. The kick opened a clear, short theater and in the second half, he was in the center of things again. This time he blocked a Bill Looby shot and tore some knee ligaments.

Hal was not alone in going all out to hold the score down. Kutis had great difficulty getting a single yard in the first half, a score by Looby. But in the second half, Elwood Cook, Bob Whitehead, Jim Murphy and Cook, again, built up the 5-0 total.

Schmersahls Upset Spaniards; Kutis, Pattersons, Carondelet Advance in Soccer Tourney

By Dent McSkimming

If there is an unexpected element in the local Soccer Federation title tournament which opened yesterday, it is the strength of the County League.

Three of the four opening-round games went much as expected. Kutis, Patterson and Carondelet scoring victories, but the fourth brought a surprise. Playing on the Jackson Park field, in suburban Berkeley, County League club Schmersahl shut out the Spanish Society team, 3-0. Since two other County League teams drew byes this means that three of the eight clubs in the quarter-final round are County Leaguers.

Other results: Kutis 5, St. Agatha 0; Carondelet 4, St. Pius 1; Pattersons 2, Polish N. A. 0.

In this next round, to be offered in the form of double-headers to be played on successive Sundays, Schmersahls will face St. Edwards, C.Y.C. champions. Other quarterfinals will be: Fairmont vs. Kutis; Carondelet vs. Mikes and Pattersons vs. St. Louis S.C.

St. Pius Team Fades.

St. Pius, which finished second in the C.Y.C. League race, had a 1-1 draw going into the second half against Carondelet in the opening game of the doubleheader at Fairground. A corner kick taken by Tom Rogers opened the door for the C.A.C. team at 15 minutes of the second half. Goalie Bob Hantak of St. Pius leaped and missed Rogers's lofted kick, and Dolph Kraus, inside right, breasted the ball into the goal. Plus backs muffed a chance to clear, shortly thereafter, and Rogers made it 3-1. The final goal, by Rogers, came from Clem Niewoehner's good pass. Niewoehner had scored in the first half, hooking the ball over the air. St. Pius's only goal was scored by Center Forward Kenny Nienhaus following Halfback Jerry Haegele's long, forward kick.

This game was one of hard, poorly placed kicks and little passwork. Carondelet suffered a loss of its starting right winger, Ross Kirchhoefer, who was taken to the hospital in an ambulance. His injury was diagnosed as torn ligaments.

Playing without the services of four of their regulars (Tom Julius, Bill Eppy, Dick Meisemann and Bob Rooney) Kutis were down and then over-powered St. Agatha in the second game of the doubleheader at Fairground. Many of the crowd of about 1000 left before the final whistle when the C.Y.C. team collapsed in the last 20 minutes.

Bad Day for Weigel.

Veteran Hal Weigel, himself a former Kutis star, suffered a badly strained knee, a cut nose and various other bruises. As the St. Agatha right fullback, he bore the responsibility of halting the Kutis forwards. He left the game for repairs in the first half after being kicked in the face. The kick opened a clear, short theater and in the second half, he was in the center of things again. This time he blocked a Bill Looby shot and tore some knee ligaments.

Incidentally, only one boy of Polish extraction was in the P.N.A. lineup. Ted Konevich, at outside right, was surrounded by young Italian-Americans, with Jack Menke in goal.

Two on Team for Mexico.

Only two St. Louis players will be on the vastly changed U.S. team that goes to Mexico City April 7 to oppose Mexico in a World Cup match. . . . Herman Wecke, fullback, and John Traina, halfback, will represent St. Louis. It was announced by Cup Commissioner Harry Luecke, who got his information from the New York headquarters of the U.S.S.F.A. . . . Others have a chance to make the team in the later game with Mexico at Los Angeles. . . . Dick Meisemann, married last Saturday, will be available for Kutis's U. S. Open Cup match with Schwaben at Chicago, next Sunday. . . . The Fairground field was in excellent condition for the tournament games.

ROSS KIRCHHOEFER, the player obscured by tall GER-ALD HAEGELE, suffered a severe knee injury on this soccer play at Fairground Park. Kirchhoefer, whose right leg, reaching around Haegele, appears to be bent at a crazy angle, was right winger for Carondelet club; Haegele is a halfback for St. Pius. Carried off the field on a stretcher, the injured player was taken to a hospital for treatment of torn ligaments.

256 in Chicago Golden Gloves Meet Tonight

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (UP)—Some 256 amateur boxers will compete in the thirtieth annual Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions opening here tonight. The tournament, featuring youths from 32 cities across the nation, runs through Wednesday. Winners of Wednesday's quarter-finals will return to the stadium for the finals on March 6.

Money from the event, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., is distributed among numerous local and national charities.

Eight classes, ranging from flyweight to heavyweight, will be represented. The four lighter divisions, flyweight, bantamweight, featherweight and lightweight, will participate tonight with the welterweights, middleweights, light heavyweights and heavyweights boxing Tuesday night.

Winners in today's and tomorrow's action will compete Wednesday.

The St. Louis squad, which won the team trophy last year, dropped from 1957 competition, thus assuring the crowning of a new team champion. The St. Louis boxers transferred to the tournament sponsored by the Kansas City Teamsters' Union and qualified the following seven for the meet here:

Mike McDaniel, 112 pounds; Tommy Reynolds, 118; James Anderson, 126; Feazell Vernal, 135; Joe Shaw, 147; William Clemmons, 175, and Jerry Buchanan, heavyweight.

Xavier of Ohio and Seton Hall joined the field today for the 1957 National Invitation basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Xavier has a 15-6 record with five games left to play; Seton Hall has won 17 games and lost seven with two to go.

Eight teams now have accepted bids for the tournament to be played March 16-23. These entered previously were Seattle, Memphis State, Cincinnati, Dayton, St. Bonaventure and Manhattan. Xavier thus is the third Ohio team in the field, which eventually will number 12 teams.

Harris, now playing out of Winnetka, Ill., has fared a bit better at the pay window than Bone, but he's netted only under-par 31-34—65 through sloppy fairways and mud-flecked greens.

Another good choice was Doug Ford, the season's top money winner from Mahopac, N.Y., who slipped one stroke over par yesterday after being only one stroke behind Bone at the start of the third round. He was bracketed at 210 with former amateur champ Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., who had 71.

Don Spencer's score in the second half gave the Ramblers a 3-0 victory over the Arabs, and the hustling Sports team trimmed the Saints, 17-8, in a Missouri Rugby Union double-header yesterday at Forest Park.

Spencer turned his own kick into a 40-yard scoring assault for the Ramblers. In the other game the title-defending Sports were successful on tries by Bill Soukup, Joe Chuechek, Bob Urberger and Mike Dangos. Don Spicer added points with a penalty kick and two conversions.

Aubrey (Ace) Clarke, scored a hole-in-one on No. 12 at Normande Golf Club yesterday. Using a No. 7 iron on the 125-yard hole Clarke hit a shot which landed about 2 feet past the pin and rolled back into the cup. He was playing with Judge William Killoren, David V. Campbell and John Lodwick.

Monsen, center forward and U. S. Olympic team member, drove a shot into the goal from 15 yards out to settle the game before 2592 fans at Fall River Stadium.

Hakohs will play the Elizabeth, N.J., Falcons next Sunday in New York in the semifinals with the winner set to meet Harmarville the following week for the eastern crown.

SOFIA, Feb. 24 (AP)—Bulgaria's champion team "CNDA" defeated Yugoslavians' champion "Red Star" team 2-1 in the return match of the quarterfinals of the European soccer cup competition. But Red Star placed for the semifinals because last week it defeated CNDA with a bigger score.

Chicago Team Named To Meet Buds on TV

A powerful Chicago squad was announced as the Budweisers' opponents on a nationally televised match tomorrow night. The wind-up of the match will be carried on the Tonight program, which will be shown on KSD-TV from 11:20 to 12 o'clock. The Chicago team will consist of two members of the Faistaff team, Bill Lillard and Buddy Bomar, plus Steve Nagy, Joe Willman and Buzz Fazio.

The Chicagoans will use the high-scoring Faetz-Niesen lanes, while the national champion Budweisers will roll on Alleys 7 and 8 at Bowl-Mor. Shooting for the Buds will be Don Carter, Ray Bluth, Pat Patterson, Tom Hennessey and Dick Weber.

Bone, Harris Pace Field in Houston Golf

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 25 (UP)—The chips are down—in the mud—for the plush $7500 top money in the $36,000 Houston Open golf tournament today and a couple of unknowns on the tour, Gene Bone and Bob Harris, had the field at their heels as the final round began.

Bone, a 25-year-old Pontiac, Mich., product playing out of Louisville, Ky., who has won but $33 in three years as a pro, was in front by two strokes with a 10-under-par 206 after defying the elements and the pressure of being a front-runner with a fine 34-36—70 yesterday.

Harris, 28-year-old Kansan, who spent four years as a collegian at San Jose State before turning pro eight years ago, was his closest challenger at 208 after the first round.

Harris, now playing out of Winnetka, Ill., has fared a bit better at the pay window than Bone, but he's netted only under-par 31-34—65 through sloppy fairways and mud-flecked greens.

Harris, a national collegiate champion in 1948, had a one-stroke bulge on one of the best bad weather players in the business—veteran Jimmy Lamarel, who makes his home here but who registers out of Klamath Lake, N.Y.

Another good choice was Doug Ford, the season's top money winner from Mahopac, N.Y., who slipped one stroke over par yesterday after being only one stroke behind Bone at the start of the third round. He was bracketed at 210 with former amateur champ Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., who had 71.

Don Spencer's score in the second half gave the Ramblers a 3-0 victory over the Arabs, and the hustling Sports team trimmed the Saints, 17-8, in a Missouri Rugby Union double-header yesterday at Forest Park.

Spencer turned his own kick into a 40-yard scoring assault for the Ramblers. In the other game the title-defending Sports were successful on tries by Bill Soukup, Joe Chuechek, Bob Urberger and Mike Dangos. Don Spicer added points with a penalty kick and two conversions.

Aubrey (Ace) Clarke, scored a hole-in-one on No. 12 at Normande Golf Club yesterday. Using a No. 7 iron on the 125-yard hole Clarke hit a shot which landed about 2 feet past the pin and rolled back into the cup. He was playing with Judge William Killoren, David V. Campbell and John Lodwick.

Camp Notes

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 25 (UP)—Pitchers Lew Burdette, Bobby Buhl and Ernie Johnson did not budge an inch yesterday in the way of a salary settlement while the remainder of the Milwaukee Braves squad finished off a rugged workout with a six-inning intrasquad game.

Warren Spahn and Taylor Phillips each picked a team, made up only of batterymen and it was Vic Rehm, up from Atlanta, who settled the issue. Rehm hit a homer in the fifth off Carlton Willey with Corky Valentine on base to give Phillips' team a 2-0 win in six frames.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Righthander Johnny Kucks accepted a raise of about $5,000 when he signed a New York Yankee contract for $15,000. Kucks was second highest winner on the club last year with an 18-9 record, second to Whitely Ford's 19-6.

Unpredictable Don Larsen, who wasn't expected in the New York Yankees' training camp until Tuesday, showed up looking as if he could pitch nine innings with only a few warm-ups. Although he has not yet signed his 1957 contract, the no-windup hero of last year's World Series said he would meet with Yankee General Manager George Weiss to iron out their differences.

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP)—Veteran lefthander Mel Parnell of the Red Sox underwent a minor elbow operation last month and will be delayed in his spring training. Manager Mike Higgins announced.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UP)—Bill Lajoie, young outfielder who hit 327 last year in Class B ball, hit the first training camp home run this spring when the Orioles' manager Paul Richards, sent a 57-man squad through its second drill. Lajoie stepped into one of Coach Bob Hooper's practice serves and hit it 400 feet over the rightfield wall. Shortly afterward, Irv Palica, former Dodger pitcher, followed suit with a blow over the leftfield wall.

Billikens Look More Like Tournament Team as Wichita Falls Back

Showdown In Other Leagues

By Robert Morrison

Through a combination of weekend results, St. Louis University's Billikens today appeared to be near qualifying for one or the other of major college basketball tournaments.

While Eddie Hickey's men were showing their ambition by seizing the Missouri Valley Conference lead from Bradley here, Wichita fell away from an outside contender position in the race.

St. Louis's 73-66 victory over Bradley gave the Bills a 9-2 league record and the Braves 8-2, while Wichita's 81-79 loss at Drake now has the Shockers running third with a 7-4 mark.

The Missouri Valley Conference champion automatically qualifies for the N.C.A.A. regional at Dallas March 15. The league runner-up is expected to be invited to the National Invitation Tournament at New York.

In excellent position to finish the race as champion, in a tie for first or at the very least in undisputed second place, St. Louis will continue its drive this week at Tulsa Thursday and at Houston Saturday.

These road games, even though against second division teams the Bills easily defeated previously, present opportunities for them to stumble. Another such occasion will be the season final against Oklahoma A. & M. here a week from Wednesday.

A more dangerous situation faces Bradley. The Braves play tonight at Houston, Saturday at Detroit, the following Tuesday at Wichita and then Friday at home against Oklahoma A. & M.

Bradley knows it has its work cut out. The Bills could step into a trap.

"We'll be playing Tulsa and Houston teams that will be having a last chance to make a good mark for their poor seasons," Coach Hickey cautioned his Billikens.

The Valley standings will further take shape tonight, when in addition to the Bradley at Houston game, Wichita will play at Detroit and Oklahoma's Aggies at Tulsa.

Title Possibilities in Eight Leagues.
NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (UP)—Push all those blue chips to the center of the table—this is "showdown week" in college basketball for as many as eight major conference titles and maybe the national scoring championship, too.

Kentucky and Texas Western can open the hand by clinching league crowns tonight and, with them, berths in the N.C.A.A. tournament.

Before the week is out, champions may also be decided in the Big Ten, Pacific Coast Conference, Ohio Valley Conference, Missouri Valley, Skyline, and California Basketball Association, each of these carries an automatic bid to the big N.C.A.A. carnival.

Should Kentucky and Texas Western win, they will swell the field for the N.C.A.A. tourney to six teams. Connecticut and Canisius were already in when Southern Methodist joined up by clinching its third straight Southwest Conference title Saturday night and Idaho State clinched the Rocky Mountain Conference bid.

Some other league titles up for grabs:
Big Ten—Indiana (9-2) can clinch at least a tie by beating Michigan tonight and Michigan State (8-3) Saturday and would clinch outright if, in addition, Ohio State lost to Illinois to-night or Northwestern Saturday.

Pacific Coast—U.C.L.A. and California, each 11-1 with four left. U.C.L.A. can clinch, this week, by beating Southern California Tuesday and sweeping the big Friday and Saturday series with California.

Ohio Valley—Western Kentucky (7-1) can tie Morehead (8-1) tonight by beating Tennessee Tech. Then each has one left — Morehead vs. Eastern Kentucky Thursday, Western vs. Middle Tennessee Saturday.

Skyline—Brigham Young (9-3) winds up against New Mexico Friday and Denver Saturday and can clinch by winning both. Utah, Montana and Denver all at 8-4 and also facing two games each this week.

California B.A.—San Francisco (10-2), N.C.A.A. champion two straight years, can clinch tourney berth again by beating San Jose State Friday if St. Mary's (9-2) loses both to College of Pacific Tuesday and Santa Clara Saturday.

As for that pesky scoring race, three of the top five contenders finish their seasons this week. Here's how they stand:

Games, Avg.
1—Joe Gibbon, Miss. 20 39.3
2—Grady Wallace, South Carolina — 24 30.13
3—Will Chamberlain, Kansas — 20 29.2
4—Elgin Baylor, Seattle — 22 29.13
5—Chet Forte, Columbia — 20 28.95
Gibbon, Wallace and Baylor all finish this week, except for tourney games.

St. Louisans in Lead in Negro Golf Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25 (AP)—Joe Roach of St. Louis, Mo., held a two-stroke lead over the field going into today's final round of the North-South Negro Golf Tournament.

Roach, National Negro Amateur Golf Champion three years ago, finished the first round with a 73, while the runner-up, Ed Rhodes of St. Louis, with 75, held a 5-stroke lead over Herbert Brown of Miami and Chink Stuart of Baltimore in the pro division. Amelia Lucas of Washington, D. C., with 76, was 14 strokes ahead of her nearest rival, Earline Thornton of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Knode and Rose

Gain Panama Titles

PANAMA, Feb. 25 (UP)—Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N. Y., and Meyvyn Rose of Australia won the singles titles yesterday in the invitation tennis tournament here.

Mrs. Knode defeated Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., in the women's singles, 2-6, 8-6, 6-1. Southpaw Rose, who has dominated the winter tennis circuit, defeated fellow Aussie Don Candy in the men's singles final, 6-4, 5-7, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2. Rose and Candy then joined to win the men's doubles final against the Mexican team of Mario Llamas and Pancho Contreras, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Toms Takes Title.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 25 (AP)—George N. Toms, 26-year-old Durham, N.C., amateur, defeated Jimmy Paul of Daytona Beach, 7 and 6, to win the twenty-fifth annual tournament of golf club champions.

Paul, who won the tourney last week, by beating Southern California Tuesday and sweeping the big Friday and Saturday series with California.

Ohio Valley—Western Kentucky (7-1) can tie Morehead (8-1) tonight by beating Tennessee Tech. Then each has one left — Morehead vs. Eastern Kentucky Thursday, Western vs. Middle Tennessee Saturday.

Skyline—Brigham Young (9-3) winds up against New Mexico Friday and Denver Saturday and can clinch by winning both. Utah, Montana and Denver all at 8-4 and also facing two games each this week.

Ohio Bowler Takes Lead in Petersen Meet

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (AP)—Frank Schumacher, 40-year-old father of six, last night took the lead in the $202,752 Petersen Bowling Classic.

Schumacher, a sales engineer, from Bay Village, O., competing in his first classic, had five 200 games including a 231 effort for a total score of 1578.

His total topped the 1374 rolled by Ray Bluth of St. Louis two weeks ago.

Whitely Harris, St. Louis, dropped to third place with 1567 and Marion Ladewig, Grand Rapids, Mich., is now fourth with 1554.

Robert Burke bowled 1472 to pace the 32-man all St. Louis area squad. This earned Burke top squad prize of $100. His games were 182-175-180-173-165-193-201-203.

Dick Weber, Budweiser star, couldn't solve the ancient drives, running into numerous railroads as well as errors to finish with 1359 for tenth on the squad on games of 161-171-185-169-168-168-159-158.

The best single game on the squad was a 222 turned in by William Schewe, good for $25. Schewe totaled 1910.

The top eight finishers on the shift earned squared money, scaling from Burke's $100 to $25. The other scores, showing also prizes won:

Joe Jordan, Overland, 1435—$50; Ted Teiser, Atron, 1432—$40; Olin Baughert, 1414—$35; William Verheyden, Baldwin, 1411—$25; Emil Bangert, Normandy, 1387—$25; Ronald Dick, Weber, Brentwood, 1359; Lee Meyer, Overland, 1356; Ed Ray, 1350; Vince Anello, Woodson Terrace, 1347; John Wagner, 1346; King George Bretzelle, St. Anna, 1337; Harvey Hermann, 1329; Al Leffler, 1314; Rich McKenna, 1312; William Schewe, 1310; Ray von Reinen, Jennings, 1294; M. E. Thornhill, 1278; Harry Roland Roach, St. Ann, 1154.

Nielsen Beats Flam in Indoor Net Meet Final

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 (UP)—Another sour note was struck in American tennis when the United States national indoor tennis championship went out of the country for the third time in the last four years.

Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, who had been seeded fourth, emerged as the winner of the 1957 indoor crown yesterday when he upset third-seeded Herb Flam, U.S. Davis Cupper from Beverly Hills, Calif., 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

Nielsen, who had twice been runner-up in the tournament and twice runner-up at Wimbledon in a tennis career that saw him just missing the big prize, upset former Wimbledon champion Dick Savitt of South Orange, N.J., in Saturday's semifinals.

He succeeds Ulf Schmidt of Sweden as the U.S. indoor king. Sven Davidson of Sweden won the title in 1954 and only Tony Trabert's U.S. victory in 1955 breaks up what would be a four-year foreign rule.

Youth was served in another upset in the final round of doubles when Barry Mackay of Dayton, O., and Grant Golden of Wilmette, Ill., beat Savitt and U.S. Davis Cup Capt. Billy Talbert of New York, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Nielsen, 28, couldn't solve the 28-year-old Flam's style in the first set, but the turning point came when the Dane scored a service break in the fourth game of the second set with fine backcourt drives to the corners. After that he was in command all the way, moving into forecourt frequently and disrupting Flam's usually steady game.

Flam played with dogged determination, but Nielsen's marksmanship was simply too good to overcome.

Morris Adelson of New York won the national senior singles title, defeating Dr. Reginald Weir of New York, 9-7, 10-8. Phil Hanna of New York and Berkeley Bell of Cresskill, N.J., won the seniors doubles from Dr. Irving Bricket and Edgar B. Ney, both of New York, 6-2, 6-4.

AID AFTER COLLAPSE OF BRIDGE

While one of the injured limps away, spectators rush to aid others trapped in wreckage of bridge which collapsed at Grand Prix sports car race in Havana yesterday. Bridge was a temporary structure over the Malecon, the Havana boulevard used as route for sports car races. Qualifying trials were just about to begin when the overpass fell, resulting in serious injury to 10 persons.

RETURNING TO HUNGARY

Members of the mixed Yugoslav-Hungarian refugee commission look on as Hungarian refugees who decided to return to their homeland wait to cross border into Hungary at border checkpoint last week. Providing accommodations for refugees has become difficult in Yugoslavia, where 16,000 Hungarians are living in much-needed hotels at the government's expense. Dr. Auguste R. Lindt, U.N. High commissioner for refugees, is appealing to other governments to find a haven for the refugees.

Television In Review

Some TV Shows Are Getting Mighty Nosy

By John Crosby

ROUGHLY 10 years ago, television was in what we used to call the "I think" phase. That was back when Ben Grauer would lean across the table and say: "Senator, what do you think about farm prices?"

JOHN CROSBY

and the Senator would say: "Well, Ben, I think..." etc. Television didn't have any money in these days and this was mighty cheap programming. All you needed was a table and Ben Grauer. Senators you could get by whistling. But then television got rich and splurged all over the place with Shakespeare and things like that. Recently, though, it has seemed to me that we have been getting back to that "I think" bit all over again, as if we had come full circle. The table and the probing question has come into fashion again but the type of question has changed. Nowadays, in place of asking what the guy thinks about farm prices, you ask about his sex life, his religious convictions and his psychological problems.

TELEVISION, to put it bluntly, is getting awfully nosy. Friday in particular is getting to be known in my household as "none of your business night" on television, that being the answer I would give to many of the questions hurled at the interviewers that night. So far as I know, no one has yet snapped that riposte at his tormentors but I can dream, can't I? If you're in a nosy mood on Friday night, you can start with Edward R. Murrow and "Person to Person." Murrow was working this side of the street ahead of the rest of the mob and his program is still the least intrusive. True, the cameras invade somebody's living room but the questions Murrow asks are the kind of questions you might ask in anybody's home. Recently, for instance, he was in Gladys Swarthout's living room and Murrow asked her about her operation. That's a risky thing to ask a lady on a program that is only half an hour long but he got out of there with 15 minutes to spare and plunged into the living room of David Burpee, the seed man, where we were told that marigolds and zinnias were the flowers closest to the American heart, relatively harmless information, and that the W. Atlee Burpee Seed Co. was pressing forward on all possible fronts in its ceaseless quest for a pure white marigold.

SURGERY AND GARDENING are, of course, thoroughly respectable topics for anybody's conversation but after 11 p.m. the probing takes a sinister turn. On Mike Wallace's "Nightbeat," a program now confined to New York but destined soon to be on a network under a different title, Wallace—directly following that spirited information about marigolds—was pinning Steve Allen to the wall concerning his personality off camera as contrasted to his personality in front of it. Was it true, asked Wallace, that Allen was introverted, preoccupied, withdrawn, that he hated everybody and was afraid everyone hated him? Allen categorically denied all these charges. Right away you sensed the change of mood. From friendly to hostile. From polite to let's-take-our-hair-down conversation. Of course, it's been my experience that conversation does get increasingly intimate as the hour grows later and along about 5 in the morning you are revealing things to total strangers that you wish later you hadn't. But the question remains whether all of this ought to be on television. Wallace one night was pursuing Lisa Ferraday's private life into corners that I would hesitate to enter even at 5 a.m. at a private party.

AFTER THE WALLACE SHOW (or during it for that matter) you can if you are in New York, switch over to "Tonight" where you are likely to find Hy Gardner asking a Japanese sweetmeat when she got her first kiss (as he did the other night) or Paul Coates asking a punch-drunk fighter how he got in such a condition, or Vernon Scott asking Dean Martin what he thinks of Jerry Lewis as an author—and the fun really begins to fly. Tex and Jinx McCrary have just started a new program along the same lines and on the first day they asked Mary Martin, if she had married Winthrop Rockefeller would she have pursued her career or just loafed? In short, the questions have gone beyond the actual into the realm of the hypothetical. You mean, Jinx, if you were happily married to Winthrop Rockefeller? Or unhappily married? Suppose he lost all his money, then what? You mean to tell me, Mary Martin, you'd continue to loaf after Winthrop Rockefeller lost all his money? If the theoretical question ever gets a toe-hold, who knows where it will all end.

Medical Questions

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: Is it true that aspirin is bad for persons who suffer from ulcer of the stomach?—M.J.T.

ANSWER: There have been a number of medical reports which indicate that aspirin intake is often associated with intestinal bleeding. In a recent paper by J. J. Kelly Jr., M.D., he reported a study of 75 patients with bleeding ulcers. Fifteen of these patients (20 per cent) "were receiving aspirin (salicylates) for headache, arthritis or gripe when the symptoms developed."

Doctors continue to believe, and rightly, that aspirin is one of our most valuable drugs. However, there are some people who "just can't take it." If you ever have intestinal bleeding, in addition to other investigation, review your recent aspirin intake.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: We have an only son of 12 who keeps having attacks of rheumatic fever. We live in the Northeast, but would be willing to make the sacrifice of pulling up stakes for his benefit. What states are considered "good" for such patients? Sincerely, Mrs. K.H.

ANSWER: There is no region in America where the disease does not exist. However, there is a much lower incidence in Florida, California, Texas, Arizona and many states along the Gulf of Mexico and the Mexican border.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

THE COURSE OF TRUE JUSTICE took an odd twist in an Illinois courtroom some time ago. A slick young lawyer assured the judge, "It wasn't really my client who ransacked the home of the plaintiff. He noted that a window was wide open, and merely inserted his arm—and removed a few inconsequential nick-nacks. Now you will admit that my client's arm is not technically himself. Why punish all of him for an indiscretion committed by only one of his limbs?"

The judge thought that one over for a moment, then decreed, "An ingenious defense—and following it logically, I sentence this defendant's arm to one year in jail. He may accompany the arm or not, as he chooses."

The laughter of the courtroom attendants was checked abruptly when the defendant calmly removed his artificial arm, put it down on the judge's bench and walked out.

Ex-St. Louisan's New Career in Bolivia

Elizabeth Postel, Now in Import Business With Husband, Here on Visit.

By Mary Kimbrough

IT won't surprise any of her St. Louis friends to learn that once again Elizabeth Kausch Postel is following a career few women have tackled. A former city attorney of Glendale, justice of the peace in that community, lawyer on the staff of the United States High Commissioner in Germany, the Washington University law graduate is now a partner with her husband in the import business in La Paz, Bolivia.

Nor will they be surprised to hear that Mrs. Postel, on a business trip to St. Louis, brought her 12-year-old daughter, Lucy, with her. With baby sitters hard to come by during the war years, Lucy used to sit patiently in her high chair in her mother's magistrate's office in Glendale, and a few years later, on the maid's day off, spent many an hour playing with her toys in Mrs. Postel's law office in Germany.

THIS TIME, however, having long since outgrown the need for a baby sitter, Lucy just came along to keep her mother company. She's on her annual vacation from school in Bolivia. La Paz, a textile and tin center nestled high in the mountains in the heart of South America, offers stark contrasts in cultures, Mrs. Postel reports. Settled four centuries ago, it mingles the old with the new, the simplicity of primitive customs with the bustle of new industry. With Indians comprising more than 50 per cent of the country's population, there is a wide range of economic extremes, from drab huts to handsome homes and sleek office buildings of contemporary design.

It is a country where housewives cook with electricity but buy unwashed vegetables from staid women at drab market stalls; where they have the latest in kitchen equipment, but when electricity is rationed, prepare meals on alcohol lamps.

It's a country where women have the vote, but many are so illiterate that ballots are printed on colored paper so voters can drop the right one in the ballot box. Still embracing the remnants of an old Spanish culture, its women customarily wear black on the street and many still look with distaste on the idea of careers for their daughters.

MRS. CARL POSTEL AND DAUGHTER, LUCY... WHEN MOTHER WAS MAGISTRATE IN GLENDALE, LUCY USED TO SIT IN HER HIGH CHAIR IN THE OFFICE BECAUSE BABY SITTERS WERE HARD TO COME BY.

For years, La Paz has ridden down cobblestone streets off the same creaking buses, hanging on the outside and praying the ancient vehicle wouldn't break down before reaching the next stop. Now the Postels, who also are in the automobile business, have sold the city more than 30 new buses and they are expected to be in operation soon. Still cherishing her American citizenship, despite her years abroad and her marriage to a native of Germany, Mrs. Postel keeps house in an apartment building where several other American families live. Her husband, Carl Postel, whom she met in Germany after her divorce from Morton Lange, went to Bolivia to establish a business in 1952 and she and Lucy joined him there several months later.

"It's a pleasant life, but in many ways not nearly as easy and comfortable as it is here in the United States," said Mrs. Postel. "We have no supermarkets such as you have here. I go shopping every day, picking out fruit and vegetables from the stalls in the market."

"One woman will sell vegetables and nothing else. Another will have only fruit in her stall. A third will have flowers. They seem to be highly specialized."

"We can get most of the things you get here—except broccoli, for some reason—but nothing is wrapped in plastic bags and displayed on attractive counters."

"The prices are reasonable, except on certain imported products. For instance, a jar of American mayonnaise that would cost about 29 cents here, costs nearly $1 there. But on the other hand, a meat merchant will come to your door and you can buy a whole sheep, to be cut up and stored in the freezer, at a very reasonable cost."

"Because of the high altitude, between 12,000 and 13,000 feet, the water boils at a much lower temperature than it does here. That means that you have a hard time cooking some things because the water all boils away before there's enough heat to get the food done."

"But one particularly good thing about the climate is that the wash dries almost immediately. I have an electric washer but there I don't need a dryer."

How to Get More for Your Money

By Lawrence Galton

NOTES for home builders: A house with a completely changeable room layout, recently built in Monroe, N.Y., is first in a new development. Entirely free of interior bearing walls, with rooms formed by movable storage walls, the design allows a family to change layout of any part or all of house to meet changing needs, even changing moods. One example: Walls can be arranged for four medium-size bedrooms, or for one master bedroom with either two separate small bedrooms or a single large one for children. . . . Marble is now going into more homes as counter topping, tiling for baths, facing over brick on fireplaces, foyers, etc. Lowered cost, thanks to mechanization for cutting and finishing, makes it more competitive with other materials. Although still somewhat more expensive to begin with, it requires virtually no maintenance.

TRENDS AND TIP-OFFS: Tests now show that frozen meat, once thawed, can be kept in the refrigerator safely. It can, in fact, be kept longer than fresh, unfrozen meat. . . . Because of a new finishing process, Madras plaids are now guaranteed not to bleed or run when washed, making them practical as well as colorful fabrics for sportswear. . . . News for owners of cars loaded with power systems, autronic eyes, directional indicators, etc.: a new book on accessories and how to adjust them, diagnose troubles, make repairs.

AROUND THE HOUSE: Planning to fence in your property? New illustrated booklet has detailed instructions on building seven basic types of wood fencing, plus illustrations of 19 possible variations. . . . Some authorities on condensation advise that painting inside wall with a rubber base paint, or one with high varnish content helps prevent peeling on exterior siding. These paints act as vapor barriers, prevent moisture inside the house from condensing on exterior surfaces.

MEMORY SWITCH: Ever have your car battery go dead because you forgot to turn off lights or because the kids turned something on? New device you can install yourself should eliminate such problems and protect battery and electrical parts even if a short develops when car is unattended. It uses a 3-point sensing system. A

ADD MINOR BOONS: A round indoor thermometer which is also a utility lamp. Using chemical phosphors, it emits a soft glow, gives off no heat to interfere with accurate readings, can operate day and night for a whole year at a cost of less than three cents. . . .

Secrets of Charm—Altering the Figure

SOMETIMES IT'S NECESSARY TO ALTER THE FIGURE TO FIT THE DRESS.

ONCE you know the model's secret of looking your best in a dress, you always deal with the alteration department of the store as well as with a saleswoman. Models, even with their perfect figures, never buy a dress as it comes. They never fail to have it tailored to an exact fit, even though needed alterations are slight.

Then, if your posture is always as good as when you stood up straight for the fitter, the perfectly fitted dress will always be a special pleasure to wear. But that's just the trouble. Too often the pose in the fitting room isn't the one that's habitual—and it's as necessary wire from the generator keeps power supplied when engine is running. Another connection under driver's seat keeps circuit closed as long as anyone is sitting there. Finally, a thermostat keeps the circuit closed when engine is warm, lets you see your way to the house, then shuts lights off automatically. End result: you have power supply when you want it, automatic disconnect when the car is left alone.

For starting charcoal or wood barbecue fires, there's a powdered instant starter made from hickory shavings treated with and odorless chemical. It doesn't flash up or explode, comes in a handy one-pound coffee can package. . . . A new, aluminum egg boiler rack holds four eggs, fits any saucepan, prevents cracking—and folds flat for neat storage.

If you'd like further information on any of the above items, write Lawrence Galton in care of the Post-Dispatch, identifying item, giving date of appearance and enclosing stamped and self-addressed envelope. Inquiries must be sent no later than two weeks after the appearance of the item.

to alter the figure to fit the dress as it is to have the dress altered to fit the figure.

THE BACKLINE that was so smooth on the new slim wool dress may seem to have developed wrinkles with a few wearings. It hasn't—the wrinkles simply showed up the minute you let your shoulder sag. The bust curves that you filled in so nicely at first may seem to have deflated. Of course they do when your whole figure droops. The skirt that now seems so tight over the abdomen hasn't shrunk—you're pulling it taut by slumping and letting your abdomen protrude.

Contract Bridge

By Sam Fry Jr.

SATURDAY'S quiz dealt with responses to partner's opening club bid as dealer, with the next hand passing.

1. ♠72 ♥KQ84 ♦J74 ♣QJ72
2. ♠952 ♥K73 ♦K103 ♣K64
3. ♠K763 ♥8542 ♦102 ♣732
4. ♠AK842 ♥5 ♦AQJ3 ♣Q103

Answer: One spade. This is a matter of style and a two-spade response would by no means evoke gasps of horror from us. But with slam possibilities in either spades, diamonds, clubs or no-trump, but by no means certain anywhere, we'd like all the room possible for investigating all avenues. One distinct preference with one diamond an admissible second choice. One spade is out, it says here anyway, on four to the jack with other sound clubs available. Ten points and 4-3-3 distribution seems to us to be the perfect definition of a one-trump response to one club.

If the eventual spot for the hand is some number of spades, partner will surely be able to name the suit.

Answer: Pass. Even if in so doing we've left partner in a short club. It's too dangerous to bid on this garbage. There's no security in either of our majors even if partner can raise it.

Answer: Pass. Even if in so doing we've left partner in a short club. It's too dangerous to bid on this garbage. There's no security in either of our majors even if partner can raise it.

Answer: One spade. This is a matter of style and a two-spade response would by no means evoke gasps of horror from us. But with slam possibilities in either spades, diamonds, clubs or no-trump, but by no means certain anywhere, we'd like all the room possible for investigating all avenues. One distinct preference with one diamond an admissible second choice. One spade is out, it says here anyway, on four to the jack with other sound clubs available. Ten points and 4-3-3 distribution seems to us to be the perfect definition of a one-trump response to one club.

If the eventual spot for the hand is some number of spades, partner will surely be able to name the suit.

Postcard Quiet Yourself

By Stan Delaplane

TECOLUTLA, MEXICO.

I LOOKED UP the leaflet on Tecolutla, Mexico. Then I looked up the words in a Spanish dictionary. Rest—repose—quiet yourself. An atmosphere to forget the preoccupations of daily life. "Unsurpassed views."

building. The rate, said the desk clerk, was $4.80 American a day. Or a corner room at $5.60.

"With all meals," he said anxiously, "included."

"The corner room, if you please," I said grandly.

I WENT DOWN to try the stupendous service and the international cuisine. It was an enormous dining room with carved grill work. The unsurpassed view was surpassed by a workman and his buckets, applying new plaster to the porch.

By looking between his legs, I could see the Gulf was blue.

There was also a precious swimming pool. A German shepherd dog was swimming in it. He got out and shook himself and seemed to feel refreshed and precious.

"Are there many tourists?" I asked the waiter.

"Only you," he said.

THE WAITER SAID the all-inclusive lunch was vegetable soup, omelette with cheese, fresh fish, followed by steak a la Japonaise.

"What is Japanese-style steak?"

"Who knows? It is something the cook dreams up. Very stylish."

The omelette was delicious. The fish turned out to be huachinango. One of the world's finest fish, fresh-caught and sprinkled with butter and the fragrant, big Mexican lemons that look like limes.

The steak covered the platter and was surrounded by big red tomato slices. Dessert was a kind of Mexican sweet potato cooked with sugar and coconut milk.

AT $5.60 A DAY and only one guest, it looked like a losing proposition.

"When do the tourists arrive?"

The waiter said the tourist season was best in the early fall and winter. "During Holy Week it is hard to get a room, too."

I went out to the swimming pool. The dog joined me. He seemed glad to have someone to swim with. A light breeze rustled the coco palm fronds and a long easy surf was rolling onto the white beach as far as you could see. The weather was wonderful—a relaxing warmth, not too hot. The sun filtered down through the palm trees and the dog looked at me as if to say: "Not bad for a dog's life, no?"

The stupendous dining room opened at 8 o'clock.

"Vegetable soup, huachinango in butter and lemon juice, steak a la Japonaise and camotes in coconut milk," said the waiter.

"The same as noon?"

"Exactly. It is very international."

The workman had gone home and you could see lights along the coast. The warm sea breeze blew in the windows from the Gulf. And as for huachinango, I can eat it morning, night and evening. And apparently I will, too.

Tips for Teens

By Elinor Williams

HERE'S a bright idea for junior high school girls and boys who don't date yet, but want to have Friday night fun together.

It's a small dance club started by a group of boys and girls for weekly fun... approved and aided by their parents who take them to and from the club in their cars, so there's no worry or difficulty about transportation. Here's a letter from one of the members, in case you'd like to start a dance club in your neighborhood or class:

"Dear Elinor: I am only 12 and some girls and boys my age have a dance club.

"We meet once a week and it's over at 9 o'clock, just right for most of us. Before we had this club, we could hardly dance at all. The girls couldn't follow the boys and we made a mess of our shoes. Now it's different.

"We decided to have kids in our neighborhood, along with three school friends we just couldn't leave out. We have seven girls and seven boys in the club. It was two of the boys, not the girls, who had the idea of starting the club, and it is a success.

"We pay 15 cents dues each week. The people who buy the refreshments get half of their money back from the dues, so it's no great expense.

"This is a good idea for kids in their early teens or early years of junior high (and maybe older kids, too)... just start a simple dance club, and watch its popularity grow."

This letter didn't mention where the dances are held—in homes or in a room or hall in the community. This depends on what is available in your neighborhood. Members can bring their records (marked with their names) for music. Why not try it?

The Question Box

By Josephine Lowman

"I WOULD appreciate it so much if you would give us a few exercises which can be done without lying on the floor. I want some to tone and slim the waist and the hips."

A. You are fortunate because the bending exercises are best for slimming the waist and these can be done standing. There are dozens and dozens of them. This is a good one: Stand tall with your feet separated. Raise your arms overhead, one arm by each ear. Bend over and try to touch your fingertips to your left foot. Raise trunk and arms and stretch upward. This time bend over and try to touch your fingertips to your right foot. Raise trunk and continue, alternating left and right.

Here's one for the hips: Stand with your left side toward the wall. Place the left hand on the wall. Swing the right leg forward and backward, reaching as far in each direction as you can. Turn the other side toward the wall and swing the left leg.

For the thighs: Stand with your left side toward the wall, left hand on the wall. Raise the right leg upward. Lower leg. Do not raise the leg forward but straight up at the side. After a while turn the right side toward the wall and raise the left leg.

'The Heart Has Its Reasons' The Prince of Wales Becomes King

Author Tells How She and Husband Drifted Apart as She Joined in Royal Social Whirl

Fourteenth installment condensed from the book, "The Heart Has Its Reasons," the autobiography of the Duchess of Windsor.

By the Duchess of Windsor

BY THE time the cruise aboard the Rosaura was ended, September was nearly over. The Prince had a long-standing engagement to join his father and his mother for the launching of the liner Queen Mary at the River Clyde. Our whole party motored to Lake Como, where we stayed for a week. Then we went to Arona to board the Orient Express for Paris. From there the Prince and Jack Alrd, his quarry, flew back to London, leaving the rest of us to do a little shopping in Paris.

On Sept. 26, 1934, Aunt Bessie and I boarded the liner Manhattan at Le Havre, she to return to the United States, while I would get off at Southampton. Although the Prince had vanished, with a ray wave of the hand, the spell of the cruise lingered on. Whatever had happened, if indeed anything really had, seemed altogether unreal. Was I allowing myself to drift into a dangerous situation? Or had it all been only a Mediterranean summer night's dream?

My always perceptive aunt must have sensed my underlying preoccupation. As we were having dinner, and while I was telling her about the cruise, she asked in what she hoped would appear to be an offhand way, "Wallis, isn't the Prince rather taken with you?"

"Whatever makes you think that?" I asked.

"These old eyes aren't so old that they can't see what's in his every glance."

Aunt Bessie's forthrightness shook me. I did not know what to say, nor did I know what I really thought. Was the Prince really attracted to me—or was he only attracted by the enchanted weeks that we had shared together amid romantic surroundings away from his world, and away from mine?

"Aunt Bessie," I finally answered, "I would like to think that he is truly fond of me."

"Isn't all this dangerous for you?" If you let yourself enjoy this kind of life, it will make you very restless and dissatisfied with everything you've ever known before."

"You don't know what you're talking about," I said. With true Montague arrogance I added, "I'm having a marvelous time. It's all great fun. You don't have to worry about me—I know what I'm doing."

My aunt sighed. "Very well, have it your own way. But I tell you that wiser people than you have been carried away, and I can see no happy outcome to such a situation."

On this foreboding note we finished our dinner, leaving me with much unsaid and far more still unresolved. That evening, as I turned over these matters in my mind, it seemed unbelievable that I, Wallis Warfield of Baltimore, Md., could be part of this enchanted world. It seemed so incredible that it produced in me a dreamy state of happy and unheeding acceptance.

ERNEST was at Southampton to meet me. In reply to his question about my trip, I said, "I can't describe it. All I can say is that it was like being in Wallis in Wonderland."

Our life resumed its now familiar pattern. The Prince had gone on to Balmoral to spend a few days with his parents after attending the launching of the great Cunard liner named after his mother. Soon after his return he came to dinner and invited Ernest and me to the Fort for the weekend.

During the fall I gained further insight into the character of the Prince. His favorite brother, George, who for many years had been his most intimate friend and companion, sharing his roof at York House and very often at the Fort, was to be married on Nov. 29 at Westminster Abbey to the Princess Marina of Greece.

Because it was the first Royal marriage since that of the Duke of York 11 years before, all England was excited.

Before his wedding Prince George was at the Fort almost every weekend. He was genuinely in love with Princess Marina, a most beautiful woman, whom I had met earlier at the Fort; and he was also delighted at the prospect of at last having his own home.

Many brilliant dinners and soirees were held for the popular couple, culminating in a state reception given by the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace a day or two before the wedding. Ernest and I were invited.

This reception was rendered truly memorable to me for the reason that it was the only time I ever met David's father and mother. David led me over to where they were standing and introduced me. It was the briefest of encounters—a few words of pleasant greeting, and we moved away. But I was impressed with their Majesties' great gift for making everyone they met, however casually, feel at ease in their presence.

The wedding took place at 11 a.m. and the Abbey was crowded with foreign royalty, members of the British and Dominion Governments, the diplomatic corps, and many other dignitaries. The Prince had provided Ernest and me with very good places on a side aisle, from which we had an uninterrupted view of the solemn and moving ceremony.

Now that Prince George, newly created Duke of Kent by his father, was out of the Prince's life, I became aware of a deepening of sadness—perhaps pensiveness is really what I mean to say—in the Prince's mood. It was upsetting to see a man of such dynamic qualities, a man so active and so often filled with the true joy of life, suddenly disappear before my very eyes, into uncertainty.

Whether he was aware of this, or would even have admitted it to himself, I do not know, but I do know that he was reaching out for something that was as yet unknown to him, something to which he could anchor his personal life. It was easy for the rest of us to change or rearrange our lives, but for him it was not only difficult, it was also well nigh impossible. And this poignant seeking for an absolute in his life was very moving to me, more moving than I perhaps realized.

Often I felt I somehow had become a part of this search. Every day drew me more intimately into his life. Our dinners alone together were more frequent. Hardly a day passed without his telephoning, perhaps only to tell me of some idea that had occurred to him during his duties, or only to ask my advice about some housekeeping problem at his beloved Fort.

Until now I had taken for granted that Ernest's interest in the Prince was keeping pace with mine, but about this time I began to sense a change in his attitude. His work seemed to be excusing him from the demands on his time in the evening. Often he would not return in time for dinner, or when the Prince suggested afterward dropping in at Sartori's or the Dorchester for an hour or so of amusement, Ernest would ask to be excused on the plea that he had an early appointment or that papers from the office needed his attention. He also seemed less and less interested in what I had to say about the Prince's latest news and interests.

I first realized how far Ernest and I had grown apart when the Prince invited us to Kitzbuehel in February for the skiing. I naturally accepted for both of us.

When Ernest returned home that evening, I told him excitedly about the trip to Austria. He was unresponsive, and abruptly cut me off with an announcement that he had no interest in skiing and moreover had urgent business that would require his presence in New York at that time.

Later that evening, after a rather silent dinner, he asked me whether my mind was definitely made up to go. I remembered answering, "Of course. Why not? I wouldn't dream of missing it."

He got up from his chair and said, "I rather thought that you might have gone to New York together. I see now that I was wrong."

I asked if he couldn't come out for at least some of the time. He answered that it was quite out of the question. With that he went to his room, and for the first time I heard his door bang.

THE Prince's party left early in February 1935, for the ski trip in Austria. It consisted, in addition to me, of Bruce Ogilvy and his pretty wife Primrose; her younger sister, Oliver; and Comdr. James Dugdale, an old friend of David's.

Our prearranged fortnight at Kitzbuehel passed all too quickly. On my return to Bryanston Court I realized that Ernest had undergone a change; the shadow that had fallen across our parting had taken on substance; it was almost palpable. This time he was not at all curious, even indifferent, about the details of the trip; and, if anything, he was more uncommunicative about his sojourn in New York.

I was troubled, but my concern was no more than a tiny cloud in the growing radiance that the Prince's favor cast over my life. I became aware of a rising curiosity concerning me, of new doors opening, and a heightened interest even in my casual remarks. I was stimulated; I was excited. Now I began to savor the true brilliance and sophistication of the life of London.

Among the people I came to know at this time were two of the best-known hostesses of the day—Lady Colefax and Lady Cowell. Their houses were focal points of the wit, the wisdom, and politics of Great Britain, and, indeed, of the world.

Having gradually come to realize that David looked for fulfillment in the company of those whom he loved and their friends, I now quite unintentionally found myself filling the void that had been left in his life. In addition, I discovered that he rather took for granted that Ernest and I would be on hand to help him with the small, semi-official dinners he gave from time to time at York House.

I must in all fairness to Ernest say this: whatever he may have been thinking or feeling, he loyally played his part. At Eastertime, David proposed taking the Hunters and us to Cornwall to see the famous camellia and rhododendron gardens at the height of their bloom. Ernest could not have been more charming. It was almost like the trips into the English countryside when he was first teaching me about his country. Nor did he ever show a sign of strain or stress in his demeanor during our weekends at the Fort, which were now constant.

THIS was the year of the Silver Jubilee, the national celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of King George V's accession to the British Throne. Dominion Prime Ministers, Indian princes, African potentates, sheiks, tribal chieftains, and other lords and masters of the Empire assembled from the far corners of the earth to pay homage to a beloved sovereign. Every evening there were state dinners, balls, and celebrations of every sort.

Because of David, Ernest and I were invited to the State Ball at Buckingham Palace on May 14. After the King and Queen had made their entrance and taken their seats on the dais at the end of the room, the dancing began. As David and I danced past, I thought I felt the King's eyes rest searchingly on me. Something in his look made me feel that all this graciousness and pageantry were but the glittering tip of an iceberg that extended down into unseen depths I could never plumb, depths filled with an icy menace for such as me.

Also through the panoply of pomp I discerned that there was a frail old man. The King was then only a few days away from his seventieth birthday, and David had told me more than once of his concern over his father's failing strength. A premonitory shiver ran through me at the thought of what his passing might bring, the startling and immeasurable changes that of necessity would come to all of us. In spite of David's gaiety and the lively frolic, the sense of foreboding refused to lift; in that moment I knew that between David's world and mine lay an abyss that I could never cross, one he could never bridge for me.

Yet the wave that was bearing me surged faster and ever higher, driven by the gala spirit of the Jubilee Year. There was scarcely an evening we were not together at the theater or at one of the great houses or at an embassy reception.

and Lady Brownlow, Helen Fitz-Gerald, Lord Sefton, the Bults, and Jack Alrd. The pattern of the preceding summer at Biarritz was largely repeated. We took a cruise on the Duke of Westminster's yacht to Corsica; later, Daisy Fellowes lent us her yacht for another cruise.

It was early October before I was back in London. Ernest had, of course, been invited to be a member of the Cannes party, but had again declined. During my absence he had made a trip to the United States. I had the feeling that more than business was now drawing him back to America. We were both going our separate ways; the core of our marriage had dissolved; only the shell remained.

The year 1936 began pleasantly enough, with no visible indication of the catastrophes that would engulf us before its close. The first ominous turn of events came in a fortnight. I could not describe it better than David has done in his book, "A King's Story."

As David and I danced past, I thought I felt the King's eyes rest searchingly on me. Something in his look made me feel that all this graciousness and pageantry were but the glittering tip of an iceberg that extended down into unseen depths I could never plumb, depths filled with an icy menace for such as me.

Also through the panoply of pomp I discerned that there was a frail old man. The King was then only a few days away from his seventieth birthday, and David had told me more than once of his concern over his father's failing strength. A premonitory shiver ran through me at the thought of what his passing might bring, the startling and immeasurable changes that of necessity would come to all of us. In spite of David's gaiety and the lively frolic, the sense of foreboding refused to lift; in that moment I knew that between David's world and mine lay an abyss that I could never cross, one he could never bridge for me.

Yet the wave that was bearing me surged faster and ever higher, driven by the gala spirit of the Jubilee Year. There was scarcely an evening we were not together at the theater or at one of the great houses or at an embassy reception.

The Trooping of the Color, the Derby, Ascot—these marked the rapid passing of the spring of 1935. David decided to go to Cannes for his summer holiday. We were a small party—Lord and Lady Brownlow, Helen Fitz-Gerald, Lord Sefton, the Bults, and Jack Alrd. The pattern of the preceding summer at Biarritz was largely repeated. We took a cruise on the Duke of Westminster's yacht to Corsica; later, Daisy Fellowes lent us her yacht for another cruise.

It was early October before I was back in London. Ernest had, of course, been invited to be a member of the Cannes party, but had again declined. During my absence he had made a trip to the United States. I had the feeling that more than business was now drawing him back to America. We were both going our separate ways; the core of our marriage had dissolved; only the shell remained.

The year 1936 began pleasantly enough, with no visible indication of the catastrophes that would engulf us before its close. The first ominous turn of events came in a fortnight. I could not describe it better than David has done in his book, "A King's Story."

"On Thursday afternoon, Jan. 16, I was out shooting with Ernest say this: whatever he may have been thinking or feeling, he loyally played his part. At Eastertime, David proposed taking the Hunters and us to Cornwall to see the famous camellia and rhododendron gardens at the height of their bloom. Ernest could not have been more charming. It was almost like the trips into the English countryside when he was first teaching me about his country. Nor did he ever show a sign of strain or stress in his demeanor during our weekends at the Fort, which were now constant.

THIS was the year of the Silver Jubilee, the national celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of King George V's accession to the British Throne. Dominion Prime Ministers, Indian princes, African potentates, sheiks, tribal chieftains, and other lords and masters of the Empire assembled from the far corners of the earth to pay homage to a beloved sovereign. Every evening there were state dinners, balls, and celebrations of every sort.

Because of David, Ernest and I were invited to the State Ball at Buckingham Palace on May 14. After the King and Queen had made their entrance and taken their seats on the dais at the end of the room, the dancing began. As David and I danced past, I thought I felt the King's eyes rest searchingly on me. Something in his look made me feel that all this graciousness and pageantry were but the glittering tip of an iceberg that extended down into unseen depths I could never plumb, depths filled with an icy menace for such as me.

Pre-Easter Trips East For St. Louis Travelers

By Marilee Chadeayne Martin

NEW YORK, Feb. 25. THE longest period of the school year, with little break in studies or in the weather, is the time from Christmas to Easter—this year very late in April—and gives many St. Louis parents a good excuse for mid-term visits with their sons and daughters attending Eastern schools. For the youngsters it often means a long, gay weekend in Manhattan, filled with Broadway shows, dining out in celebrated clubs and restaurants, movies in Times Square, hotel excitement and innumerable taxi rides and shopping along Fifth Avenue.

Such was the case for Clare Shepley, who attends Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Conn., when her parents, the Arthur B. Shepleys, came to town last weekend. The threesome stayed at the St. Regis, right in the heart of the Fifth Avenue shopping area, and during their visit Judy and Arthur Shepley took Clare to see two of the most popular Broadway musicals, "Auntie Mame," with Rosalind Russell, and the new Judy Holiday hit, "Bells Are Ringing." For Clare it was added excitement to go to several movies, in addition, in the brightly-lit movie-house mecca of Times Square.

Newell Augurs See Sons in Manhattan.

THE Newell A. Augurs were also in town for 10 days during which they saw their two boys who came in from school to spend a long weekend with them at the St. Regis. Newell Jr., a junior at Yale, was in from New Haven and Harrison from Lakeville, Conn., where he is a freshman at Hotchkiss. Their Manhattan stay was mainly spent theater-going, and after the boys returned to school, Trimble and Newell Augur caught up on visits with New York friends who formerly lived in St. Louis, including Miss Berkeley Sloan and Mrs. Harry Nessler.

Mr. and Mrs. Augur left Manhattan yesterday for Annapolis, Md., where they will visit friends at nearby Edgewater on Chesapeake Bay. They expect to be back in St. Louis the end of next week.

A flying trip East this week, also to see a son at school, was made by Mrs. Albert B. Blanke, who also stayed at the St. Regis. Ruth Blanke flew to Boston to spend a day with her son, Michael Humphreys, a student at Harvard, and followed that with a few days in New York seeing friends and shopping. While here Ruth saw another St. Louisan, Jan Langan, who flew in last Friday and has been at the Plaza all week.

Jan was one of the lucky ones to have tickets for the Metropolitan Opera Monday night to "Das Rheingold," the long-awaited opening of the first Nibelungen Ring cycle, the first to play New York in six years. The next night she saw one of the newest Broadway comedies, the sparkling Joseph Fields-Peter De Vries show about Westport, Conn., "The Tunnel of Love." This weekend Jan boards another plane to fly south to Nassau where she will spend another week visiting friends from New York.

Vacationers in the Caribbean.

MORE and more the winter-vacation minded are taking advantage of the bright southern islands in the Bahamas and Caribbean area and this year promises to be their most plush season. Leaving by plane yesterday for Harbor Island in the Bahamas were Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Plant McCaw of Rye, N.Y., who will stay at the Pink Sands for three weeks. Plant and Louise McCaw's favorite tropical pastime is bone fishing, the new aquatic sport of catching the beautiful flat fish which inhabit the shallow hollows near the shore.

Louise McCaw's mother, Mrs. Warren Goddard of St. Louis, came East to wish her son-in-law and daughter happy hunting, arriving in Manhattan a week ago. Mrs. Goddard's rush trip to New York had a double purpose, since she also saw her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. N. Dean Jay (Anne Augustine), who flew in from Paris and were here for several days before traveling south to Jamaica. The Jays have lived in Paris for many years but still maintain an apartment in New York on East Seventy-second street. They departed Wednesday for Jamaica and will be back in Manhattan in two weeks and stay until the first of April when they will return to France.

Mrs. Goddard took her leave of Louise and Plant McCaw Thursday and moved on to New England to visit friends in Springfield, Mass., for the weekend. From there she will fly to Detroit the first of the week to meet her daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Goddard (Peg Henkle). Peg and George and their family are in the process of moving to Detroit from Oklahoma City, where they have lived for several years. Peg drove to St. Louis earlier this week with her three children, Margaret Gale, Anne and John Wallace, left them to be cared for at her mother-in-law's home on East Polo drive, and then continued to Detroit. She and Mrs. Goddard plan to look for a house for Peg and George and subsequently, hoping for early success, will motor back to St. Louis. George, who has remained in Oklahoma City, will join his family in St. Louis next month and they hope to be moved to Detroit by the first of April.

Darlingtons in New York for Wedding.

IN New York for a wedding last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Bullitt Darlington of Philadelphia (Joan Thomas), who came to town for the marriage of Dick Darlington's sister, Miss Maria Bullitt Darlington, daughter of the William Marshall Darlingtons of Pamona Hill, West Chester, Pa., to Wilfred Sheed, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sheed (Maise Ward) of London, England, well-known book publishers of the London-New York firm, Sheed and Ward.

Dick Darlington served as one of the ushers at the ceremony, which took place last Saturday at St. Thomas More Church on East Eighty-ninth street. Joan Darlington, who has lived in Philadelphia since her marriage several years ago, is a daughter of the John Richard Thomases of St. Louis.

Miss Jane Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cunningham Jr., 808 South Watson road, Ladue, recently was named to the Dean's List at Briarcliff College, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., where she is a freshman, for having achieved a "B" or better average for the first semester.

A St. Louisan, Miss Caroline Clarkson, has been elected secretary of the junior class at Vassar College. Miss Clarkson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Turner Clarkson, 10 Greenbriar, Ladue.

At Smith College

Webster Groves Resident to Move West

MRS. Joseph H. Williams, 24 South Gore avenue, is being honored at several parties before she departs the middle of next month to make her home at the Casa Manana, La Jolla, Calif. Mrs. Edwin Lemoine Skinner, 100 Orchard avenue, and Mrs. Walter Rumsey Skinner, 415 East Argonne drive, Kirkwood, will give a luncheon and theater party tomorrow afternoon.

Friday afternoon, Mrs. J. Carr Gamble, 124 East Swon avenue, Miss Leonelle Gamble, 725 South Skinner boulevard, St. Louis, and her sister Mrs. Perlee E. Burton, 204 East Swon avenue, gave a tea at the Burton home. Dr. Edward H. Keyes had a luncheon at the University Club recently honoring Mrs. Williams and Mrs. William O. Reeder, 330 North Skinner boulevard, who has moved to Midvale, Tex.

Mrs. Elmer H. Jacobsmeier, 601 Locksley place, entertained the group of friends who play sambo together at a luncheon at her home, Feb. 15, for Mrs. Williams.

Mrs. Williams' home has been purchased by Dr. and Mrs. O. M. Ringencourt, who now live at 2622 Woodview court, Bel Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Canavan, 344 Bristol road, will return home the end of the week from a several weeks' trip to Florida. They divided their time between Sanibel Island and Naples. En route home, they plan to stop at Natchez, Miss.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Grable, who are spending the winter at their home in Clearwater, Fla., entertained a group of relatives and friends at a dinner Feb. 12 to celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary. The Grables live here at West Kirkham road.

The Webster Groves Dance Club will have a party Saturday night at the Monday Club, starting at 9:30 o'clock. Earlier in the evening the members will attend one of two cocktail parties. Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Walker, 403 Hawthorne avenue, will give one of the affairs, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Murdock, Mr. and Mrs. William Bedell and Mr. and Mrs. James Stuart.

The other party will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brill.

MacMurray Alumnae To Hold Card Party

THE St. Louis Alumnae Club of MacMurray College for Women, Jacksonville, Ill., will hold its annual card party this evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of Famous-Barr's Northland store.

Mrs. Robert Holmes, vice president and program chairman, is in charge of the party. She has been assisted by Mrs. William Guthrie. Mrs. R. W. Mallick is in charge of refreshments. Mrs. Walter Meyer, prizes, and Mrs. Kurt Egen, reservations. Mrs. Valle Grossman is president of the club.

Further plans for the year include the St. Louis club's part in the MacMurray Alumnae Association's historical pageant to be held next June 1 at the college. Each of MacMurray's 34 alumnae clubs across the nation will send a member to be a model in the colorful pageant, which will be called "The Alumnae Album." The pageant will include a fashion show with costumes and songs from the various periods in the history of the school now 100 years old (the college was founded July 2, 1857).

The alumnae association is planning other activities to mark its centennial year. They include class reunions in June beginning with the golden anniversary of the class of 1907. More than 1000 of the $200 alumnae are expected to take part.

Heretofore a college for women, a men's dormitory will begin this fall on a campus next to the women's college.

Christian College Alumnae Club of St. Louis will give its annual card party Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. P. Ray Swank, 420 Oakwood avenue, Webster Groves. The school colors, blue and gold, will be used in decoration. Mrs. Lyman Bishop, general chairman, will be assisted by the following: Mrs. Roy W. Seal, Mrs. Robert W. Browning, Mrs. A. W. Elving Jr., Mrs. C. E. Gillum, Mrs. Fugh Haynes, Mrs. Jack Luper, Mrs. Gwen Springette and Mrs. Charles V. Wolfers.

Martha Carr's OPINION—

Dear Martha:

WHAT can be done to get a widowed mother-in-law to realize she is causing trouble in my home as well as in the home of her other son? Every holiday we have the same problem. If you ask her to spend the day she will not give you a definite answer but will wait to see how many other invitations she receives. When she does come, she does not offer to help until she knows everything is done. At our house, she is always wondering what is happening at the other places where she might have gone. To get attention she talks about her aches and pains, but she is always ready to put on her hat and coat and go somewhere. She has put her feet under the table at my home and the homes of others in the family every Christmas eve and Christmas day for the past 18 years and not once has she had them all over for just a casual evening. Now the question of vacations is coming up. No matter where we say we are going, that is just the place she always wanted to go. Her daughter has taken her occasionally and each time she talks about all the fun they had. I feel like a heel but I would rather stay home than take her. I don't know how I've put up with it all these years without blowing my top. I am under a doctor's care for nervous tension and I know I have had this resentment bottled up inside me all these years. If you can, Martha, please tell me what to do. I used to get mad at my husband about all her ways but nothing bothers him and after all it is not his fault.

Readers are requested to keep their letters short when writing to Martha Carr. For a personal reply include a self-addressed stamped envelope with the letter you send to Martha Carr, in care of the Post-Dispatch. Letters of a medical or legal nature cannot be answered.

DO OR DIE.

No, her idiosyncrasies aren't his fault, but he should try to protect his wife and children from her irritating manner and her apparent willingness to take advantage of others' hospitality without reciprocating. But since this doesn't seem to bother him, I believe all you can do is to try to reach that happy state yourself and stop building up all that resentment. No wonder you are nervous and tense and upset. Determine that you won't let it bother you. Invite her if you wish—and if it isn't convenient, don't—then let her decide whether to come. If she does, fine. Make her feel at home and let her wonder if she wishes what's going on somewhere else. I don't see why you should have to take her on vacations with the family or feel conscience-stricken when you leave her behind. It isn't as though she were all alone. You can't very well change her. But you can change your own thinking about her and make up your mind that even though she seems to be thoughtless, she cannot in reality disturb your family situation or make you miserable. Close your thoughts to her irritating ways.

Dear Martha:

I AM A BACHELOR in my mid-forties and I would very much like to know if there isn't some organization in St. Louis where I could go to meet the right kind of single women near my own age. I have belonged to several church groups but have found that most of the members are younger than I. I care nothing about hanging around the taverns or public dance halls. Just where can a person go to meet the kind of persons he wouldn't be ashamed to bring home to meet the folks?

LONESOME GEORGE.

There are plenty of places, George, and plenty of people who fit those requirements. I have a list of clubs for young adults and others for those between the ages of 30 and 50 and for senior citizens. I feel sure that somewhere on those lists you can find congenial friends if you will make the effort to visit the organizations. The lists will be mailed to any reader who requests them, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope with his letter.

A Charming Woman

By Ruth Millett

“WOMAN learns how to hate in proportion to the rate she forgets how to charm.” Who said that? Never mind, it doesn't really matter. What matters is that you remember it. It will save you much senseless anger. And it is sure to make a charming woman of you.

Petty anger rarely does anything for a woman but make her face hard, her voice harsh, her words cutting, and her actions often regrettable. But charm can win a woman most of the things she wants out of life. Charm helps her make and keep friends. It makes her everyday business dealings more pleasant. It often gives her a decided advantage over the woman who wears a chip on her shoulder.

Charm helps a woman to influence her family. Charm often helps a mother-in-law to win the love and respect of her daughter-in-law. It allows a daughter-in-law to stay in the good graces of a mother-in-law, even while gently but firmly refusing to let the mother-in-law interfere in the way she runs her own home. Charm helps a woman avoid quarrels and smooth over the unpleasantness of others. Charm makes it easy for her to influence others to do as she wishes.

But if a woman isn't willing to put charm to work for her—then she is bound to grow angry often. Her lack of charm is sure to turn people against her. It will make her ambitions more difficult to achieve and complicate almost everything she tries to accomplish.

When a woman chooses to go through life without trying to charm, she meets so many frustrations that anger soon becomes a habit. Next time you find yourself growing angry at another person, repeat those words: “Woman learns how to hate in proportion to the rate she forgets how to charm.”

Social Problems

By Emily Post

MOTHER writes: My son met a boy at camp last summer with whom he became great friends. The boy invited my son to spend a week at his family's house, and he had a grand time. Should I, perhaps, write the boy's mother expressing our appreciation or send her a gift? Should this be from the family or from my son? Just what would seem appreciative and be correct?

Answer: Write to the boy's mother and tell her how kind she was to give your son such a pleasant time; that he enjoyed every minute of it. Do not send a gift.

DEAR MRS. POST: Will you please tell me if it is still customary for a mother to second her son's invitation to a young lady whom he has invited to his house for a weekend? If so, will you kindly suggest what to write to a perfect stranger?

Answer: Yes, you must second your son's invitation. Simply write and say, “Dear Mary, John tells me that he has invited you to come and spend the weekend of the tenth at our house. I do hope you will come and I am looking forward with pleasure to meeting you.”

Suit from Ireland International Designer Pattern

IRENE GILBERT'S suits are creating a new furor in the fashion business, styled as they are with typical, easy-going Gilbert detail and flattering lines.

This one, which can be lined or unlined, has a fitted jacket with high bodice darts that are a continuation of the collar seam. The closing juts out into a point and there is an applied band at the hip line.

The slim skirt is gored in back with slight released flare towards the hem for graceful motion.

Ideal in wool, lightweight tweeds, bengaline and even novelty cottons, this designer-sized pattern is carefully perforated for accurate matching so that all the couturier touches can be simply but professionally duplicated.

From this chart select the one size best for you.

The Dean Speaks Up Enchanting Land of Sun and Flowers

By Adele Starbird

FORT-DE-FRANCE, Martinique.

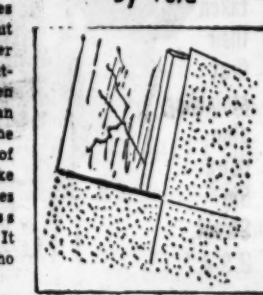

THE first morning of my journey the sun was coming up over the sea just as the plane lost altitude to swoop to a landing at San Juan in Puerto Rico. The sun didn't come up so much as it boiled up, molten and brilliant, turning the little clouds into golden bubbles.

The second morning I was surprised to find that it was not Tina's insistent paw tugging at my shoulder to drag me from sleep but the soft voice of an old servant, “Madame, vot ‘ti déjeuner est servi.” I awoke to a mysterious white world of mosquito netting and linen sheets; wooden shutters stood wide open—there is no glass or screen—and the room was flooded with sunlight and fragrant air.

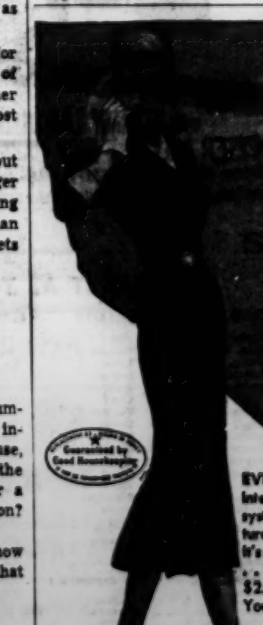

The tray contained the traditional French breakfast: a pitcher of hot milk, a pitcher of strong coffee, toast, sweet butter and marmalade. There were two tropical touches—the toast was in a little envelope of woven straw, and the mandarins still had their leaves and stems.

THE THIRD MORNING, before dawn and listened to the growing of cocks, the Angelus ringing from the cathedral, revelling sounds from the barracks, the songs of birds, and finally the strident horns of Renault cars and vivacious voices in the street. Fort-de-France, the capital of Martinique, was wide awake.

I am visiting a friend of my youth and her daughter in their town house, the oldest house in Fort-de-France; it is a perfect example of French colonial architecture, with two galleries extending the full length of the house and inclosed with an iron grill into which are set pots of flowers—carnations, chrysanthemums, orchids and phlox. The flower pots are made from the trunk of the tree fern which, being porous, is ideal for drainage.

The garden in front of the house is shut off from the street by a high iron fence with locked gates. It is a profusion of pink and white oleanders, roses, frangipani, jasmine, daisies and hibiscus; there is a lovely arched trellis of yellow ardisia in full flower; an old mango tree is in bloom; a solitary pheasant mourns his mate; a bougainvillea casts its episcopal mantle over a tree.

We have our after-luncheon coffee and our tea on the upstairs gallery. Men and women drop in; they all seem to be relatives; sometimes they are accompanied by little children and their nurses; there is a wonderful air of leisure and amiability. They talk about the plays and stores in New York or Paris; somebody is always about to take off for one of those cities, or has just returned. They leave their children with the grandmother and a “da” often the same nurse who took care of them during their childhood.

THE AIR of Martinique must have some magical quality; I can't believe that this pretty, modish young woman is the mother of 13 children, that Monique has nine and Gabrielle a mere seven. Yesterday several people came at once, among them a little girl, as I thought. It turned out that she was the mother of two babies, and that she was 20 years old.

There are only 2000 whites in Martinique. In novels and magazine articles they are described as the most rigidly closed and the most intemperate group of people in the world. One might expect them to be decadent and exhausted. Instead they are healthy and handsome, bubbling with vitality; with unaffected good manners. Tennessee Williams would have difficulty in finding a theme among them.

My Day

View on U.S. Pressures On Israel

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

IN the President's speech last Wednesday I was glad to note he took cognizance of the fact that he was putting pressure on Israel which could not be exerted on the Soviet Union. The President speaks of the United Nations as though it acted by itself. Actually it acts as its member nations wish to act, and the United States should be a leader of those member nations rather than taking counsel from their fears.

It seems to me the time has come to face the fact that what Israel asks is for some assurance from Egypt that it will accept what the U.N. decrees. Our backing has little value if we are always going to accept whatever Egypt says, yet never bring the same pressure to bear on Egypt and the Soviet Union that we bring to bear on Israel. I say “we” advisedly; for when we do not lead but knuckle under, we are still responsible for what happens in the U.N.

OF COURSE it is very difficult for the United States, given the State Department's influence in this matter, to see that the time has come for us to take a stand in opposition to an Arab state. It will be difficult to do so—but we cannot forever let our fear of hurting our oil interests give Nasser the advantage of calling every move in the Near East.

I realize, too, the grave implications of giving the Soviet Union a possible excuse to interfere if we insist that Egypt make some kind of commitment to keep both the Suez Canal and the Akaba Straits open to all shipping and to leave the Gaza Strip under U.N. supervision. But it can be pointed out that this is fair to the Soviets as well as to the United States.

THERE ARE two points we must consider. In the first place, economic sanctions can never be applied successfully to the Soviet Union. It operates in a sufficiently large area not to be as dependent on the West as Israel quite obviously is. Second, the case of Israel is somewhat different from the case of Great Britain and France. Great Britain and France have vital interests in the free passage of ships in the Suez Canal, but Israel took action in self-defense to save the existence of its people. The U.N. Charter does not demand that any country allow itself to be annihilated. The President's speech took cognizance of the threats by Egypt and other Arab states against Israel, but it did not show how really changed the situation and made completely reasonable Israel's demand for assurances that Egypt would obey the U.N.

Mixing Plain and Fancy

By Elizabeth Hillyer

WHAT is it that makes some furnishings with simple lines go so well with others that are much more elaborate?

What brings harmony to a combination of the modern and traditional, or of the American and the oriental?

One of the best answers to all these questions is uniform quality. When all of the furnishings are very good of their kind, there's the common denominator of excellence to bring them happily together. If it's fine modern furniture, it has the certain elegance of its own to take intricately designed traditional decorative accessories and good pictures of another time and country, to the great enhancement of the room.

Furniture like this, for example, relatively simple in outline as it is, has special elegance in its top of teakwood that shows pleat-cut emphasis of the wood grain, in the darker teakwood table base and chair frames and the fine details of upholstery and cane chair backs.

MRS. A. N. W. “If I decide on Italian Provincial furniture for my bedroom, must I use long draperies, or could I use still-length two-tier curtains with pinch-pleat tops?” Use the curtaining which is the best solution of your particular problem of regulating light, air, and privacy. The two-tier still-length curtains in a good quality fabric would be suitable.

Tasty Tricks

An emergency shelf stocked with canned meats and fish, several packages of biscuit mix, quick-cooking rice and potatoes provides provender for menu magic when unexpected guests drop in.

Wallpaper Hint

When buying wallpaper, always check the run number on the edge to be sure that the pattern and color of each roll will be an exact match. If the "run" numbers are different, there may be a slight variation in color.

Handy Tool

A small ear syringe is a handy tool for applying wood glue into small hard-to-reach spots.

Holding Power
Wood screws don't always hold too well when driven into end grain of wood. One way to provide greater holding power to the screws is to drill a hole through the width of the board near the end and then insert a wood dowel coated with glue into the hole. Use screws long enough to penetrate through the end of the board and into the dowel.

Window Shade Hint
When a window shade hasn't the strength to go up by itself, pull it all the way down and then roll it up on the roller by hand. This should tighten the spring enough to provide the necessary power to bring the shade up.

Black Walnut Bars
Ingredients: One cup sifted flour, one teaspoon double-acting baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup butter or margarine, one cup firmly-packed dark brown sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, one egg, 12 pitted dates (sliced), one-fourth cup moist shredded coconut, one-third cup chopped (medium-fine) black walnuts.
Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Melt butter in a medium-sized saucepan over low heat; remove from heat. Add brown sugar; blend well. Beat in egg and vanilla, then sifted dry ingredients. Stir in sliced dates, coconut and black walnuts. Turn into prepared eight-inch square pan that's two inches deep. (To prepare pan, grease bottom, line bottom with waxed paper; grease paper.) Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 25 to 30 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Turn out of pan on rack and strip off paper. When cool, place on cutting board and slice into small squares or bars. Store in tightly covered container.

Holding Power
Nails have greater holding power if they are driven into the wood at an angle rather than straight down.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

A YOUTH named George Lott writes me that he owns a telescope of moderate size and takes a keen interest in studying the sky. He adds: "It looks to me as if the moon was at one time a molten mass. Some parts of the surface look as if they had been hit by meteors."

For my part, I have had astonishing moments while looking at the moon through telescopes of various sizes. Even a high-powered instrument used in a university observatory gave me the impression, at first, that the moon looked like a peeled orange.

Closer study shows that the moon's surface has many holes in it. These have been described as craters, and the theory has been expressed that they are huge openings left by volcanoes.

Q. How many craters does the moon have?
A. On the side which is seen from the earth, 30,000 craters and "little craters" have been counted. Because the moon wobbles slightly, we see more than half of the surface. If we could check the complete moon, it is likely that the craters would be found to number between 55,000 and 60,000. This estimate is given on the basis of the probable truth—that the moon is nearly the same on the side we don't see as on the side we do see.
